To Hold Art Exhibit At Memorial Library

Those who attended the art exhibit at the library last year again will have an opportunity to view works of note and, if desired, make purchases at the Warren Memorial library from October 21-26, it was announced this week.

The exhibit will be sponsored by the Woman's club, which was responsible for that of last year when oil paintings were on display. This year etchings and woodblocks will compose the exhibit. The exhibits will be by artists of note and it is freely predicted that many citizens will attend.

The pictures this year will be supplemented by a demonstration exhibit, which is in itself most interesting and gives a very good idea of the process of etching and woodblock printing, according to a local citizen who has made a study of the subject.

The pictures are lent to the local Woman's club through the courtesy of the American Federation of Arts.

Miss Mahood Writes For Home Companion

This month's Woman's Home Companion carries a story, "The Jolly Jack-o'-Lantern," which was written by Miss Julia B. Mahood of Lynchburg, a member of the faculty of the John Graham high school. It is run in their department, "The Jolly Juniors" and is a story for children, written around Halloween, with the pumpkin, black cats, witch, broomstick and moon woven into the story.

Many friends here are congratulating Miss Mahood. She joins three other persons in Warren who have been selling stories to national publications. W. T. Polk, Mrs. Van K. Davis and Mrs. Charlotte Story Perkins have had several stories published within the past six months.

Judge Orders Three Other Men Jailed In Ormsby Murder Case

"Butler Jones, Frank Braswell, Rhoden Davis," the voice of the law broke upon a tense court room. Judge Small had just sentenced Harvey George on Wednesday to not less than two nor more than five years for the death of E. D. Ormsby on the Warrenton-Macon road July 4.

The three men, who had been witnesses in the case, came before the bar.

"Sheriff, these men are in your custody. Place them in jail. Mr. Clerk, have the grand jury to come into court on Thursday."

The other defendant in the original indictment, Rufus Fisher, was freed. The case did not go to the jury as George's attorneys, after a long conference, submitted him as being guilty of manslaughter.

Yesterday Harvey George was talking to the grand jury in secret session. Jones, Braswell and Davis were in jail.

Jones and Braswell are young white men. Rhoden Davis is a negro.

The jury commenced hearing testimony in the case near noon on Tuesday. On the night of July 4, upon the request of Harvey George, Constable R. O. Snipes and Deputy Sheriff Frank Neal went from the service station at the intersection of the Macon and Liberia road to a spot on the State highway about a mile and a half from Warrenton. There the officers found E. D. Ormsby, a textile worker, badly battered but still alive. Lying near him was Rufus Fisher in a drunken stupor, both were on the hard-surfaced section of the highway on the right hand side of the road with their heads facing toward Warrenton.

The officers went first to Ormsby and made a brief examination. His left arm was broken and there was a scar upon his head. They then turned their attention to Fisher, lifting him from the road. As they started for Ormsby a car driven by E. O. Falkner of Henderson came over the slight incline and passed completely over Ormsby's body, dragging it for about 15 or 20 feet.

Mr. Falkner said that his wheels did not touch Ormsby's body. Lights of an approaching car, he testified, blinded him. He stopped his car and came later to Warrenton where he was released by the coroner's jury. They ordered Harvey George and Fisher held.

When George came to the filling station, the officers testified, that he told them some one had robbed him and taken the switch key out of his car. When they reached the scene of tragedy, George remained in the officers' car. Falkner testified that when he stopped George came over and said, "You was running down the road at 60 miles an hour and have killed a man." Snipes testified that he heard George make that statement.

Evidence was brought into the court that there had been a general get-together during the late afternoon in a woods near the scene of death. The State offered a suspender buckle picked up near the fence under which, witnesses believed, some one had been pulled. It was a similar buckle to the one found on Ormsby, Coroner Pinnell said.

Blood stains were found on George's car light and hair on the radius rod, several witnesses said. The State summoned as witnesses for the trial 21 citizens. Many of these drove by the scene of the accident just after it happened. State witnesses were N. A. Jackson, J. W. Lisle, Butler Jones, Tump Jones, D. M. Weaver, Louis J. Taylor, James Boyce, B. P. Robinson, John Mayfield, Brown Crinkley, Frank Crossan, Rhoden Davis, R. O. Snipes, F. H. Neal, V. T. Reavis, E. H. Pinnell, Joe Braswell, Frank Braswell, Dr. W. D. Rodgers, Dr. G. H. Macon, Travis Ormsby.

George and Fisher were defended by George Green of Weldon and Williams & Banzet. Solicitor Parker was assisted in prosecution by Polk & Gibbs.

What the grand jury will develop and another court reveal in reference to the death of Mr. Ormsby remains to be seen.

Feast Is Postponed When Pot Drops

Editor of Warren Record, Sir:—Last Tuesday night a small crowd of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. G. H. Miller to enjoy a rich Brunswick stew which was cooked with care, and thick with chicken and meats. The stew was done and ready to serve about 8 o'clock. It was to be served at the tobacco barn. As they were carrying it from the house to the barn the stick through the handle broke, the pot fell, the bottom came out and it all spilled. The crowd of people that followed frowned and walked off.

The dogs smiled as to say, people prepare for themselves and the Lord prepare for us. But it was renewed last night with barbecue which was enjoyed by the same crowd, however the rain broke up the games and washed much pleasure away.

WILL HOLD BOYD FUNERAL TODAY

Prominent Warrenton Citizen Dies Wednesday Following Lingering Illness

AT ONE TIME AN EDITOR

Funeral services for Henry A. Boyd, 74, who died at his home here Wednesday evening at 11:45 o'clock, will be held from the Methodist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with the Rev. B. P. Robinson and the Rev. Dr. J. T. Gibbs conducting the services. Interment will be in Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Boyd was born in Warren county in July of 1855. After attending neighborhood schools he went to Randolph-Macon college in the Fall of 1871 where he was graduated with the degree of A. M. After reading law at Richmond, he came to Warrenton in January of 1880 and commenced the practice of law with the late Judge Charles A. Cook about 1882.

Being particularly interested in public affairs, though never an aspirant for public office, Mr. Boyd soon after coming here bought The Warren News, a weekly paper, which he and the late Tasker Polk ran for several years. When Claude Kitchin first ran for Congress from the second district, Mr. Boyd seconded his nomination in the convention.

After the severance of the partnership with Judge Cook, he followed the practice of law independently until 1902 when a malignant attack of typhoid sapped his vitality. Afterward he became associated with the late Ben Green and this partnership held until Mr. Green's death. From 1904 to 1906 he was associated with Senator B. B. Williams. Mr. Boyd retired from active business a number of years ago.

He was mayor of the Town of Warrenton for two terms and was a member of the board of trustees of the Warrenton high school. Mr. Boyd was a steward of the Methodist church and was superintendent of the Sunday school for 46 years.

On September 28, 1881, Mr. Boyd and Miss Bettie Norwood of Warrenton were married. She survives and the following children: W. N. Boyd, Mrs. W. A. Graham of New Bern, and Miss Mariah Boyd of Warrenton. Mr. Boyd is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Panthea Masensburg of Warrenton and Mrs. Mollie B. Ware of Covington, Tenn., and by two brothers, Will Boyd of near Warrenton and John R. Boyd of Littleton. He was a brother of the late Walter B. Boyd of Warrenton and of the late Ed Boyd of South Hill, Va.

COURT TO ADJOURN FOR BOYD FUNERAL TODAY

Warren Superior Court will adjourn this afternoon about 2:45 o'clock in order that court officials may attend the funeral of Henry A. Boyd, for many years a leading lawyer of Warrenton. Motion for adjournment was made by Senator B. B. Williams after the death had been announced to the court by Congressman John H. Kerr.

In his remarks to the court yesterday morning Judge Kerr said, "When I came to Warren county, Mr. Boyd was the leading lawyer here and the most powerful factor in the county. He always remained faithful and true in the days which tried men. He had the respect of all, not alone as a strong, fearless lawyer, but as a true Christian gentleman as well."

Crew Sworn In As Practicing Attorney

James Winfield Crew Jr. of Pleasant Hill, Northampton county, was sworn in as a practicing attorney before Judge Walter M. Small here Monday afternoon. Solicitor R. Hunt Parker read the three oaths, and Mr. Crew was welcomed into the fraternity by the judge who advised him not to become discouraged if the first years of practice proved hard and unremunerative.

"A love of justice is the finest trait of a good lawyer, and you will find the older members of the fraternity always anxious to help you," the young lawyer was told. Mr. Crew was graduated from the law school of the University of North Carolina, and he plans, it is understood, to attend Harvard law school this Fall. His father is one of the most successful farmers of his section.

Grand Jury Reports All Well With The County's Affairs

All seems well in government circles in Warren county, according to the report of the grand jury made on Tuesday afternoon to Judge Walter M. Small. The body recommended that work be done on the road leading to the Home for the Aged and Infirm, and added a word of praise for the installation of a steam heating plant in the Court House.

Judge Small did not discharge the jury after accepting their report with the thanks of the court, but dismissed them unless something further might appear which needed their attention. Wednesday they were called again and were in session yesterday due to developments in the George-Fisher-Ormsby case.

The report submitted by Foreman Paul B. Bell follows:

"We, the Grand Jurors, selected for the above said term, beg to make the following report:

"We have examined witnesses and passed on nine bills presented to us by the solicitor, R. Hunt Parker, and have found eight true bills and one not a true bill.

"We have made seven presentments.

"We have visited our county home and find the cottages well kept and the eighteen or twenty inmates of the home appear to be happy and well cared for, the cottages occupied by the colored inmates needed some repairs, especially porches on two. We were told by the superintendent, however, the County Commissioners intended replacing each year one of the buildings until all of the worst ones had been replaced.

"The road leading to the county home is in an unnecessarily poor condition and we hope the County Commissioners will see fit to see that something is done. The Superintendent says that in the winter time the road is impassable.

"We visited the several offices of the Clerk of Court, Register of Deeds, Auditor and Sheriff, in the Court house and found them in a satisfactory condition, and that the County Commissioners were improving the building by adding a heating plant.

"We visited the jail and found upon inspection that the rooms and cells were well kept and in a sanitary condition. The back yard has been fenced in which the Grand Jury thinks a very great improvement. The jailer, however, thinks it would be preferable if only property belonging to the county and the jailer be allowed on the lot.

"Having thus completed our duties as we understand them, we respectfully ask that unless there is some other duty we have overlooked or some other matter which should be brought to our attention that your honor discharge us."

Off Roads At 12; Robs Within 8 Hours

Discharging one debt to the State for burglary at 12 o'clock one day, at 8 that night, Noah McCoy had entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bobbitt for the third time. Judge Walter Small said, "Not less than 15 or more than 20 years," and the young negro goes back to the penitentiary.

The youth, who came from down Littleton way, seems to have a mania for Mr. and Mrs. Bobbitt's home. He served time twice before for entering. This Spring he came back to the neighborhood from the roads at 12 o'clock and in eight hours he had entered the dwelling again. The negro is about 20 years old.

LAWYERS BATTLE IN MURDER CASE

Witnesses Being Examined When Court Recesses Late In Afternoon

COURT ROOM IS FILLED

With interested persons crowding all available space within the room and others peering within from the corridors, the State was fighting late yesterday afternoon to convict John Macon, negro who killed Sam Pinnell and wounded Robert Pinnell, of first degree murder. His two attorneys appointed by the Court, Joe Phippen of Littleton and Gilmer Overby of Warrenton, were battling for their client. A jury had finally been empaneled soon after the noon recess after many of the 100 men called as special venire had been rejected, the majority on the ground that they had formed the opinion that Macon was guilty. Court adjourned at 5:20 o'clock.

Crowds, which have been heavy all court, increased yesterday. The young negro was brought into court early this morning and the battle over his life began. Jurors finally selected are Gardner Shearin, J. P. Newsom, Sylvester King, Glenn H. Weldon, H. M. Johnston, R. M. Duke, C. D. Shearin, Y. H. Bobbitt, C. P. Pope, W. S. Newsom, J. W. King and J. C. Jones.

The story of the shooting was told the court yesterday by Coroner E. Hunter Pinnell, by Robert Pinnell, brothers of the slain man, and by Walter Mustian. They went to the home of Bessie Mitchell in Sandy Creek township to arrest John Macon on May 3. The negro was wanted by Franklin county officers. Sam Pinnell was with them.

He and Robert went to the back of the small house and Hunter Pinnell and Walter Mustian went to the front. The woman at first denied that Macon was there, it was said, but then he broke from the house, firing as he came. Sam and Robert Pinnell were struck and when Hunter Pinnell, hearing the firing, ran around the house, he said that Macon aimed at him. Pinnell dropped him with a load of shot, ran to him, and with Walter Mustian put handcuffs on him. He then turned to his brother Sam who told him "I'm shot through the heart. I'm going to die." And later, according to Mr. Pinnell, added, "I don't mind dying but I hate to leave my wife and children."

After the free for all shooting of the morning the two Pinnell men were rushed to Henderson where Sam Pinnell died at 11 o'clock that evening. The shooting occurred about 8 o'clock that morning. Robert Pinnell was confined to the hospital for weeks and is still suffering from his injuries of that day. Macon was treated for his wounds at Henderson, too, and later carried to Raleigh for safety.

Judge Small had not passed sentence yesterday upon Phil Tally, negro, who was indicted for secret assault upon Lannie King, white man who operated a store at Wise and who was shot several months ago. Mr. King was in court on crutches. After hearing some of the evidence, through counsel, Tally entered a plea of nolo contendere. T. J. Robinson indicted on the same charge was found not guilty.

L. C. Wayne, former barber here, plead guilty of skipping a board bill which he owed Bob Dowtin. He was taxed with the cost and ordered to pay into court for Dowtin $73 and to pay it before the January term.

Running into the Tarwater building, occupied by Boyce Drug Co., brought J. W. Carroll before the bar on a charge of reckless driving. He claimed that he struck the store on account of a mechanical defect in his car. The jury called it carelessness, and the judge who first sentenced him to 30 days on the roads, relented on account of the condition of the defendant's wife and told him to pay costs and pay into court $25 for Mrs. Tarwater.

Jailer Lovell may have another cook for four months. Anyway he has the custody of Jane Goode alias Jane Meredith. The judge told the jailer to work her at the jail or about the Court House. She was found guilty of bigamy.

Judgment was suspended against Charlie Ball who was operating a slot machine. He had the costs only to pay. He told the court that he did not know it was against the law.

A case against B. V. Moseley, who formerly operated a service station at the edge of town, was not proseed here, due to the fact that Judge Barnhill took the case under consideration when he sentenced Moseley to the roads in Halifax county where he was also
