BRIEF REQUIEM
 You may pipe all tunes,
 You may beat all measures,
 All tales that ever were
 Said or sung;
 You may gather and heap
 A whole life's treasures,
 All that the heart holds,
 Old or young;
 There is nothing left
 For the hand to reap,
 No fragrance remains
 In musk or clover,
 Naught is to do
 But go down in sleep
 When love is done
 And over.

—Ben Brigham.

This Woman Lost 64 Pounds of Fat

Mrs. H. Price of Woodside, L. I. writes: "A year ago I weighed 190 lbs. I started to take Kruschen and now I weigh 126 and never felt better in my life and what's more, I look more like 20 yrs. old than the mother of 2 children, one of 19 and the other 18. Loved Teacher Adds Another Year

Winston-Salem Journal.
 Eighty-five years ago today one of the really great educators of the state was born; today that man, Prof. L. W. Bagley, who lives with his daughter, Mrs. G. T. Lumpkin, 2109 Queen street, will observe his birthday anniversary in exactly the same manner he observes every Sunday.

He will attend Sunday School and church service this forenoon at Brown Memorial Baptist church. Later he will return home and during and after his mid-day meal he will visit with friends who may drop in to see him. It is in this quiet and pleasant way that he tramps happily down the westward slope of life.

It was February 5, 1848, that Professor Bagley was born at Smithfield, Johnson county. Therefore, it was in his early boyhood and young manhood that the Confederacy was formed, went through its brief three and three-quarter years of historic struggle and fell again. And it was during the hard times immediately after the war that this young educator put in his greatest effort in the interest of post-war enlightenment.

For forty years he was head of Littleton Academy. That is a brief sentence in which to sum up four decades of work. However, it needs little summing up, for the graduates of that school, scattered over all this and many other states, will arise and speak for their former teacher today wherever these lines chance to be read.

But the work of this educational leader was not ended when he left

Littleton. He went to Mills Home better known by the familiar name of Thomasville Baptist Orphanage and taught for another eleven years. And in spite of all this work and an active life otherwise, he is a vigorous man today and, if no other presented itself, he would think little of walking to and from church. Indeed, he does so quite often to his choice. And within the past few years he sustained a bad fracture of both legs in an automobile accident!

Mr. Bagley has two sons and a daughter. His daughter, Mrs. G. T. Lumpkin, lives here. His sons are S. W. Bagley, Raleigh, and Prof. John D. Bagley, of the Texas State College of Agriculture and Engineering, Texas.
