

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Our Scotch Neighbor

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—When I first knew him, he was plain John Buchanan, writing the best Scotch novels since Robert Louis Stevenson. Then, in 1918, he was Colonel John Buchanan of the British wartime press bureau, shrewd, kindly, and deft, handling a bunch of rampaging American correspondents as gently as though they were so many new-laid eggs and he, personally, had laid every last one of them. When he became Sir John Buchanan, a lot of us said: "Well, he earned his honors but no title can ever swell that Scot's head." Now, an Ottawa, the flags and the cannon roar for Baron Tweedsmuir, governor general of our noble neighbor nation to the north, but, if his lordship doesn't mind, I'd like, personally, to go on thinking of him as my friend, John Buchanan, a very great gentleman.

Irvin S. Cobb

They'll like him up there, we're going to like him down here. And, if any of you Canadians has any doubt as to his diversified talents, wait till you see him casting a trout-fry across a likely pool.

Casualties in the News
CASUALTIES seem to be almost even as between the New York gang war and the Ethiopian war, but the New York dispatches make spicier reading. They print the names and addresses of the deceased.

Borah's hat is in the ring. It may be distinguished from some of the other hats in the ring by the fact that his is not a size six and five-eighths.

So there's to be another new "empire" hatched in the Orient, with China furnishing the eggs and Japan the incubator. This certainly is a great year for weaker nations to wake up of a morning under a strange flag.

At Panama, a deadly serpent bit an army lieutenant. He took serum and went to a party, and the snake died in 20 minutes. Whereas, heretofore lieutenants have been regarded as comparatively harmless.

Fashions for Men
TRUE to recent promises, we now offer our winter fashion hints for men.

Lounge effects will be in evidence on park benches. Unless prosperity returns mighty soon, expect a continuance of the high polish noted during recent years in connection with the seats of blue serge pants. Elbows also will display a brighter sheen or patina.

Trousers may or may not be turned up at the bottoms. It depends on whether wearers are sensitive about fringes or just naturally don't give a darn.

There will be very little change—in many cases, no change whatsoever—in the pockets of business suits.

However, the careful dresser will ask the tailor to install a special receptacle for carrying tax notices in. A favored perfume will be attar of moth balls.

The Family Influence
SIX members of the Virginia-born Lady Astor's family are now in the British parliament, if you include Lady Astor herself—and you'd better. So hereafter her ladyship can rest the voice occasionally and there'll still be an Astor to carry on.

She's not like some equally determined conversationalists, though. When she speaks, she has something to say—And says it.

On the other hand, only three members of the Lloyd-George household won seats at the recent English election.

Maybe it's a good thing to elect a whole family group, by the crate-load, as it were. It saves having to remember a lot of different names.

Being an Actor
A MAN spends half a lifetime trying to learn to write, and, if he succeeds, he's lucky; and if he doesn't, he's like a fellow whose wife is being talked about—probably the last man in town to hear the bad news.

But, overnight, you can get to be an actor—at least you can get the actor's viewpoint. For instance, I've just finished a very bitter argument at the studio over the next picture we're going to shoot. There's a director who insists on cluttering up the show with a lot of other people. He's also very tiresome about dragging in a plot.

I still feel I have the right idea about a proper vehicle for the display of one's theatrical talents. It's a two-hour monologue, interrupted only by tumultuous applause.

Farm Radio Service Offers Suggestions

With the arrival of the new Year, extension specialists appearing on the Carolina Farm Features radio program are endeavoring through their suggestions to enable farmers and farm women to start 1936 on the right foot.

By listening regularly to these programs of timely farm and home information, it is believed that rural people will be able to keep abreast with the latest developments and improvements in the field of agriculture and home economics. The speakers will, for a short while, attempt to guide the North Carolina farmer in making plans for the new year, which, if carried out, will result in a larger cash income and improve farm and home conditions.

The schedule for the week of January 6-11 is as follows: Monday, Dr. C. D. Grinnels, "Soil Sanitation"; Tuesday, E. B. Morrow, "The Potato Act as It Affects North Carolina"; Wednesday, C. H. Brannon, Insect Control During the Winter Months"; Thursday, Miss Willie Hunter, "The Help We Receive from a Pattern"; Friday, C. F. Parrish, "Brick Brooder Houses and Brooder House Construction"; and Saturday, W. H. Rankin, "How Farmers and Gardeners May Know More About Their Soil Fertility Problems".

Each Monday of the week is devoted to a specialist from the Animal Husbandry and Dairy Department; each Thursday is devoted to the Home Demonstration Department; and each Friday is turned over to the Poultry Department.

Saves Eroded Land With Black Locust

Steep, eroded lands may be brought back into production with black locusts as a timber crop.

Black locust not only protects the soil but it also provides high quality timber for posts, poles, and fire wood, says R. H. Page, Jr., assistant extension forester at State College.

Page said that an excellent example of reclaiming a badly eroded mountain side in Avery County is located on the farm of J. L. Hartley.

Ten years ago Hartley scattered blacklocust seed pods on a field that was too steep to produce corn, wheat, or tobacco, and was rapidly eroding while lying idle.

He continued broadcasting seeds each year until at present there are 15 acres of land growing locusts from three to ten years of age. The trees range from six to 25 feet in height.

This winter Hartley is thinning out the timber by removing all deformed and suppressed trees from the older fields. This will provide more room for the trees which will later be used for posts and poles. The wood removed is being used for fuel.

Hartley is also seeding burned-over woodlands near his home with different varieties of tree seed, including poplar, ash, and northern red oak.

Page said that black locust plantings are good for utilizing steep, eroded fields, not suitable for cultivation, in the Piedmont area as in the western North Carolina Counties.

Force Garden Plants With Cold Frame

A well constructed cold frame will help the home gardener get his vegetables off to a good start in the spring.

A cold frame, serving as an intermediate stage between the seed box and the garden, gives the plants a chance to harden before they are placed out in the open.

H. R. Niswonger, extension horticulturist at State College, recommends that such vegetables as cabbage, cauliflower, tomato, pepper and egg plant be transplanted to a cold frame before being set out in the garden.

For the average home garden, he said, the cold frame should cover an area six feet wide and 24 feet long. The wooden frame enclosing the bed should be 15 to 18 inches high along the back and 8 to 10 inches high in front.

Locate the cold frame in a sunny place, facing the south. Place good garden loam, mixed with stable manure, in the bed to a depth of six inches.

Second-hand sash or unbleached muslin makes a good covering for the frame. Muslin saturated with hot linseed oil will retain the heat of the sun within the bed and also shed water. Or the cloth may be treated with a solution of one pound of paraffin dissolved in a gallon of gasoline.

Young plants are ready to be transferred to the cold frame when the first two true leaves have developed. As warm weather approaches, the plant bed should be left open a little more each day to harden the plants. Ventilation is necessary, even on cold days.

Water the plants on sunny mornings when the temperature is rising. Thoroughly wet the soil, then do not water again until the surface appears dry.

Poultry Raising Is Hard For Beginners

The novice who enters the poultry business with expectations of making easy money is doomed to almost certain failure.

Poultry raising requires long hours of work and study, careful attention to detail, and a persistence that refuses to admit defeat, said Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the State College poultry department. Too often, he said, urban dwellers invest large sums in placing buildings and equipment on a poultry farm, then purchase low-priced chicks and attempt to run the farm with the cheapest labor obtainable.

Only by a miracle, he declared, can such a venture succeed. Before any one, city man or farmer, goes into poultry business, Dearstyne added, he should consult the local farm agent, then visit a number of successful poultry farms to see how they are run.

The beginner should start off with a comparatively small number of birds. A year's experience is needed to get a working knowledge of poultry production. Secure the best chicks obtainable, Dearstyne emphasized. Good chicks cost only a few cents more to start with, while inferior chicks cost many dollars in lost profits later on. Before setting up a poultry farm, ascertain whether there is a good market for eggs and chickens. There is no point to poultry raising unless the products can be sold readily.

Study measures for controlling parasites and the common poultry diseases at all times, and cull rigidly. Subscribe to two or more good poultry magazines, and secure the poultry bulletins which may be obtained free from the agricultural editor at State College.

Littleton, Route 1
(Omitted last week)
With best wishes to all for a very happy and prosperous New Year and with grateful hearts to God for his gifts of love and mercy bestowed upon us through the passing years and to dear "old Santa" for his kindly visits to all children on Christmas night and for these dear children who gladden the hearts of the aged and about them, may each of us enter the New Year with higher hopes, more grateful hearts and a closer relationship with Him who created all.

Miss Christine Boone spends Christmas day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Boone, on this route.

Mrs. S. G. Moretz of Washington, D. C., is visiting relatives in this community.

Miss Mildred Wemyss of Raleigh spent the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Claude Wemyss, of near Vaughan.

The children of Gruver Memorial Sunday school enjoyed the Christmas tree at the church on December 27, at 6:30 o'clock.
