

BOLL WEEVIL IS GETTING A HOLD

Effects of Diversified Farming Are Showing Very Effective Results.

CROP OF TOBACCO LARGE

By FRANK PARKER

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 14.—In view of the natural advantages which North Carolina has held in an agricultural way this year, it is interesting to get a glimpse of the prospective outcome. The boll weevil is just beginning to get a good hold on us, which means this is our last good cotton year, but is also means that the effects of diversified farming are showing effective results. The fruit crop have been extra good, as have most hay crops and early vegetables. Even tobacco and cotton, although hit by unfavorable weather seasons in the east, have brought very good prices. The improved prices may be aided by this year's competition in marketing advantages.

According to commercial traveling men, North Carolina was agriculturally and industrially in as favorable circumstances as any State in the Union. The effects of reaction and adverse agencies have been felt by the State as a whole, but lightly in comparison with other States. We are far better off than the middle western States where corn, hay, small grains are selling at destructively low prices. Being the last State to suffer from the boll weevil ravages, we have the advantage there.

Small grains in this State made low yields and are netting returns below cost. They make only a small part of the State's aggregate crop value.

Tobacco

With a prospective crop for this State of over 300,000,000 pounds and with a 144,000,000 pound sale to date by the independent warehouses, which is 41 per cent more than last year's auctions to the same day, it would seem that in spite of the co-operative deliveries that this year's crop will be more than 50,000,000 pounds greater than a year ago. The average price for October warehouse sales was 30 cents, as compared with 31 last year and 25 cents in 1920.

General

The average of crop yields this year, compared with the usual, shows that North Carolina is almost 7 per cent short. It is of interest to notice that Virginia is over 5 per cent above the average, while South Carolina and Georgia have almost one-third shortage in their crop yields. The National average is three and four-tenths per cent, below usual.

Prices

The prices of farm commodities for Nov. 1, 1922 are as follows: U. S. wheat, 98c.; 94c. last year. Potatoes 63c. vs. $1.23 last year. Sweet potatoes 81c. vs. 90c. Hay $11.00 vs. $11.15 for two years. Fruit $1.10 vs. $2.20 per bu. last year. Clover seed, $9.66 compared to $10.21 and peanuts 3.6c. vs. 4c. a year ago.

Sands Says Price of Weed Result of Pool

Oliver J. Sands, Executive Manager of The Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association, in a speech to more than a thousand growers gathered in enthusiastic mass meeting, recently said:

"We have not yet found any merchant, banker, business man or farmer, who would hesitate to say frankly that if it had not been for the Association the present prices being paid on the warehouse floors would not be in existence today. It is conceded by all tobacco men that the present crop of tobacco will yield in the Old Belt around 250,000,000 pounds net, whereas the last year's crop of tobacco, which was considered a short crop ran around 157,000,000 pounds and averaged $21.90. Therefore we think we have been of great service to the tobacco growers in the three states and will by a conservative estimate put $11,000,000 more money in this section than there would have been had the Association not been in existence."

People were killed in this country from falling accidents of all kinds at the rate of 34 a day during 1920.

No one ever heard of a knocker doing anything but stirring up trouble.

Every time we smoke a cheap cigar we resolve to quit smoking.

More Nature-Faking.

Nature can not jump from Winter to Summer without a Spring, or from Summer to Winter without a Fall.

Second Advance Pleases The South Carolina Growers

FLORENCE, S. C., Nov. 13.—Thousands of South Carolina tobacco growers are smiling today. Many bankers and merchants are happy too. Members of the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association are cashing checks at forty markets which they received as their second payment on tobacco delivered to their own association.

Oliver J. Sands, executive manager of the big co-operative addressed enthusiastic meetings at Kingstree and Florence today while Treasurer Craig talked to crowds at Fairmont and Dillon.

In introducing Mr. Sands here director T. B. Young referred to advertisement in today's newspaper signed Jas. H. Wilson to let the growers know what kind of a man they had turned out to honor, who as he said "Was giving his services to the association."

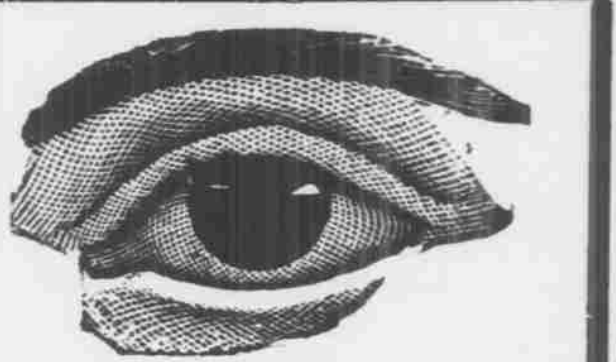

At the start of his speech Mr. Sands referred to the advice given out by enemies of the association who had told growers in Eastern North Carolina to light their cigars with their participation certificates, and the often repeated statement that the association would never make a second payment.

Declaring that co-operative marketing has fully demonstrated itself already, and that farmers have organized a great selling corporation and not a holding company, Mr. Sands challenged anyone in the court house to deny that co-operative marketing had already made prices higher this year. He paused a moment at this point but no one in his audience would deny this statement.

"You are selling South Carolina tobacco this year for the first time through your own experts, a corps of men who as a leading tobacco man has said are unequalled in the United States." Throughout his speech Mr. Sands was interrupted by applause as he recounted all the things the association had accomplished in its first year, and stressed the fact that he as a banker was interested in co-operative marketing because it would help everybody in business as well as the farmer.

"We have three and half million dollars in cash in Richmond to be used in the second payment in Eastern North Carolina and the old belt, and we hope to make another distribu-
