That Justice May Ever Have A
Champion; That Evil Shall Not Flourish Unchallenged.

Entered at the Postoffice at Warrenton, North Carolina, under Act of Congress of 1879.

Now our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us everlasting consolation and good hope through grace, Comfort your hearts, and establish you in every good word and work—II. Thes. 2:16, 17.

If you would know the value of money, go and try to borrow some.—Benjamin Franklin.

WE CONGRATULATE WARREN NEGROES

The need for some sort of rest quarters at Warrenton for members of the colored race has been increasingly apparent for the past ten or twelve years. The negroes have taken the matter into their own hands and will soon begin the erection of a building to serve as a community center, library and rest room for our colored citizens. They are to be congratulated upon their determination to aid themselves, their ingenuity and their fine evidence of good citizenship, and Warren county should be proud of the fact that it has that type of leadership among its negroes that is able with limited resources in money to carry out a fine piece of work nevertheless.

For the erection of this building is more than would have been the case if it came about by mere solicitation of funds from citizens or donations from town and county. Conceived by the negro parent-teacher association, whose members were not daunted by the magnitude of the task confronting it, they started to work in a small way largely upon faith. Finding that they had no funds with which to buy necessary bricks, they called upon the skill possessed by certain members of their race, discovered suitable clay and erected their own brick yard. The bricks have been moulded and within a few days fires will be kindled beneath the kilns and shortly thereafter a start will be made toward the actual erection of the building.

Completed, the building will be more than a serviceable institution for the members of the negro race; it will stand as a monument to the teaching of that great negro leader, Booker T. Washington, who preached always the dignity of labor, and it will be a marker to the labor of hands.

Should funds be lacking, we feel that it is imminently proper that both the county and town make a donation towards its erection and upkeep, and we feel that members of the white race should be as liberal as possible with their donations toward such a worthy cause.

This building is being erected in the same spirit as was erected the Warren County Memorial Library. We trust that it shall grow in the hearts and mean as much to the negro race as has the library to members of the white race.

Two thousand acres of farm land in Person county has been signed up in the new terracing program being advocated by the farm agent.

The Brunswick county corn crop is reported in excellent condition with all other crops growing well.

Public Pulse

Readers are invited to contribute to this department. Articles should be written as briefly as possible

In using the words of a former president, Herbert Hoover, I do so free from any degree of sarcasm for the author or the subject. Truly, to my mind, it was a noble experiment notwithstanding the ultimate results of failure and disrespect which is freely admitted by many of its former ardent supporters and advocates who have become conscious of the fact that the majority of a democratic people cannot be governed by compulsion and unreasonable restrictions. Unfortunately, there yet remains those who have not sufficiently awakened to realize that the night of fantastic dreams has been transformed into a new day of realities and responsibilities which must be dealt with in a practical common-sense method. I do not present the new legal control legislation to be perfect; however, I am willing to trust our Democratic citizenship to secure such correction as they prove themselves to be worthy of. With its imperfections I declare unto you that it cannot be worse than the present attitude of contempt and disrespect for what we have. Never before in the annals of American history has there been such a wave of crime and disrespect for law and order as that which has swept our country since the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment and our own Turlington Act.

Correct statistics of relative per capita consumption are impossible, but when we take into consideration the enormous stock of legal liquor at the time of the introduction of prohibition and add to this the illegally smuggled in and domestically manufactured alcoholic drinks, it is easy to determine why temperance has not advanced. Insofar as North Carolina is concerned, we do know from the most reliable statistics that crime has increased at an alarming rate per capita, also that in not less than 80 per cent of the cases that illicit liquor in some form can be traced as a fundamental factor; that narcotic and stimulating drugs have a per capita consumption far beyond normal; that applications for both alcoholic and drug disease treatment have increased more than five hundred per cent; that there has been an unprecedented increase in death and insanity caused by impure poisonous bootleg liquor and drug concoctions; that thousands of human beings have been shot down like ferocious beasts by state and federal enforcement officers vainly and foolishly endeavoring to enforce laws which public sentiment has made unenforceable; that millions of dollars have been expended without permanent benefit. We might go on and on relating indisputable facts, but what is the use? Is it possible that those who oppose legal control and distribution are like Ephraim, joined to the idol of prohibition? Have they not had sufficient proof that it has been robbed of its virtues? Why stop to ponder in the face of a crisis the like of which we have never before been confronted? Can it be said of us, that like the brothers of Dives, "We have had the experience of our past? and would not be persuaded, though one might be arisen from the dead?"

Alcoholic edicts are debauching and destroying themselves. The youth of our country together with generations not yet born are dependent upon our protection through legal control.

What will you do—surrender your opportunity to the gods of dissipation (blind tigers and bootleggers)? Or will you cast your ballot for LEGAL CONTROL thereby building order out of chaos?
W. A. CONNELL.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Christian Stewardship.
Lesson for June 16th. Deut. 8:11-18.

Golden Text: 1 Corin. 4:2.
How do we spend the marginal part of our income not devoted to necessities? The answer is a sure revelation of character. What we do with our spare cash is a very clear indication of the kind of men and women we are.

A careful estimate shows that 24c out of the average American dollar is devoted to living costs, 21c to luxuries, 14c to waste, 13c to miscellaneous items, 11c to investments, 9c to crime, 5c to government, 2c to our schools, leaving only 1c for church support. The fact that we spend twenty-one times as much on the various comforts and pleasures of modern life as we do on our churches is most revealing. It demonstrates how dimly we fail, as a nation, to apply the principles of Christian stewardship.

How are we to correct this tragic habit of devoting only a tiny fraction of our wealth to education and religion? First of all, there must be a spiritual undergirding of our church budgets. A parish canvass should never be inaugurated without prayer. Secondly, Christian folk must be kept thoroughly informed of the program of the churches, both in its local and benevolent phases. Information is the mother of interest.

How much each person should give to church and charity can be decided by a careful analysis of one's income and probable expenditures. Most families could give a tenth of their means to the promotion of religion if they managed their finances in accord with a carefully planned budget. The giving of a tithe has Bible sanction, and should be heartily commended to all not in straitened circumstances.

St. Paul sums up our duty in this matter in his famous advice to the Corinthians, "Upon the first days of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him."
