

Warrenton To Play South Hill Team This Afternoon

The John Graham high school eleven will meet the South Hill squad on the Warrenton field this afternoon at 3:15 in the fourth game of the season.

The Warrenton team lost their first game to Whitakers by the count of 13 to 6, Friday, October 3. Last Friday afternoon they battled the Norlina team to a 7-7 tie. Wednesday afternoon they were unable to overcome a one point lead in the first quarter of a game here with Windsor. Each team scored a touchdown during this quarter, but Warrenton failed to score the extra point on the kick and it was by this margin that they were defeated.

The last three quarters were played with neither side able to cross the goal line, though Warrenton lost two good scoring chances during the last period of play. The first of these after a succession of plays had carried the ball to within a few yards of the visitors' goal, only to lose it, and again when a fumble at the end of a long run starting from a pass that carried the ball to the Windsor 15 yard line, after the runner had cut back into a group of tackles for the opposition.

Hard play with occasional flashes of ability marked the Warrenton squad, but they were outplayed by the visiting team whose school has had football for several years. The advantage of experience was shown in the superior interference and teamwork of the visitors.

Yesterday the Warrenton team, accompanied by Manager R. H. Bright and Coach Jimmie Mayfield, journeyed to Raleigh to see the State-Wake Forest game.

Dr. B. B. Williams Dies At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, Oct. 16.—Dr. Boddie Buxton Williams, 72 years of age, died Saturday morning at his home, 218 Eugent street, following a critical illness of six weeks. Heart trouble was the immediate cause of death. He had been in failing health for several months but only in recent weeks had his condition been considered critical.

Dr. Williams was widely known and respected throughout the city, having been a resident of Greensboro for almost 35 years.

He was a native of Warren county, born at the Buxton place March 18, 1858, the son of John Buxton and Mary Tempe Hilliard Williams. He came to Greensboro in 1896 and took up the practice of medicine. From 1907 to 1922 he owned and operated Williams private sanitarium. After disposing of the sanitarium he was both city and county physician for a number of years, having retired about three years ago.

Dr. Williams was a member of the West Market Street M. E. church and was the youngest of 10 children in his family and the last surviving one.

In addition to the widow the following children survive: Two daughters, Mrs. R. Hunt Parker of Roanoke Rapids, and Mrs. Fielding Fry of Greensboro; two sons, Van Wyck Williams of Greensboro and Harry Williams of Washington, N. C. Besides his widow and children he is survived by three grandchildren: Martha Williams Fry, Elizabeth C. Williams and Dorothy Alston Williams.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Eugene street Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. H. Grady Hardin, pastor of West Market Street Methodist church. Interment was in Green Hill cemetery.

Revival Services End At Methodist Church Sunday

The revival conducted at the Warrenton Methodist church by the Rev. E. L. Hillman of Greenville came to a close with the Sunday night service. Services opened on last Monday night and were conducted each morning and evening. Many persons attended the services and have made favorable comments upon the preaching of the Rev. Mr. Hillman.

Power was the subject of Dr. Hillman's sermon on Sunday morning. It is through the power within us that we must lead others to the cross, the minister said. He told of how trains fascinated him in manhood as well as in boyhood. It is the power of the steam in the boiler that moves the tons of freight to its destination, even as it is the spiritual power within man that must lead him to higher things.

He paused to pay tribute to the late Dr. Plato Durham who was recently buried from the Methodist church here. He told of how he used to sit on Dr. Durham's classes as a ministerial student and how the spiritual power that radiated from within that great teacher proved a benediction to the boys that were privileged to hear him. The power that resided in that great man, he said, has made better men and women of thousands with whom he came into contact.

The Christian life calls for the giving of one's self, the minister held. He told of the international radio hook-up over which the voice of King George was to be heard several months ago, and how a studio helper grabbed a broken wire and held on to each end as the high electric voltage was carried through his body that the program might not be interrupted. Fortunately the heroism of the man did not cost him his life. The minister then told of another act of heroism in which Jesus gave his life on the cross that sinners might live, and in closing asked his hearers to give their lives to Jesus that a great spiritual power might live within them for the advancement of God's kingdom.

WILL NOT ATTEMPT TO SIGN 1930 CROPS

Tobacco Growers Meet at Warrenton to Discuss New Marketing Association

Half a dozen Warren county farmers gathered at the court house here on Saturday in response to a call meeting to discuss the new tobacco contract. R. H. Bright, teacher of agriculture in the John Graham high school, who called the meeting at the request of the State Agricultural Department, discussed with those present different phases of the contract.

It was decided that no effort would be made to sign-up the 1930 crop, but that contracts would be distributed throughout the county that farmers might have an opportunity to study over them and determine by next spring whether or not they want to join the association. It is expected that arrangements will be perfected by that time and that a determined effort will be made to secure signatures for the 1931 crop.

STATE BODY WILL NOT TRY TO GET CROP THIS YEAR

RALEIGH, Oct. 15.—All hope of organizing a State-wide tobacco cooperative in time to help the farmers dispose of their 1930 crop was definitely abandoned at a meeting of the executive committee of the Tobacco Organization Committee, held here yesterday. At the same time, the committee went unanimously on record as favoring organization for the 1931 and subsequent crops and chose J. R. Page, of Aberdeen, to head the organization and, upon its formation, the proposed association.

Though the committee had found many farmers who wanted to sign contracts for disposal of the 1930 crop, it was the unanimous opinion that the time for such action had passed. It passed the following resolution:

Unwise This Year
"It is unanimously resolved that it would be unwise to attempt to organize for the purpose of handling the 1930 crop but it is the unanimous opinion, in view of the wide interest being manifest toward the setting up of an association for the 1931 crop, that every effort be made to organize the association to handle the 1931 crop."

Mr. Page was unanimously elected at the recommendation of Governor Gardner. That the Governor intends to push the organization at once was shown in the telegram he sent James G. Stone, of the Federal Farm Board, after the meeting. The telegram follows:

"Upon my recommendation the committee unanimously named J. R. Page, of Aberdeen, as president and general manager of the tobacco association. He is a brother to Frank Page, former highway commissioner, also a brother to the late Ambassador Page. Mr. Page has a splendid business record from active management of large lumber, railroad, banking and farming interests with the various Page companies. Mr. Page has accepted and want a conference with you and him. Please arrange to come here if possible."

Jury Says Local White Man Is Not Guilty of Manufacturing Whiskey

WATSON IS NOT GUILTY
Vernon Powell, "100 per cent," was found not guilty of manufacturing whiskey by a Warren county jury in Recorder's Court at Warrenton on Monday.

Powell, well known white man of near Warrenton, was caught by Warren officers near a still on September 29. His case was docketed for trial last Monday, and continued a week when he asked for trial by a jury.

Five deputies told the court how they had raided a still near Warrenton on Monday afternoon, September 29, and caught Powell, wearing beer-stained overalls, several hundred yards from the still after a chase that began a short distance from the booze outfit. They said that they had not seen him at the still which was in operation at the time, but that after Powell had warned the officers to let him go, he accompanied them to the still site and claimed one of three coats there as his own.

The officers admitted on cross examination that they had been watching the still for several days, that they had information that Powell was manufacturing whiskey, but had not actually seen him at the still. They admitted that the defendant could have been running from a point nearby, but expressed the opinion that this was not likely.

Powell did not take the stand. He was defended by John Kerr Jr. Julius Banzet assisted Cromwell Daniel in the prosecution. The jury was out 20 minutes before returning its verdict of not guilty. Members of the jury were Ed Peter, Ed Rodwell, John Caythorne, Howard Riggan, C. S. Halthcock, and H. B. Daniel.

Nathan Watson was declared not guilty of a charge of possessing whiskey for the purpose of sale. Evidence in the case were three empty pint bottles and four fruit jars containing a few drops of whiskey secured by Chief M. M. Drake and Deputy Halthcock in a raid on Watson Cafe last week.

The officers told the court that although they had made a thorough search of the cafe, they failed to find any whiskey except a little in each fruit jar and admitted upon cross examination by John Kerr Jr. that these were not concealed.

Watson told the court that he had engaged a woman to assist him in washing the dishes in anticipation of the large crowd to be here on circus day and that during the conversation she had told him that she would like to have seven or eight fruit jars. He told her that frequently they were to be found in an alley running back of a store near his place of business and that he would try to find her some. He told the court that he managed to pick up four and placed them in his kitchen so she could carry them home with her that night. He said that he had picked up the bottles back of Boyce's Drug Company, and as they were clean, good bottles, carried them with him to his cafe, having no particular purpose in view.

Charlie Halthcock, Warrenton business man, told the court that he had frequently seen empty bottles in the alley described by Watson which ran back of the store in which he was employed. Mr. Halthcock gave Watson a good character, as did William Burroughs, R. T. Watson, T. V. Allen, and a couple of negro ministers.

Judge Rodwell, after hearing the evidence, waved argument by the attorneys, and ordered that the clerk make an entry of not guilty.
