MISS LUCY PERRY, Editor

WINTER DAYS

Now comes the gray beard of the north:
The forests bare their rugged breasts
To every wind that wanders forth.
And in their arms, the lonely nests
That housed the birdlings months ago
Are egged with flakes of drifted snow.

No more the robin pipes his lay
To greet the flushed advance of morn;
He sings in valleys far away:
His heart is with the south today;
He cannot shrill among the corn:
For all the hay and corn are down
And garnered; and the withered leaf,
Against the branches bare and brown,
Rattles; and all the days are brief.

An icy hand is on the land;
The cloudy sky is sad and gray;
But through the misty sorrow streams
Outspreading wide, a golden ray,
And on the brook that cuts the plain
A diamond wonder is aglow
Fairer than that which, long ago,
De Rohan staked a name to gain.

Edgecombe Growers Favoring Control

Edgecombe county growers of flue-cured tobacco have come out strong for federal legislation to force non-signers of the tobacco contract to reduce their acreage.

Representing practically every grower in the county, the Edgecombe County Tobacco Control Association has sent a resolution to North Carolina's Senators and Congressmen asking them to push the enactment of such legislation.

The resolution urged laws forcing non-signers to reduce under penalty of paying a tax of 15 cents a pound on all tobacco they sell above the amount they would have marketed under the contract.

Furthermore, non-signers would be required to reduce without getting the rental, benefit, and equalization payments given to growers who signed. They would also be prevented from obtaining loans from the Farm Credit Administration.

The resolution further requested the secretary of agriculture to provide for a permanent system of crop control after the payment contracts expire, and to place government graders on the markets to grade all tobacco sold free of charge.

Claude T. Hall of Wooddale, president of the North Carolina Tobacco Advisory Board, is also in favor of governmental action controlling the production of those who have not signed the contract. Mr. Hall recently made a statement urging all cooperating growers to ask their congressional representatives to support such action.

"To keep quiet at this time is to give support to those who seek to wreck the adjustment program," he declared.

Praises Work Of Barker Dameron

The Jeffersonian, trade magazine of the Jefferson Life Insurance Company of Greensboro, in its current issue has praise for Barker Dameron, former Warrenton citizen and brother of the Warrenton famrenton family, who left here for Nashville, N. C., about 14 years ago where in 1923 he became connected with the Jefferson Standard. The trade magazine in its article, of interest to Warren friends, says:

"Thomas Barker Dameron, manager of the Goldsboro Agency—December 31 figures show that Barker Dameron and his agency had a very good year. The movement in the early months was slow, but towards the last, with the quickening of the pulse of business, he accelerated his pace. He came to the Jefferson Standard under a personal producer contract on April 18, 1923, with the reputation of being an excellent business man, interested in various successful enterprises in Nashville. North Carolina, then his place of residence. Life insurance written spasmodically, but successfully, convinced him that it would be to his advantage to devote the major portion of his time to underwriting. In this decision he showed fine judgment, for between the dates of April 18, 1923 and April 1, 1925, he had given so satisfactory a demonstration of his ability, his promotion to the post of the Manager of the Goldsboro Agency was approved on the latter date.

"Goldsboro was the child of A. R. Perkins, for it was he, in the position of General Agent, who brought it into life, nursed it during its infancy and developed it into one of Jefferson's outstanding agency groups. To have inherited the agency was a compliment to Barker Dameron's personality and power. During his more than eight year's residence in Goldsboro he has become one of the city's leading citizens. His contacts are the best, and his association with worthwhile groups bring favorable advertising to the Company.

"He is building for the future along conservative and satisfactory lines. He works hard in office and field, refusing at all times to be daunted by obstacles which would have dampened the enthusiasm of any man less of an optimist than Barker Dameron.

"The successful years enjoyed by his Agency are due to the high grade salesmanship he has brought into his organization and his leadership. His personal production during the past year secured membership in the $100,000 Club; his production score was good, his declarations few, cancellations nil.

In 1933 the Agency paid for better than a million on the pro rata basis. For 1934 Manager Dameron and his men promise, with every intention of making good the promise, $1,500,000 paid. As a matter of fact, fired by enthusiasm over last year's success, the Goldsboro group subscribed to quotas in excess of $2,000,000, but the management feels that in reaching the $1,500,000 objective it will have done a mighty fine job. You see the man who enjoys the reputation of being "A fine, successful business man," is very apt to be a fine, successful manager and Barker Dameron bears that tag."

Protein Necessary In Poultry Feed

All poultrymen should have a thorough knowledge of the function of proteins in nourishing birds and of the way to select protein feeds in preparing rations for chickens, says Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at N. C. State College.

Protein is second only to water as the most prominent element in the body of fowls. Eggs have a high protein content, and laying hens need far more protein in their ration than the amount necessary to supply their body requirements. Young growing birds also need large amounts of protein.

Good starting mashers for chicks have at least a 20 per cent protein content to provide for the rapid development of the frame, flesh,

Valentino Fan Wins

LOS ANGELES . . . Mrs. Zunilda Mancini, (above) contributed her life savings $6,900 toward a memorial to the late Rudolph Valentino. Later she learned that the memorial cost only $1,500. She sued and won, the court ruling that $5,400 should be returned to her.

and feathers. A similar percentage is in laying rations.

But from the time the birds weigh two pounds until they reach maturity, the protein in their feed ought to be reduced, as a too generous supply will stimulate laying before the birds' bodies have nearly reached maturity.

Scybean oil meal is high in protein. So is cotton seed meal, but eggs produced from the latter are liable to show discoloration and be hard to market after being placed in cold storage. Peanut meal, coconut meal, and cowpeas are sometimes incorporated in a ration, but when only vegetable proteins are used in the feed mixture, a mineral supplement is necessary.

Animal proteins, usually marine products or by-products of the slaughter house, are considered better than vegetable proteins. Properly processed fish meal and meat scraps have been proven satisfactory. Only high grade fish meal which has been vacuum cooked should be used as low grades are liable to increase the death rate of chicks.

Blood meal, tankage, fresh meat and milk products are often used, but should be fed with careful planning. Poultrymen should guard against the tendency to substitute cheaper feeds for quality stuff in preparing home-mixed rations.

By the time a man has learned how to handle money, he's lost it all.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Charles E. Dunn

Jesus' Testimony Concerning Himself. Lesson for March 4th. Matt. 11 and 12. Golden Text Matt. 11:28.

Our lesson reaches its climax in the glorious invitation at the end of chapter 11. What comfort this brings to a distracted, disheartened world.

There is no music like the music of the gospel, and nowhere does that music sound with a sweeter, more wooing note than in this sublime passage.

Now there are four key words in this charming welcome. The first is "Come." A beautiful, gracious word our Master uttered rather frequently. Jesus is the world's greatest friend. Here is the note of a wooer, a lover who understands. What we all want today is security, and we get it when we come close to Jesus. He extends His arms of invitation to us, who are burdened and broken-hearted, and we find rest in Him.

Not a rest from labor and recreation, but a rest bringing safety and hope.

The second key word is "Take". Jesus is the world's greatest giver. And what are we to take? Christ's yoke. Now there are two types of yoke, the galling, bitter yoke that binds the slave to his hateful task, and the kindly, comfortable yoke that holds the oxen together so that they work easily and harmoniously. It is the latter yoke Jesus plainly has in mind. We are to bear His yoke, with Himself in the traces walking along with us. What a beautiful privilege.

The third key word is "Learn." Jesus is the world's greatest Teacher and what do we learn? Nothing less than that life, despite its misery and failure is a glorious, magnificent experience, rich in heavenly beauty and joy. We learn further the guiding principles of Christian conduct, renunciation, non-resistance, and that personal integrity that includes humility, fidelity, courage, and sincerity.

The final key word is "Find." Jesus is the world's greatest Treasure House. And what do we find? We discover the rest that comes through intimate association with the world's supreme character, a rest identical with peace.
