

THE TORCH

A department conducted for The Warren County Memorial Library by MABEL DAVIS The Librarian

New Books for the Holidays

The library is indebted to Billy Peete for the money to purchase Rachel Field's new book—"People from Dickens," a children's classic, given in memory of his grandmother, Mrs. Peter Jones, and to Mrs. C. H. Peete for a copy of "Vein of Iron" by Ellen Glasgow, also given in memory of Mrs. Jones. Other memorial volumes include "A Musical Companion" by John Erskine, given in memory of Mr. W. H. Dameron by Mrs. H. N. Walters and Miss Dorothy Walters; "Shaggy"—the horse from Wyoming, awarded first prize in children's books, given by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Poindexter in memory of Mr. W. J. Davis; "Boys and Girls of Bookland" by Nora Archibald Smith, given in memory of Eugene Gerald Allen by Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Allen.

Three fine books came to us last week from Col. C. H. Clark, New York City, for whose interest in the library we are indebted to Mr. N. P. Alston. We are also indebted to the author for a copy of his popular biography—"The Life of Woodrow Wilson"—by the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, and to Mr. Edward Allen for Mark Sullivan's new book, "Our Times: The Twenties."

Books for Everyone
I omitted a memorial volume in the list mentioned above. We are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor for a copy of the Atlantic $5,000 non-fiction prize—"Old Jules"—by Mari Sandoz, given in memory of Mr. W. H. Dameron.

Recent purchases include "I Write As I Please" by Walter Durrant; "This Body the Earth" by Paul Green; "It Can't Happen Here" by Sinclair Lewis; "Edna His Wife" by Margaret Ayer Barnes; "Pen Pictures of the Presidents," by Fred T. Wilson; "Shadows on the Mesa," Jackson Gregory; "Chinese Parrot," Biggers; "Murder of the Only Witness," J. S. Fletcher; "The Strange Proposal" and several other novels by Grace L. Hill; "Shining Windows," Kathleen Norris; "Here Comes the Sun," Loring; "Fair as the Moon," Temple Bailey; "Robbers' Roost" and three others by Zane Grey, and half dozen books for juniors. These books are on display today. They will be ready for circulation at ten o'clock Saturday morning.

Editor's Note:—The list of contributors to the library fund, scheduled to be completed in this issue of The Warren Record, is continued until next week on account of lack of space. We regret the omission.

BASKERVILL PRAISED

Duke, Bob battled against two tough opponents to earn the starting left tackle position against the Oak Ridge Cadets in the season's curtain-raiser. By continuing his good work, "Blackie" retained his regular post throughout the season to garner additional honors for himself. The close of the Blue Imp's great 1935 season finds Robert Baskervill as one of the best freshman prospects for the Blue Devils varsity squad next fall and if the big Warrenton lad continues his stellar work under Coach Wallace Wade, there is every reason to believe that he will land a varsity berth next fall.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Baskervill, of Warrenton, is taking a business administration course at Duke university.

HONORS ARE PAID

server, paid this tribute to Mrs. Arrington:

"VALUABLE—A person who can persuade Governors and other leaders to do what they suggest, who gives liberally of time and money to an important public cause, who is the executive and the moving spirit of a State-wide organization which has a steadily increasing influence, who prefers to persuade but who doesn't mind a fight—is, in the public mind, an important and valuable citizen of the State.

"And, of course, the public is correct. But it is not correct if it assumes that such a person must be a big, two-fisted, bass-voiced he-man. One such person is gentle (most of the time), pretty, beautifully dressed and very, very feminine. She is Mrs. Kate Pendleton of the State Art Society, and a good person to avoid if you are looking for a fight.

"After spending an hour in the ballroom of the Hotel Sir Walter, where the art society's annual exhibit is now in progress, a person begins to wonder if perhaps Mrs. Arrington will not in the long run prove to be a greater influence in North Carolina than many public characters who overshadow her and the society today.

"This job she has picked for herself—inculcating an interest and an appreciation of beauty in the minds of every-day North Carolinians—is no pink tea affair, even if she is the sort of person who would decorate anybody's tea. It takes a lot more work than getting elected to something, a lot more guile than talking the Federal government into a project, a lot more patient courage than a campaign against the sales tax. How far she'll get with it may be problematical but it takes only a visit to the exhibit, a letter to the University and a little conversation with a few high school students of today to find out that she's making progress.

"As far as is known, Kate Arrington has never been on time to anything, never raised her modulated voice, never shown up with a shiny nose and never ceased to gain ground in her feminine fight to prove that art and beauty are as much the heritage of the roughnecks of North Carolina as her own, tea-and-cake strata.

"Come to think of it, she's one of the hardest hitting friends the roughnecks have and some of them are getting around to realizing it nowadays—as close scrutiny of the crowd visiting the art exhibit will prove."

George Frazier, by Mr. W. S. Terrell, Mrs. Ben Weaver and Miss Dorothy Weaver. Mrs. Calvin Weaver directed the guests to the dining room where coffee was poured by Mrs. J. P. Williams of Norlina. Assisting in serving were Misses Nell and Margaret Weaver, Molly Ann Terrell, May, Jack and Jewell Williams, Mrs. Ed Hayes, Miss Hope Watkins of South Hill and Mrs. Henry Weaver of Durham. The table was centered with yellow roses and yellow candles in brass holders, carrying out a golden color motif. Mesdames Ed Hicks and Sol Terrell received at the dining room door, and the guests were ushered out of the Frazier home by Mesdames Dennis Coleman and T. J. Watkins of South Hill. The entire Frazier home was decorated in white carnations, yellow chrysanthemums, and white and yellow lighted candles. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver received many gifts accompanied by best wishes for many more wedding anniversaries. Mrs. Weaver wore a shoulder corsage of yellow roses. Immediately following the reception a picnic supper was held at the Weaver home for members of the family and close relatives. There were around 50 persons present for the supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Fishel and little Josephine Fishel spent the week end at Robin Dale. Joseph A. Robinson of Lynchburg accompanied them. Messrs. Bignall Jones, Fitzhugh Read and Jack Read attended a fertilizer meeting in Raleigh Tuesday night.

PRESCRIPTIONS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED

"Judge," said the funny prisoner, "give me a sentence with the word 'freedom' in it."

Joe: "Thar's a reve-noo-er."
Mike: "Yeah, see if you kain't get that rabbit with the same shot."

We hear right much talk about hunting but we have seen mighty few birds so far this season.

"My girl is outspoken."
"By whom?"

We're proud of our folks for making such an enviable showing in literature, art and on the football field. Their honors help our town.

Why not get your 1936 Ford V-8 in time for Christmas?

THE Ford V-8 for 1936 is the finest Ford car ever built. It is a car that goes farther than ever beyond the accepted standards of its price class. In engine performance, riding comfort, roominess—feature after feature—it may be compared with cars costing many hundreds of dollars more. Today's Ford V-8 is backed by more than two million Ford V-8's now on the road in America alone. Here are its most outstanding values—many of them brand new this year.

- V-8 ENGINE PERFORMANCE—smoothness, pick-up, power, proved V-8 economy.
- 25% EASIER STEERING—the result of two new roller-type bearings, a longer steering knuckle arm and an increased steering ratio.
- SUPER SAFETY BRAKES—with exceptionally large braking surface (186 square inches).
- EASIER, SYNCHRONIZED SHIFTING—QUIETER GEARS—silent, helical gears for all speeds.
- NEW FREEDOM FROM NOISE—specially insulated, welded-steel body, steel reinforced.
- NEW DRAWN-STEEL WHEELS—add comfort to riding—are easier on tires.
