

WITNESS ABSENT, CASE POSTPONED

Ray Weston To Be Tried On Three Counts Monday; Under $100 Bond

HUMOR IN RAMEY CASE

Failure of the state's chief witness, J. F. Godsey, to appear in Recorder's court on Monday morning resulted with fines of $240.00 being booked against him, with subpoenas being issued for him and with the three cases charging Ray Weston with assault, selling prostitution being continued until October 28. Weston was placed under bond of $100 for his appearance in court next week, at which time in court next week, at which time Nina Stacie, woman alleged to have been responsible for the trouble between Weston and Godsey, is scheduled to face trial for fornication and adultery.

Warrants were sworn out for Weston and the woman last week upon complaint of Godsey, a photographer, who, it was said, claimed that he was assaulted at the Pine Tops Service station by Weston on Monday night of last week. The blow that Godsey received across his head is alleged to have come during an argument the two men were having over the payment of a bill.

When the case was called Monday and Godsey failed to appear in court, Judge Taylor ordered that a subpoena be issued for him and that he be fined $80 in each case for his failure to be present. Bond against Weston was set at $500 but this was later reduced to $100.

The case against John Wesley Ramey, negro charged with cruelty to animals, was packed with humor that brought forth laughter which had to be subdued frequently with threats from the sheriff as witnesses related the story of Ramey shooting the bull and of the consternation that was caused by the presence of the animal.

The bull, the property of Jackson & Tucker, was being kept by Tasker Jordan, negro tenant, when he got loose and came to the home of Ramey, negro tenant of Martin Davis. The animal, given a reputation of being ferocious, was pawing the ground and snorting, when he was shot by Ramey, it was stated.

Ramey testified that the bull was known to be dangerous, that there were children in the yard, a blind negro not far distance, and that the animal was about fifteen feet from him, pawing the ground and snorting, when he shot him three times. Negro women testified that the presence of the animal frightened them, one of them stating that she grabbed the children and fled into the house and that during the excitement they got behind one large woman and pushed her up the steps into the lot.

Jordan testified that the bull was not headed towards the house or the children when he was shot but that he was going towards a pasture and that the shots showed that the animal was not facing Ramey at the time the gun was fired.

Both C. A. Tucker and Martin Davis had sketched they had drawn showing where they had been told the bull was standing at the time he was shot, of the location of the house, barns and the women and children. Objections were raised frequently, nevertheless the testimony was gotten across.

The case was tried before a jury and the verdict of not guilty came within a few moments after Judge Taylor's charge.

P. C. Long, Jr., arrested while driving around Norlina by Chief Carter, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of whiskey. He was fined $50.00 and costs and had his license revoked for a period of six months.

Unable to pay a fine and court costs, Sam Robinson, negro, was sent to the roads for three months after he had been found guilty of driving while under the influence of whiskey.

Frank Jones, negro, was found guilty of assault, by being in an affray in which his jaw was broken. According to the clerk's docket: "Judgment was suspended upon payment of costs, for which the county would be liable."

Still Fighting

WASHINGTON . . . Oberlin M. Carter, now 79 years old (above), got his first chance in 37 years to present his charge officially that he was unfairly railroaded out of an army career by a corrupt court-martial. He calls it the American "Dreyfuss" case.

Cars Crash At Curve At Manson; Occupants Unhurt

L. Fernandez of Chester, Pa., and Gus Atkins of Middleburg miraculously escaped serious injury on Monday afternoon when the two cars they were operating on highway No. 1 crashed at a curve at Manson. Neither of the men was hurt, other than a few minor scratches and bruises.

Excessive speed was said to have been the cause of the accident which left the Oakland driven by Atkins turned bottom-side up off the concrete and the Dodge coupe driven by Fernandez smashed about the radiator.

It was stated that the Pennsylvania man, traveling fast, attempted to steer his vehicle around the curve at Manson but the car went off the concrete on the right side of the road and when it was pulled back it swerved across the road and crashed into Mr. Atkin's car.

Mr. Atkins was traveling towards Manson. Mr. Fernandez was headed towards Henderson.

An Appeal

By WILLIAM T. POLK
The annual campaign for funds for the Library will take place the first week in November with Mrs. Hattie Bowers as chairman.
Now that the Library has its own home, it is hoped that all the money so raised can be applied to buying books.
Every family that uses the Library ought to contribute, in order that the Library may be of more benefit to it. This is not charity. If I give $15.00 and my family uses $30.00 worth of its books and magazines during the coming year, I am getting my money's worth.
We need new books and magazines. Those who want to keep up with the world of 1936, which promises to be interesting, can do it through the Library. But it has no book fund except what we give it.
The Library would welcome a few hundred dollar donations, but it really depends on many contributions ranging from five to twenty dollars each.
What will a ten dollar contribution do? It will buy five books, which will be read by probably a hundred people during the coming year. Thus a ten dollar contribution may be worth a hundred dollars to the users of the Library.
Or it may be worth far more. Who can measure in money the worth of a book to the person who needs it? Knowledge and happiness are cheap at any price.

ieves Make Heavy Haul On Frazier's Tobacco

Five hundred pounds of tobacco were stolen from Jim Frazier, prominent farmer of the Warren Plains section, on Wednesday night. The weed, said to have been the cream of the crop, was taken from the strip-room.

DR. LEE HONOR GUEST

The pages of history were turned back 73 years by distinguished guests from North Carolina and Virginia who gathered at the Jones family burying ground in south Warren county on Saturday to pay homage to the memory of Anne Carter Lee, daughter of General Robert E. Lee, who did at Jones Springs, a summer resort, in 1862 from an attack of typhoid fever which she suffered a few days after her arrival in this county with her mother and sister, Miss Agnes Lee.

Dr. George Bolling Lee, grandson of General Robert E. Lee, and Mrs. Lee, were guests of honor at the exercises arranged by the Warren county chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and attended by more than five hundred persons representing Warrenton, Henderson, Louisburg, Raleigh, Durham, Wake Forest, Scotland Neck, Rocky Mount, Littleton and other towns.

Accounts of Miss Lee's visit in this county with her mother and sister, of the funeral services held at the grave 73 years ago, of General Lee's visit to her tomb, of the erection of a monument to her memory, and eulogies to the confederate general were given in the program which was followed by dinner on the grounds.

Howard F. Jones, owner of the property on which the cemetery is located, welcomed the guests to the exercises, and extended an invitation to the Daughters of the Confederacy of North Carolina to join the Warren County chapter in beautifying the spot.

"It is yours to feel free to use. I know that you will take pride in making of it a lovely setting for the tomb of General Lee's beloved daughter," he said.

Mrs. W. L. Locklin, recording secretary, who represented Mrs. R. E. Ridenhour, president of the North Carolina division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, absent on account of illness, appointed Miss Anna Graham, president Warren County chapter U. D. C.; Mrs. W. H. Yarborough, president of the Franklin County chapter, and Mrs. Sidney Perry Cooper, president of the Vance County chapter, custodians of the park—a charge which they accepted with words of appreciation to the Jones family and promises of perpetuating the history of the spot and keeping it beautiful.

Miss Graham also brought out the fact that a relationship exists between the people of this section and Arlington. She said: "Martha Macon, the sister of Gideon Macon, who married Priscella Jones, the sister of Robert Jones who owned the property on which the Jones family cemetery is situated, married Orlando Jones of Virginia. Their daughter, Frances, was a first cousin of Nathaniel Macon. She married Col. John Dandridge whose daughter, Martha Macon, married Col. John Curtis of Virginia. He died and she married George Washington, the first President of the United States, and the Lees descended from Martha Macon Curtis."

Dr. Lee, called on by Miss Graham at the conclusion of her remarks, expressed his pleasure at being present and his appreciation for what had been done for his Aunt Anne.

At the conclusion of the exercises, a wreath sent from the White House was placed on the tomb of Miss Lee by Howard Jones Jr., Bignall Jones, Duke Jones, and P. D. Jones. Pictures were taken of Warren Countys three confederate veterans standing by the grave.

Following the invocation by Dr. J. T. Gibbs, the hymn, "When I Can Trust My All With God," requested by Miss Lee just before her death, was sung.

Mrs. Charles Fisher Taylor of Washington, D. C., made a report of the dedication of Stratford. Mayor William T. Polk read the invitation which was sent to General Lee on the occasion of the placing of a capstone over Anne
