ALLEN DECLARES FIGURES WRONG

Superintendent Of Schools Takes Exception To Mrs. Sprinkle's Statement

THE FACTS AND FIGURES

Taking exception to the statement by Mrs. Mary Camp Sprinkle of the State Welfare department. 'that there are 2,000 children of compulsory school age in Warren county who are not enrolled in school," said to have been made Tuesday in an address to members of the welfare department of the Woman's club and other women at the Episcopal parish house, J. Edward Allen, superintendent of education in Warren, gave the followa view looking down at Forty- ing statement to the press yester-

"It is brought to the attention of and which is the tallest building in the county superintendent that a representative of the State Department of Public Welfare made the statement in a meeting of the Woman's club of Warrenton, at the Episcopal Parish House last Tuesday, that there are 2,000 children of compulsory school age in Warren county who are not enrolled in school. In justice to the people of Warren County and to Miss Lucy Leach, Welfare Worker for Warren County. I think it should be stated that this is wholly incorrect. Our people believe in school, and send their children to school in the main without being compelled to do so. Of course, there are perhaps a dozen cases each year which are different, but these are so exceptional as to be conspicuous for their

"The facts are. that Warren County has the reputation for having the most complete school census among all the counties, as county reputations go in the State Departments at Raleigh. But in spite of all this, the records show (and they are on file in Raleigh) that for the past school year the compulsory school census for Warren County, both white and colored was 4,826, and for the same school year, the total enrollment of children of compulsory age was 4.742. The total number of children of compulsory age not enrolled was, therefore, shown to be 84. The percentage of enrollment was, therefore, 98, which is extraordinarily good. For the white children the compulsory census was actually less than the enrollment. Program Monday due to the fact that some outsiders come to our county schools.

"While the average attendance among the colored children is disgracefully low, it is improving greatly. For the white race, the figures show that in a compulsory census of 1513 last year, the average attendance of compulsory age was 1235, which is about 80 per cent of the census and still is not bad as the counties go. In fact, for 80 per cent of the census to be in school every day within the compulsory age in an eight months' term, is a very good record.

"It is quite possible that the statement referred to was incorgood to have the actual facts known
