SIX CANDIDATES COME INTO RACE

Albert Bugg And S. D. King Seek Place On Board Of County Commissioners

OWEN ROBERTSON OUT

Six additional candidates entered the political race in Warren county this week, bringing the total number to date to 43, and the political pot is fairly hissing steam as the candidates add fuel in their appeals to the voters.

L. Owen Robertson of Warrenton this week entered the race for Coroner, making the 5th candidate to seek this position.

Albert Bugg of Warrenton and Sam D. King of River came into the race for Board of County Commissioners.

John P. Leach of Littleton and C. A. Haithcock of Warrenton yesterday filed for members of the Board of Education.

Although 43 citizens have already filed for office in the county, probably establishing a record for number of candidates in a county with a reputation for taking its politics seriously, it is probable that two or more candidates will enter the race today or before the books close tomorrow at sundown.
