A department conducted for
The Warren County
Memorial Library
By MABEL DAVIS
The Librarian

The Library's new assembly room was used most delightfully and instructively on Tuesday; Catherine Mason Moseley, a recent graduate of Meredith College, gave us permission to exhibit her studies done in the Fine Arts department there. The assembly room was open to the public, a number of people called and punch and wafers were served.

The studies included still life groups in oil, designs for textiles, costume designs, pencil and charcoal drawings and decorative paintings done in tempera. Everyone enjoyed the pictures, and naturally, everyone had a favorite, or a group of favorites. Of the oil studies a still life group of copper tankard and a bowl of fruit before a curtain was particularly pleasing, due to its rich coloring; and of the tempera paintings, which were the highlights of the exhibit, Calla Lillies, Collection and Poinsettias were especially good, having been exhibited in Raleigh, Greenville and Kinston during the past year with great success. Calla Lillies was particularly interesting to students of art because of its delightfully irregular outline due to its background of silver leaf applied after the painting was done. Catherine admits that tempera is her favorite medium and that a flat decorative manner of painting is her favorite style.

Following the modern trend toward individual framing made a number of the studies even more attractive. Wide wooden molding was colored and shellacked for a number of the oil studies, very particular attention being given to the coloring. For the tempera paintings natural wood, painted wood and gold frames were used. Good taste in frames is to a painting what good taste in clothes is to a person. As a woman may be transformed by the proper gown and accessories, so may a picture be transformed by the proper mat and frame. Framing is in itself an absorbing and fascinating phase of the art, and we are glad to have had good examples of it on exhibit in the library.

"The Twenty-ninth of May Is Oak Apple Day"

History and legend tell us that the English King, Charles the Second, after the battle of Worcester, spent forty days dodging Oliver Cromwell's troopers, known as the Ironsides, while hoping and watching for an opportunity to get to France where he would find welcome and sanctuary. Oliver's men may or may not have been worthy of the surname "Ironsides," but they were certainly iron in their determination to capture the young "Son of Belial" Charles, and so hot on his track, that when in the neighborhood of the park Boscobel, he, knowing how close they were and seeing a bushy topped oak, clambered up with most unkingly haste, to where the foliage would hide him.

The good worthy knights of days gone by had pollarded (topped) their oaks, in order that they would send out lusty young shoots, of which good springy bows could be made, capable of sending the yard-long arrows, with force enough to settle the matter, on many a hard fought field in France, or any other place, in those days of very far back indeed, and when might was right and when forward looking patriots, of adventurous turn, were feeling, like some peoples are feeling today, that they really must have more territory. Well! Cromwell's men stopped for a few minutes rest and refreshments in the shade of the pleasant friendly oak, and discussed what would be the next step in the hunt before they moved on. After they had left Charles clambered down, grateful for the safety afforded him by the tree afterwards to be known as the Boscobel Oak, or sometimes as the "Royal Oak."

Of course everybody knows that Charles escaped all right, and as all this occurred on the date I have given here, you also know why the twenty-ninth of May is "Oak Apple Day," when the sons of St. George wear an apple, or at least a leaf from an oak tree in his lapel, and if you would like to know what sort of a king Charles II was, borrow Peverill of the Peak from the Library. You will, I promise, meet some interesting people in its pages, among them a Queen who had a man hanged as a traitor within her rather small realm.

NEGROES TO

The negro Parent-Teacher association was the original force behind the movement to establish a community center here for members of the negro race, and it was through this organization that funds were raised to start the project. Later a charter was procured from the state and the work was carried forward under a corporation entitled, Warren County Library and Community Center. The white members of the board of trustees of this corporation are J. Edward Allen, H. A. Moseley and John Kerr Jr.

Both labor and material, such as firewood, are being contributed by negroes interested in the welfare of their race. Dr. H. P. Cheatham, superintendent of the Colored Orphanage, has also interested himself in this work and has from two to four boys working here each week without charge, in the making of brick. He also loaned the negroes of Warren a gadget for getting the soil from the ground. White friends have also contributed funds.

On July 4th, there will be a county-wide picnic in the Wortham grove, to which the public is invited to come. Barbecue, lemonade, ice cream, fruit and candies will be offered for sale, and the proceeds will be applied to the building fund.

cey and D. C. Hall.
Before going into the Weston-Dean case, John Watson and Lee Perry, negroes, were tried on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and transporting whiskey. This case came into court as the result over a result of a fight over a drink of whiskey. The fight ended with Perry being cut about the arm and leg.

The judgment of the court was that Perry should be fined $5.00 and taxed with cost, and that Watson, whose reputation was proven bad for fighting and drinking, should be sent to the roads for four months. The roa dsentence was suspended provided he pay a $20 fine and court costs and remain of good behavior for a period of two years.

years had been principal of the Warrenton high school, where it is said he was highly successful. He also taught in the schools at Albemarle, China Grove, Reidsville and Macon.

Mr. Miller, who is known to many in and around Spencer, is a son of the Rev. C. B. Miller, and Mrs. Miller of China Grove. He has had a wide experience in educational work and the school board feels fortunate in securing his services as head of the school work here.

Prof. Miller and his wife will be given a cordial welcome when they move to Spencer.

Mrs. Fielding Frye and daughter, Miss Martha Frye, of Greensboro were the guests of the Misses Rie and Laura Alston yesterday.

Judge and Mrs. R. Hunt Parker of Roanoke Rapids were dinner guests of Misses Rie and Laura Alston last night.

Miss Frances Roberts of New Bern arrived yesterday to spend some time as the guest of Miss Ann Scoggin.

Increased amounts of butterfat are being delivered daily to the Haywood county creamery and more Grade A dairies are being established, reports the farm agent.

New Alkaline Powder Recommended to hold FALSE TEETH

If you have sore gums or your plate drops—if you are self-conscious or nervous and your plate will not "stay put"—you should use FASTEETH. You will be delighted with the comfort and security afforded by this new alkaline adhesive powder. The mild alkalinity of FASTEETH prevents an acid sore mouth and gums and keep plate firmly in place—because it holds its consistency longer and will not seep away. Sweetens breath. Allows you to chew your food properly. Buy FASTEETH today at any drug store.

Must Apply For Home Loans Soon

Raleigh, June 12.—The attention of home owners in distress who desire aid of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, was today called to the fact that under the amendment to HOLC Act, recently passed by Congress, the period for filing new applications will expire at midnight, June 27, 1935. After that date, it was stated by Eric W. Rodgers, District Manager of the Raleigh District Office, no applications will be received from home owners who are in distress and who are eligible under the law for assistance, and he urged that all those desiring assistance file their applications at once.

The District Manager stated that regulations, as to the eligibility, remain virtually unchanged, and those desiring complete explanation of what cases are eligible may receive same either by calling at the District Office, Third Floor, Post Office Building, Raleigh, N. C., or write for an explanation. Office hours of the Corporation for the summer became effective two or three weeks ago, and are from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Mr. Rodgers stated that these hours have been changed, for the convenience of the public, and application clerks will be on hand in the District Office until 5:30 every afternoon until the time limit for filing applications expires.

lina and the advisability of attending summer camps in the state. We have advised that children under fifteen years of age avoid crowds regardless of whether at Sunday schools, churches, theatres, summer camps, picnics, parties, church weddings or neighborhood gatherings. For this reason swimming pools also should not be patronized by this age group.

"There has been no restriction placed upon the opening of camps and it is felt that such restrictions, if necessary, should be instituted by the local health officer. Commercial camps in western North Carolina have much money invested in equipment and they are rather reluctant to close their camps, but would like to restrict their membership in instances to campers who come from sections in which poliomyelitis is not prevalent. This is possibly all right, yet there is potential danger in any gathering at the present time, especially of youngsters of the susceptible ages throughout the State.

"Since there is no practical method of preventing poliomyelitis, the State Board of Health feels it a duty to call attention to the improved methods of early treatment so that there will be a minimum of deformities resulting from this disease."
