THIS WEEK In Washington

Washington, May 1.-Fernaps no: the most important but in pontical circles one of the most interesting things being tarked about here is the discovery that the repeat of Prohibition has not put the bootleggers out or pusiness, and that the new taxes on whisky and other iiquors are not yielding the revenues that were expected. The two facts are closely connected. Joseph H. Choate Jr., director of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, reports that twothirds of all the liquor being solu in the United States is being made in illicit stills, built in Prombition days and never licensed, so that only a third of all the liquor consumed pays taxes to the Government. The enforcement unit has been so reduced that it is impossible to ferret out all these illegal sources of liquor and stop the flow from those sources. Their business thrives because the high tax on liquor makes it profitable to take chances on making and selling stuff which pays no tax.

Fifty-Fifty Figuring

'The remedy proposed for the state of things is to reduce the tax on wnisky and gin, to a point where there would be no profit commensurate with the risk, in making it illicitly. If Mr. Choate figures are correct, and two-thirds of all the alcoholic beverages in the market are paying no tax, then a reduction of the tax to one-third of what it is now would bring in just as much money, if it were collected on all the liquor manufactured. The question under discussion here is whether or not all liquor could be successfully taxed even at a reduced rate. It would involve spending a lot more than has been appropriated for the enforcement of the revenue laws, in any event.

The real problem many think, is how people can be induced to drink more whisky; though the President has a plan to let liquor from abroad come in free of duty in the hope that it can be sold so cheaply that people will prefer it to the bootleg stuff at the same price.

All in all, official Washington is waking up to the fact that the liquor problem is a real and serious problem, as much now as it was under Prohibition.

A New Order Another major topic of conversation is the marked change that has suddenly come over the attitude of the Administration in the public utterances of its representatives on the general subject of social reforms. Criticism of the program under which social regeneration was being emphasized far more than economic recovery, and realization that some of the most highly publicized recovery projects are not working as had been expected, is slowing down the social program and setting officials to hunting for new means of bringing business back.

The indications now are that less stress will be put upon the demand day night and Sunday at Hollister for higher wages and more upon with her sister, Mrs. E. J. Alston. getting men back to work at any wage the industry or business can her grandmother, Mrs. Joe King. afford to pay; also that there will be last week. less insistence upon higher prices for commodities, and more tolerance of price competition.

The report of the NRA committee on durable goods has been received with some concern. Under this heading of durable goods come such things as locomotives power plants, steam-shovels, buildings, everything which is not directly consumed but is used to make or house or transport consumer goods. Busines has not increased in those lines, because there has been no new capital available with which to buy them. Such things need additional capital on the part of the industries using them.

This condition is having an effect upon consideration of such things as easing up restrictions on new capital stock and bond issues, and upon the loosening of long-term credits. Foreign Trade Attention with much opposition, even from Republicans, in view of the support given it by Col. Henry L. Stimson, Mr. Hoover's Secretary of State. Indeed, some such a move was contemplated by Mr. Hoover himself, had he been re-elected.

The President's Position

It looks to an impartial observer here as if the Administration were trying to give a negative answer to the question, often asked: "Is Mr. Roosevelt a Socialist?" The answer is the cryptic one: "Yes and no. Personally and at heart he is a conservative with liberal and humanitarian impulses. But he was elected by and is surrounded by many groups and individuals each of whom has some Socialistic cure-all which he is constantly being urged to try out. He has selected some of these for experimental proponents but in the sincere hope that, if they work, they may check the wide-spread tendency toward outand-out Socialism. Only a skillful politician could handle such a situation as Mr. Roosevelt finds himself in, and he is one of the most

Meantime, Congress wants only one thing; that is re-election next wants only one thing; that is a strong Democratic party machine for use in the 1936 campaign.

You expect the man who builds a house for you to work from plans.

Similarly, your Executor will need a "blue print" of your intentions if your estate is to protect your dependents' future to your complete satisfaction — and theirs.
