RELATIVITY I loved you then. I know. I did not know how I should measure love in years to come. With all my heart, I told you long ago. And it was so, but only half the sum.

How much I love you now I dare not say. (Some half-god may be listening at the door!) And straight seven million years away makes patterns still on Heaven's starry floor. But this I know, and this you may have heard, With all my heart was only the first word. —Eliabeth Honeyman Clarke, in New York Times.

BEASLEY-SHELL Glenn Lyn, Va., June 20.—The Baptist church here was the scene of one of the prettiest weddings this afternoon when Miss Virginia Shell, daughter of Mrs. O. P. Shell and the late Oliver Perry Shell of Warrenton, N. C., was united in marriage to Mr. Otis Beasley, son of Mrs. C. F. Beasley and the late C. F. Beasley of Meridian, Miss.

Picturesque was this little church nestling between the mountains, its solemnity brightened, its splendor enhanced by beautiful white flowers, white tapers and evergreens attractively arranged and forming a setting that was fraught with touches of charm, grace, and loveliness. Soft music announced the opening of the wedding ceremony with Miss Doris Lugin at the piano. "I Love You Truly" was sung by Mr. Carl Lugin.

Following the ushers, Edward and Shell Knight, the bridesmaids, Miss Betsy Knight and Miss Martha McKinnon, entered and the maid of honor, Miss Pat Moore, preceded the bride who entered with her mother. The bride was becomingly costumed in an afternoon dress of aqua marine, mousseline de soie, with accessories to match. She carried a bride's bouquet of white roses and valley lilies. Her mother wore a grey crepe with silver accessories and shoulder bouquet of lavender sweet peas, valley lilies, and fern. The bridesmaids wore blue organdies with pink accessories and the maid of honor was attired in pink organdie with blue accessories.

The bride and her mother were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his brother, Mr. Wilbur Beasley, and here the impressive ring ceremony was used to unite the young couple in the holy bonds of matrimony, the Rev. Russell Ashbury officiating.

The bride is a graduate of Warrenton high school and of Eastern Carolina Teachers College of Greenville, N. C., and for the past several years has been a member of the faculty at Newport, N. C. She is a girl of charming personality and has worlds of friends throughout the eastern part of North Carolina. The bridegroom is a graduate of the George Washington University, is president of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and holds a responsible position with the Department of the Interior. He is an exceptionally fine young man, most popular in business and social circles in the Nation's capital. Both the bride and bridegroom came from the oldest families in their respective states.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony, the young couple left by automobile for Mississippi where they will visit the groom's mother, after which they will be at home to friends in Washington, D. C. The bridal party and out-of-town guests were delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Knight, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, after the wedding, a buffet supper being enjoyed by about twenty persons.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. R. L. Vaughn and her son and daughter, Oliver and Pat of Raleigh, N. C., Mrs. A. M. Bell of New Bern, N. C., Miss Martha McKinnon of Lumber Bridge, N. C., Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Green of New Bern, Mrs. John Tarwater and son, Mr. John Tarwater of Warrenton, N. C., and Miss Frances Robertson of Lynchburg.

ROSS-HOWELL Smithfield, June 27.—The historic First Baptist church of Williamsburg, Va., was the scene of its first wedding ceremony since its renovation by the Rockefeller Foundation Saturday at high noon, the contracting parties being Miss Mabel Lewis Howell of Weldon and A. J. Ross of this city. The sacred rite was performed by Dr. W. C. James, pastor of the church, who used the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a lovely navy blue Elizabeth crepe ensemble with navy hat and accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of bride's roses, sweet peas and valley lilies.

There were no attendants and immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ross left for Jamestown and Virginia Beach where they spent the week end. They are now at home in this city with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Driver on North Third Street.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Howell of Weldon. She attended the John Graham School in Warrenton, finishing there in 1932.

The bridegroom is the son of J. H. Ross of Columbia, S. C. He came to this city early in the year from Warrenton, and holds a position with the Smithfield Herald.

Before going to Smithfield Mr. Ross was employed by the Press Publishing Co.
