That Justice May Ever Have A
Champion; That Evil Shall Not Flourish Unchallenged.

Entered at the Postoffice at Warrenton, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of 1879.

Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear Him, upon them that hope in His mercy; To deliver their soul from death and to keep them alive in famine.—Psalm 33:18,19.

Freedom in a democracy is the glory of the state; therefore in a democracy only will the freemen of nature desire to dwell.—Plato.

WARREN MEETS OBLIGATIONS

Payment of back salaries of school teachers at Macon and Littleton and indications of early settlement of such salaries in other districts through tax collections within a short period comes as good news to those citizens who take just pride in their county meeting its obligations fairly.

It would have been possible, had it been so desired, for the board of county commissioners to have dodged behind technicalities and refused to borrow money to discharge the obligation at Macon and Littleton. However, we feel, that had this been done it would not have been for the best interest of the county, and that it would have been foreign to the general actions of members of the board who, though doubtlessly making errors from time to time, have consistently tried to serve Warren to the best of their abilities.

Regardless of the defeat of one candidate in the primary and whatever may be the fate of two other members of the board in the second primary, it must be a source of satisfaction for these gentlemen to know that during their tenure of office the county debt has been cut in half, valuations have been reduced and the tax rate lowered, and that now with the payment of the school teachers, Warren has gone through the worst depression perhaps in the history of the country and met every obligation squarely.

MOSTLY PERSONAL

By BIGNALL JONES

Some one once said that if there were no religion that it would be necessary to invent one. I think that is true. Man craves a spiritual something that religion gives. It is I think necessary to man's full development. So I have no quarrel with the church, but from time to time in my conversations have been guilty of criticising some practice of the organization. Almost invariably I have been told by church leaders that instead of standing aloof criticising, I should get on the inside and work to make the organization conform nearer to my ideal.

I thought of this on Tuesday afternoon when I received a clipping sent through the mails to which my correspondent neglected to sign his name. He suggested that it would be an appropriate time to run the joke, the gist of which was that men in public office are jackasses. We are not publishing the clipping because the humor to us is only fair and the wit misguided. In addition the communication was unsigned.

There is, I think, plenty room for improvement in the manner in which our public affairs are conducted. No doubt the calibre of our men in public office could be improved. But it seems to me a poor way to reach the desired goal is by spreading talk that politicians are a bunch of hypocrites, non-competents, and that a capable, decent man would not soil his hands with dirty politics. Certainly bringing an office into disrepute is no way to encourage better men to seek office.

For years I have attended in my capacity of reporter meetings of town and county boards in Halifax, Franklin, Vance and Warren counties. During that time I have seen members of the boards occasionally bend to political expediences—play politics, if you will; but on far more numerous occasions I have seen such members giving their best efforts to what they believed was the best interest of their county. I have seen these members and other office holders, after faithfully performing their duties at a remuneration that was far short of their efforts, turned out of office by an ungrateful public either to make way for a friend or on the ground that a change was desired.

And during this time in my search for news and in my efforts to wrest a living, I have come into contact with business men in practically all walks of life from bootlegger to financier. The majority of these have been honest and upright citizens so far as I was able to determine, but I have watched them bend to expediency—play business politics. I have seen some of them get by with business practices that would have caused a public official to be impeached. I have felt for years and feel today that it ill becomes the average business man to throw stones at the average politician. Both are just ordinary human beings, with the same failings and the same strength to be found in all mortals, who merely have sought different routes to obtain a living.

I have been told that when ministers gather in annual conferences that there is politics played for the election of Bishop, for better charges. I can well believe that this is true, for politics is played in every walk of life from the highest to the most humble.

MAN SAYS HE THOUGHT

defendants—Tom Carroll, Pauline Burnet and Belle Carroll (Mrs. Willie Carroll)—guilty of assault and battery and ordered that each should pay a fine of $2 and court costs.

Jesse Stansbury, young white man of Littleton, lost part of his trousers and a pint of whiskey to the law when he broke away from Chief Harvey of Littleton, who was grappling with him as he frisked him for liquor. When one of his trousers legs ripped, Stansbury gained temporary freedom but he was later apprehended and placed under arrest for possessing and transporting intoxicating liquor.

In court here Monday morning Chief Harvey exhibited the pants leg that he hung to when Stansbury escaped and a bottle of whiskey he got off of the young man. The defendant, who, through his attorney, entered a plea of guilty, was sentenced to jail, assigned to work for the State Highway and Public Works Commission, for a period of three months, sentence being suspended upon the condition that he pay a fine of $5 and court costs.

A nol pros was taken by the state in the case against Walter Collier, charged with assault with deadly weapon, said charge growing out of an automobile accident near Roy Davis' service station several weeks ago when a small negro boy was struck by a vehicle and received a broken leg and other injuries. Solicitor Cromwell Daniel asked for a nol pros after the only witness for the state had testified.

Major Shearin, young negro, was found guilty of non support of a six months old infant and was sentenced to six months in jail, assigned to work for the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

The case against Ernest Stanley, white man scheduled to have faced trial before a jury on a charge of assault, was continued until next week due to the fact that efforts had been made to compromise the case and some of the witnesses, under the impression that the matter

TO THE VOTERS OF WARREN COUNTY:

I announce that I am a candidate for the office of Judge of the Recorder's Court of Warren county in the Primary of June 30, and I invite your support. I thank the people of the county for the vote cast for me in the first primary; and especially do I appreciate the confidence which was shown by the large vote given in Warrenton, my home township, and several other townships. The continuation of the evidence of good will towards me of the people of the county will be appreciated.

MACEY T. PRIDGEN.

TO THE VOTERS:

I wish to thank the voters of Warren County for the splendid support accorded me in the recent primary, and to state herein my stand and correct some errors made as to my candidacy for the House of Representatives.

It is true that I am working for the N. C. State Highway and Public Works Commission. I was not asked by them to run for the Legislature, nor did I ask their permission to run, being a free citizen of Warren County and of North Carolina and a lifelong Democrat. I thank you for the privilege of entering the race, and if elected I shall proceed with a clear conscience and an open mind.

I have always supported Democratic nominees, have bolted my party, and never expected to do so as long as we have had Democrats on the ticket. If elected I will work and vote for such legislation as I think best for the State and County. I will give no capital and labor, corporation, individual, employer and employee a square deal, and I will be a representative of all the people and of the favored few. Upon this platform I solicit your votes and influence.

NOTICE TO HOLDERS OF COTTON

In compliance with the Cotton Act of 1934 approved April 21, 1934, commonly called the Bankhead Act, it is necessary that all bales of lint cotton harvested and ginned prior to June 1, 1934, be tagged by a representative of the Federal Government at an early date. Such tagging is to be done under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture. Cotton in a mill where it is to be consumed and cotton at a port and covered by export bill of lading need not be tagged. A regulation (T. D. 4438) prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on June 1, 1934, provides that "Bales of lint cotton harvested and ginned prior to June 1, 1934, may be transported, sold, purchased, or opened at any time prior to July 1, 1934, even though a bale tag is not attached."

This is to advise that all cotton stored with us in straight storage or as collateral to ten cent Government loans against the 1933-34 crop will be properly tagged at no expense to the depositor in compliance with the Cotton Act of 1934 approved April 21st, and known as the Bankhead Act.

We have also been advised that an extension has been granted to January 1st, 1935, on all 10c Government loans against the 1933 crop. In other words, growers who borrowed ten cents per pound against their cotton last fall, and who signed Government notes maturing July 31st, 1934, will have another six months in which to sell their cotton.
