

KERR PRAISES LIFE OF TERRELL

Congressman Tells of Splendid
Character of Late Warren Plains Citizen

A LONG LIFE OF SERVICE

The touchstone of Mr. Terrell's life was fidelity to duty," Congressman Kerr wrote yesterday in an open letter to The Warren Record, praising the life and character of Captain Billy Terrell who was buried at Warren Plains on Monday.

Judge Kerr's tribute:

"I do not think that you would deny any one the right to finally upon record and express through your valuable paper a simple tribute to the memory of our deceased friend and our universally beloved countryman, William Solomon Terrell. I would hesitate to do so if I had neglected to acquaint myself of my great esteem and admiration while he was here upon this earth and while he in the flesh shared among us and by his life inspired among us all to the highest endeavor of human service and to a Christian fellowship which will endure among the highest of all those who ever graced this earth. He knew that I admired and loved him, and I betray no secret to him, and I betray no secret to his spirit in yonder world, for I do not write for myself alone, for there were many others who were closer to him than I have ever been and who doubtless knew more of his unalloyed virtues, but for these I also express their pride in his friendship and love for his Christian character.

"It cannot be that any who attended the funeral services of Mr. Terrell last Monday afternoon were not impressed by the reverential devotion of those hundreds of people who were there to pay a last tribute to their benefactor, their neighbor and the finest embodiment of Christian character they have ever known. Mr. Terrell was a simple, child-like Christian. He was too unselfish to undertake to solve the mysteries of God and of his life, he was wise enough to accept the life of Christ and to walk in His footsteps.

"The songs that were sung, the words which were uttered and the prayers breathed on this occasion, were just as he would have them; the place was his church, the work of his highest endeavor, the rock of his God and the fortress and only one on this earth which could resist the power of evil and the approach of sin. His body rests where he would have it—surrounded by the scenes of his life-time and among those with whom he had labored for more than twenty years.

"The touchstone of Mr. Terrell's life was fidelity to duty. Can there be any more worthy, especially when this purpose embraces faithfulness to both God and man? I think not. He was the employee of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company, before the organization of this company, it was the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, for more than 50 years. No other man ever served this corporation so long and if he had lived 50 years longer his name would have been upon its pay roll, for even a cold corporation can and will reward a service so clean and so true and so faithful and so correct which, in my opinion, has been rarely equalled and never surpassed at any time in any capacity.

"Mr. Terrell had modest but great pride in the many manifestations of appreciation on behalf of his employer for the service he so faithfully rendered. He was called upon to give his county by the people of Warren, and on two occasions was elected by large majorities to the office of county treasurer; in this office he brought the touchstone of his life, and no people ever had a more faithful or correct public official. In the family in which he was born and in which he was reared, he faithfully instilled those great virtues in his children, which point men and women to God's standard and enrich human life.

"But above all—it was 'Billy' Terrell, the simple, child-like Christian in his office, in his home and in his church. It was the life he lived in his community, which impels us to love and admire him and to strive to emulate his walk and way. He did every thing he undertook well—this world does not demand that you be a physician, a lawyer, a farmer, or a merchant, but it does demand that whatever you do undertake, that you do it

FISHING VILLAGE IN SHADOW OF SKYSCRAPERS

CHICAGO, Ill.—What appears like a typical fishing village on the bleak coast of Massachusetts is the headquarters of Fred Walmer and his fishing crew who operate at Kinzie Street in the shadow of Chicago's loop skyscrapers. The miniature fishing village and the men that work in it have been supplying Chicago with fish for the last 16 years.

Coleman Speaks-Up For Wise Community

Taking exception to an article by Mrs. Charlotte Story Perkinson of Wise, H. C. Coleman of South Hill, formerly of the Wise community, writes an open letter to the editor of The Warren Record this week with request for publication. Mr. Coleman says:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who to himself hath never said
This is my own, my native land."

When the land of ours nativity is being held up for even friendly ridicule the spirit of natural pride swells within us and prompts resentment to such comments, even though such comments are cloaked under the guise of friendship.

Mrs. Perkinson in her article in the Sunday, July 7th, News and Observer, headed, "The Small Town Grows Up," sees fit to advertise to the world what she condemned as the narrow customs and thoughts of the people of Hawtree 20 years ago. Being a native of this section, and related by ties of blood and friendship to practically every family in this section referred to I beg of you, Mr. Editor, space to condemn certain allusions by the author of the above article.

Mrs. Perkinson evidently came to Wise through the missionary spirit and was unable at the time of her arrival to see anything admirable, commendable or desirable until such could be improved upon as a result of her efforts. She refers in a condescending way to the "old wooden school house," and intimates a criticism of the fact that the "pupils were studying the dictionary" and getting answers (definitions) to the words.

It is very probable that had Mrs. Perkinson given equal or more attention to the very method she ridicules she would not have been guilty of mistaking a deep well for an "artesian well," and calling these same wells "artesian wells" as she did in her article. I personally know that the principal in this "old wooden school-house" would have blushed with shame to have ever known that one of his senior pupils went away from this "old wooden school-house" so ignorant as to call a deep well an "artesian well." There are no artesian wells in Wise, or any other part of Warren county. Please get this from a pupil of this "old wooden school-house" that studied his "dictionary" and wrote the meanings to the words.

She concluded the section looked "wild and woolly" after the first day's stay. Such a statement is absurd. Hawtree was and has been for 50 years one of the most progressive sections of Warren county, and Warren county one of the most progressive counties of the State, with two rail-roads within its borders, and they always a sign of progress. Hawtree 20 years ago was in a high State of progressiveness. Represented by more than her proportional number of her sons in the list of county officials, with two of the strongest rural churches in the county within her borders, a special school tax district laid off for her children, and one of the mightiest financial factors of this part of North Carolina and Virginia a native of and residing in her midst, there is no justification whatever for the picture of backwardness drawn by Mrs. Perkinson.

She intimates an apology for the present school conditions of Hawtree's "geographical position near the Virginia line." I gladly condemn for the people of Hawtree any such slur at their neighboring Virginians to whom most of us are

$52,000 County Bonds Sold Premium $101.20

HALIFAX, July 17.—Fifty-two thousand dollars of county bonds were sold here yesterday at 5 1-4 and premium of $101.20 to N. S. Hill & Co. of Cincinnati. The bonds were for refunding purposes and in the interest of economy in Government, it is understood. Twelve firms placed bids.

All members of the board of county commissioners, with County Attorney George Green, were present and in complete agreement upon the sale. No other business was discussed. Thirty-two thousand dollars of the bonds represented Court House issues and $20,000 road construction. They were issued in denominations of $1000 and are to mature $2,000 annually from June 1, 1930, to June 1, 1937, inclusive, and $3,000 annually from June 1, 1938, to June 1, 1949. The refunding was in accord with an act of the general assembly of 1929, and the bonds were approved by a New York firm as to all phases of legality and soundness.

In a statement of the general condition of the county which was sent from the office of Register of Deeds W. T. Clement, the following facts were set forth in reference to fiscal conditions in Halifax:

The estimated value of property was given at $70,000,000, an assessed valuation of $39,251,495. The population in 1920 was 43,755, now it is believed to be 55,000. The gross receipts in 1928 were given at $653,543.20. The tax rate at $1.50. The bonded debt, including the issue of yesterday, is $1,544,000, less $432,000 already provided as sinking fund. The net bonded debt, therefore, being $1,112,000. There is no pending legislation, his report said, and the county was not in default in payment of any interest or debt.

BOARD RULES IN HEALTH MATTERS

All Children Must Be Vaccinated Successfully Before Entering School In Fall

NURSE TO HAVE OFFICE

All school children of Warren county who have not been vaccinated successfully will have to thus be protected against smallpox before entering school this fall, according to the law of the State and in line with the policy announced here yesterday by the Warren County Board of Health. Parents may have their children vaccinated by the family physician when desired but Mrs. Joe Jones, the county nurse, is equipped and prepared to give the treatment.

Inspection will be made during the first two weeks of school to see that this provision of public health has been followed. Commenting yesterday upon the ruling, J. Edward Allen, superintendent of education, said that he hoped that compliance with the law would be general and that the earlier children were vaccinated the better it would be for general school conditions.

Starting in September, Mrs. Jones will examine all school children of the county for remedial physical defects. Parents will be notified and advised what treatment is necessary.

The Board of Health yesterday stressed the fact that the county nurse was to visit immediately any pellagra or tubercular patients when a report was made by any physician. The patient and those of the family were to be instructed briefly in the care and treatment of these diseases.

Regular hours will be kept by the nurse at the Court House in order that any matter of general health may be brought to her attention and in order that people may confer with her about individual cases. Mrs. Jones will be in her office from 9 to 9:30 each morning and from 4 to 4:30 o'clock each afternoon.

Stricter enforcement of the quarantine law was another matter touched upon by the Board of Health. The nurse was instructed to see that this law was generally obeyed.

Dr. C. N. Sisk of the State Board of Health was in conference with the local board. The five members of the board are John Clay Powell, J. Edward Allen, Frank H. Gibbs, Dr. P. P. Hunter and Dr. G. H. Macon. All were present and Joe Powell, who acts as secretary to the body.

GUIDES NIGHT FLYERS

OAKLAND, Calif.—R. Clay Jackson of Oakland, Calif., demonstrating his new device to guide night flyers approaching an airport. In the center of the airport Jackson plans to lay eight trenches like the spokes of a wheel, each faced with heavy plate glass capable of sustaining the weight of an airplane or other vehicle. The individual trenches are wired separately to a rotary switch or commutator, driven by a wind-vane located on the landing field. As the wind-vane revolves it switches current and light into the trench which lies into the wind, illuminating it and notifying the night flyer of the wind's direction.

Mrs. Perkinson Writes Of Life Capt. Terrell

By CHARLOTTE S. PERKINSON

In the passing of Captain William S. Terrell on Sunday afternoon, July 14th, Warren county lost a useful and highly respected citizen, and Warren Plains, known in the years gone by as the depot, lost one of its oldest residents, a well beloved and most familiar figure.

Mr. Terrell was born 73 years ago next December, the son of Dr. Thomas Jefferson Terrell of Wake county and Olivia Roles of Wake county, one of a family of eighteen children, of whom only one, a sister, Mrs. Martha (Pattie) H. Perkinson of Wise survives.

He married Anne Harris of Warrenton with whom he lived very happily for 47 years. Mrs. Terrell died three years ago. One son and one daughter, W. S. Terrell Jr. of Warren Plains and Mrs. John F. Vaughan of Raleigh, and six grandchildren, W. S. Terrell III, Molly Ann, Alice Louise Terrell, Miss Anne William, and John Vaughan Jr. survive. Capt. Terrell is also survived by a large number of nieces and nephews, children of his deceased brothers and sisters to whom through many years he has often been as father, always ready to give helpful advice and to give of his means if necessary. Perhaps this is his reason for being such an interested and strong supporter of the orphanage work. All children could look to him as their friend.

Capt. Terrell prized highly a service pin given him in recognition of his more than half century of service to the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, he having served as agent at Warren Plains continuously for over 56 years, up to the time he was taken acutely ill about two months ago.

For a period of more than 30 years Mr. Terrell has been superintendent of the Warren Plains Baptist Sunday school and for over 25 years has acted as treasurer of the church. He was also a member of the Masonic Order and served as county treasurer for a period of three years until the office was abolished.

Funeral services were held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. E. Brickhouse. Persons came from all parts of the county, enough to twice fill the church, bearing mute testimony to the esteem in which Capt. Billy was held.

Active pallbearers were H. C. Weaver, R. K. Carroll, G. R. Frazier, J. E. Frazier, W. E. Hawks and N. B. Weldon. Honorary pallbearers were Dr. G. H. Macon, C. E. Jackson, C. R. Rodwell, J. M. Gardner, J. E. Rooker, E. S. Allen, Howard F. Jones, Alex. Katzenstein, Congressman John H. Kerr, E. C. Overby, G. W. Hester, and W. G. Rogers.

B COMPANY WINS STATE RIFLE CUP

Sgt. Duke Jones Makes Highest Score Among 'Non-Coms.' of Regiment

COMING HOME SUNDAY

MOREHEAD CITY, July 18.—The highly prized Marksmanship's cup of the 120th Infantry, North Carolina National Guards, rests tonight secure in the care of B Company which won the regimental trophy with an average of 178 1-3. The boys didn't know how to miss, and tonight there is joy in the officers mess and whoopee on Company street.

Sergeant William Duke Jones was the highest enlisted man in the regiment, scoring 232 from a possible 250. Sgt. Jones, who last year went to Camp Perry, and who has been and is one of B's most enthusiastic members, will be on the roster of the State team.

And not alone are the boys sun-tanned and happy over their firing but the company also made an enviable mark in athletics. Captain Bower's men have acquitted themselves with honor.

Tents will be struck Saturday and with a farewell to range, company street, surf, B's men will begin the movement home. They will reach Warrenton about noon Sunday.

Tourists Frighten Ruben With Report

"You have just killed a man. Come on back with us and help us take him out of the road."

Two South Carolina tourists were addressing H. Ruben, proprietor of a store at Warrenton, as he stood by his car at a filling station near Kittrell on Wednesday afternoon. "What's that," the merchant exclaimed in distress. "I haven't hit anybody."

"Yes, you did," they told. "You just passed us a few minutes ago at the bottom of the hill about a mile back. When we got to the top of the hill we found a man lying in the road and blood. We didn't meet any one and no one passed us."

"I didn't hit anybody and I'm not going back, but I'll wait here," Mr. Ruben said.

Seven or eight volunteers went to the scene, and presently came back to relieve Mr. Ruben's mind and to remove the pall of gloom. They found a man in the highway, apparently dead, but he was a local sufferer from epilepsy. He had walked into the road from the woods, with a bucket of blackberries, and fallen, crushing the blackberries to add a touch of gore to the highway.

Friends Generous To Library This Week

A very attractive shelf of books, a valuable addition to the children's section, as presented to the library, on their return from New York last week by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Gibbs. The books are new and artistic in design and treatment. That they measure up to the standard, which requires that children's books must be able to hold the attention of adults as well as children, is attested by the interest visitors of all ages have shown in them since they have been on display at the library.

Expressions of cooperation and interest have come to the library in various forms during the week. In books, cut flowers, assistance with children's hour and refreshments for the story-telling hour. We are indebted to Mrs. C. R. Rodwell, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Mary Eleanor Grant for flowers or books, to the Boyce Drug Co. for providing refreshments for children's hour, and to Mayor and Mrs. F. H. Gibbs for their splendid contribution to the children's section of the library.
