

HIGH POWERED CARS PROVIDED FOR POLICE

Seventeen Chicago policemen went to Detroit by plane and brought back as many new squad Lincoln automobiles which will be equipped with radio sets, gongs, sirens, and shot gun racks. They are painted a bright orange color with the word "police" prominently shown on the top and sides. These cars are part of the drive sponsored by the Chicago Police Department to combat crime so that Chicago will be more attractive to visitors coming to the World Fair of 1933.

Testifies "Red Headed Man" Was Slayer Of Woman

GASTONIA, Sept. 26.—Naming of the individuals whom they saw firing shots at fleeing strikers and identification of the man who shot Mrs. Ella May Wiggins as a "Red headed man with a Panama hat" marked resumption of the inquest here yesterday into the death of Mrs. Wiggins at the hands of a mob on September 14.

After hearing the testimony of three persons who were riding on a truck loaded with Bessemer City members of the National Textile Workers Union, enroute to a meeting in Gastonia, and which was turned back on the outskirts of Gastonia by a mob, Coroner J. F. Wallace adjourned the inquest until Saturday, October 19.

Orders One Arrested
He ordered the arrest of "Old Man" Borders, a former watchman at the Loray Cotton Mills, who D. L. Case, a witness, testified was firing at fleeing men with a pistol. Several other persons were named as being present at the time of the shooting but witnesses said they did not know.

Solicitor John G. Carpenter announced that George Lingerfelt, driver of the truck, who had been held in $1,000 bail had been released. Six other men arrested at the time of the first session of the inquest on September 15, still are under bonds of $1,000 each.

Hole Made by Crutch
Fowler, who has only one leg, explained how a hole was made in the window glass back of the driver's seat on the truck. This hole had led to a theory that the shot that killed Mrs. Wiggins came from the front.

He said that when the collision between the truck and the automobile occurred his crutch knocked a hole in the back of the driver's seat.

The man who fired the shot was standing on an embankment to the left of the road, Fowler said.

"When I attempted to leave the place," Fowler testified, "this red headed man followed me and said 'you're trying to slip off aren't you?' He brought me back and took me to a car where four men were and they turned me loose."

Fowler said he lived at the Loray Mill strikers tent colony for four weeks but had moved.

Members of his race and white friends will learn with regret of his death. The Atlantic City paper says:

"Dr. Pompey Long Hawkins died at his home, 1813 Artie Ave., at 9 o'clock yesterday morning after a lingering illness. His family and close friends feared that the end was near for several days, nevertheless his death was a shock to them and the northside community. Dr. Hawkins came to the shore (Continued On Page 12)

Five Old Soldiers Present At Dinner Given By U. D. C.

Only five of the many who composed the valiant army that marched out to fife and drum for battle in the defense of State's rights and the land they loved in 1861-65, met in the quiet and peace of the Parish house of Emmanuel church here on Wednesday for the annual dinner given by the Daughters of the Confederacy. They were welcomed by the Rev. Dr. J. T. Gibbs, their pulse quickened by martial music played by Mrs. Hannah B. Arrington and Miss Ida Allen, and their physical comforts well looked to by the members of the chapter who served an excellent dinner in the basement of the parish house.

Then they commenced reminiscing. Veteran Mustian called the roll of his company from memory, and he was the only one to answer present. He told, after the ladies urged him to further remarks, of a Yankee shell landing in the midst of a trench with the fuse burning. "A fellow hopped up, grabbed it and threw it out."

There was a pause of appreciation for the story, well told.

Uncle Charlie Riggan of Vaughan, seated between two ladies, commented aloud, "That was a brave trick."

Veteran John W. Williams in answer to the request from the toastmistress, Mrs. Paul B. Bell, gave a story or two from the pages of the past.

"I was in a trench one day when one of these shells came over. It was fired by the Yankees and came over in an arch—which he indicated with his hands and arms—and it had a tail of fire two feet long. I knew it was going to hit me and I couldn't move. It missed me by about two feet, tore down the parapet, covered me in dirt, and I finally dug out. Here I stand today as a monument to God's mercy."

Veteran Joe Shearin of Sixpound after repeated urging took the floor. Charlie Riggan wouldn't.

He told of the Crater about Petersburg. The Yankees had fine machinery and a branch to take away their dirt, he remarked. We had the top of the hill, giving us control, but we had to trundle our dirt out with wheelbarrows. "We knew that they were mining and they knew that we were," he said. Their mine didn't go off as they had planned, but went off later while we were changing the men in the front trenches. It blew a hole in the ground 90 by 60 feet and 30 feet deep. "I was one who escaped," he commented, "and while I didn't get buried in the dirt," he commented to Brother Mustian, "I had 24,000 pounds of powder under me."

He won general applause. John W. Allen, veteran of the calvary, commented that he had never failed to carry out an order while in the army and told briefly of getting water for the men during a hot engagement when the bullets were breezing by like hornets. "I don't know how they missed me," he remarked. "The water came from the bottom of a gully where I knew that hogs had been but it was clear on top and all the boys were glad when I got back with their canteens."

Four of the six surviving veterans were present. Austen Allen and J. R. Falkener of Sandy Creek were not there.

In welcoming the veterans, wives and widows, the Rev. Dr. Gibbs said that "character, intelligence and valor tell in war as in peace and our peace loving boys have all (Continued On Page 12)

Boy, 6, Kills Baby Brother When He Picks Up Shotgun

Picking up a shot gun which his father had left for a few minutes leaning against a wall, Arthur B. Shearin, 6 years old, instantly killed his brother, Randolph Macon Shearin, age 2 years and three months, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Shearin of Grove Hill, on Wednesday. The boy was a brother of Miss Johnelle Shearin of Warrenton. Mr. Shearin had been to the lowgrounds and had carried his gun along. When he returned he left it at the well to take some vegetables into the house. Arthur B. picked it up with the fatal consequences.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday from the Shearin home by the Rev. S. E. Wright. Interment was at Arcola.

MACON TO DIE IN CHAIR ON NOV. 1

Judge Small Pronounces Sentence Of Death On The Slayer Of Sam Pinnell

DELIVERED IN RALEIGH

Death is the penalty that the State of North Carolina is to exact from John Macon, slayer of Sam Pinnell, and unless there is a stay of execution, the switch is to be thrown on All Saints Day, Friday, November 1. The jury returned a verdict of first degree last Saturday just before 1 o'clock after an hour and a half deliberation. Judge Small passed sentence when court reconvened at 2 o'clock, and the negro was given into the custody of the sheriff with instructions to deliver him to the warden of the State Penitentiary.

A few minutes later, the papers all complete, Macon moved from the court room with Deputies Thomas Ellington and R. O. Snipes. They were joined by Faulk Alston and the trio moved away for a rapid and uneventful trip to Raleigh.

"It is hard for the court to pass sentence upon you and it was hard for the jury to place this penalty upon you," Judge Small said, "but the evidence has been heard and you are found guilty." In closing the commitment of John Macon to the warden of the State Penitentiary, the Judge said, "May God give you just deliverance."

The crowd, still tense, relaxed when the prisoner left the court room. Solicitor Parker arose to pay his respects to Coroner E. Hunter Pinnell, brother of the slain man, and Walter Mustian, both of whom were present at the fatal shooting and who captured the negro. The fine restraint and respect for law shown on this occasion was commended by both the solicitor and Judge. Joseph Pippen, attorney with Gilmer Overby, appointed by the court, had previously commended the fairness of the trial and the general demeanor of the principals and the people of the county.

"Without respect for the law and officers we can have no government," the Judge said. "I want to commend the officers of the court and the citizens for their attitude of restraint toward the defendant." He also thanked Macon's attorneys for the manner in which they had looked to his interests.

Macon, a negro of about 38, was arrested in Warren county on the morning of May 3rd after he had fatally wounded Sam Pinnell and shot Robert Pinnell, a brother. Officers had gone to the home of Baldy Mitchell near Afton-Elberon to make the arrest. Macon was wanted in Franklin county for killing a citizen there about 17 years ago. When they arrived Sam Pinnell and Robert Pinnell went to the back of the Mitchell house. Hunter Pinnell and Walter Mustian to the front. Bessie Mitchell denied that the negro was there, but in a few minutes he ran from the home, shooting Sam Pinnell through the stomach and dropping Robert Pinnell with another shot. Hunter Pinnell ran around the house at the sound of the gun and shot Macon as he turned upon him. He and Walter Mustian then handcuffed him and rushed with Sam Pinnell and Robert Pinnell to Henderson where Sam died that night. Macon was carried there too for treatment.

The last murder case from the county was the one against W. L. Ross several years ago. Macon, if the appeal is not perfected, will be the first person to be executed from this county in 18 or 19 years. Ross after second trial was said to be insane.

BOY ROBBERS IN VANCE JAIL

Davis Garvins And Robert Marchbanks Confess To Several Robberies

UNABLE TO RAISE BOND

HENDERSON, Sept. 26.—Davis Garvins, 19, who said his home was near Fayetteville, and Robert Marchbanks, 18, who gave Texas as his home, both white men, were in the Vance County jail today in default of $2,000 bond each to await trial at Vance Superior court next week on charges of store-breaking. They confessed robberies here, and at Franklinton, Norlina, Rich Square, Ahoskie and at Jackson, having been captured in the act at the last-named town, and Marchbanks slightly injured when he was shot by the chief of police as he was keeping watch while his pal did the plundering inside. They pleaded guilty to the charges in recorder's court here yesterday.

The robbery here occurred last Sunday night, as did also those at Franklinton and Norlina, while the others are understood to have been done since that time. The boys were riding in an automobile they admitted they stole in Darlington, S. C. They had robbed two stores at Norlina and at Jackson, and already were under $500 bond each at Jackson before being brought here for trial.

Practically all of the goods stolen by them at all of these places was recovered, according to Deputy Sheriff J. L. Cash, who with S. B. Rogers went to Jackson and brought them back to Henderson. The store robbed here is owned by Mr. Rogers, who is chairman of the Vance Board of County Commissioners.

Both men talked freely of their exploits, Deputy Cash said. They denied, however, that they were the pair who bought gasoline at the American Tourist Camp, two miles south of the city on Route 50, Sunday night, and paid for it, then bought two quarts of oil and sped away without paying for it. They explained that they always paid for their gas and oil so as to keep down suspicion. Garvins is said to have related that he picked up Marchbanks on the highway and persuaded the latter to accompany him in his robberies.

Mr. Palmer was injured several months ago when he came in contact with a high powered wire. GOLDEN WEED IS BEING SOLD HERE

Market Opens Tuesday With Prices Higher Than On Opening Last Year

SALES ARE INCREASING

Prices prevailing on the Warrenton market opening day and since have been classified all the way from "cheap" to "better than I expected," and "it is selling good." Official figures disclose that the market is above the opening of last year. There was a general feeling of satisfaction evident here on opening day, and better prices are expected to prevail as the quality improves.

Despite the rainy weather Tuesday and Wednesday, numbers of farmers brought the weed to market. Yesterday and today much more tobacco was on the floors. Numbers of citizens from a distance, from down East, have been visitors this week.

The buyers and warehousemen have been exerting every effort to make the crop bring a higher dollar, and the sales have been running smoothly. Warehousemen and buyers say that there has been a lot of common tobacco here, and these piles have cut the average, but several piles have been selling well above 30 cents and some at 40.

Sales at Boyd's are being run by "Marse Ed" Rooker and at Centre by Ed L. Beasley who comes to Warrenton as an experienced warehouseman and is associated for the season with W. G. Rogers & C. C. Hunter.

Other new men here are A. P. Rodgers and H. Wallace of Fair Bluff, N. C.; Al Ballou, a brother of James Ballou, of Clarksville, and W. E. Hall of Lexington, Ky.

Larger sales are expected for the coming week.

Deputy Neal And Son Nab Outfit And Capture A Truck

Going out to bring in a still on Saturday, Deputy Sheriff Frank Neal and his son, Cleveland, not only nabbed the outfit but captured a truck loaded with booze. They brought both to Warrenton.

The 200-gallon copper still was found near Palmer Springs and 300 gallons of beer destroyed. Cleveland Neal went for their car and ran across a truck. The driver fled. Neal fired and his father came through the woods. The truck had 50 gallons of booze, all packed for the trade.

Miller L. Huggins, Yankees' Manager, Dies In New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—If casualty lists were issued in baseball, we should see one this morning reading something like this: "Killed in action—Miller L. Huggins."

The mighty midget of the Yankees lies dead today when, on the word of Dr. Edward King, his physician, he might be alive if the stamina he devoted to the losing pennant battle of his ball team had been hoarded for the benefit of his own physical well being. Taxed more and more by each succeeding baseball campaign, the miniature commander of the Yankees was drained of strength when he entered St. Vincent's Hospital last Friday, and was easy prey for the toxins which ended his life at 3:16 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

All baseball will pay tribute to Huggins at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when his funeral will be held at the Church of the Transfiguration, the Little Church Around the Corner, just off Fifth Avenue in East Twenty-Ninth Street. The limited space in this tiny house of worship will be far over-taxed by the baseball host which will be present to pay their respects and hundreds, if not thousands, will be forced to stand in the street outside.

Following the services here, the body will be placed aboard a train for Cincinnati, where it will be buried on Sunday beside Huggins' father and mother.

E. S. Barnard, president of the American League, cancelled the schedule of that circuit for Friday as soon as he learned of the funeral plans. It was discovered later that the only contest on the card was the Yankee-Senator engagement at Washington. The cancellation of this game will enable (Continued On Page 12)
