Williams Gives Tips On Crop Fertilizers

North Carolina farmers spend 20 to 30 million dollars every year for fertilizer.

Yet many of them do not get full value for the money they spend because they do not apply the right mixture to their crops, said C. B. Williams, head of the State College agronomy department.

The kind of fertilizer to apply depends upon the crops grown and the type of the soil.

The amount a grower will find profitable to use depends to some extent upon the price he can expect to get for his crops, Williams added.

When prices are up, the grower can afford to apply more fertilizer to get the highest yield consistent with good farming practices, he continued.

For the major crops grown in the state on average soils, and with a prospect of average prices, Williams recommends the following fertilizer applications:

In coastal plain: Tobacco, 800 to 1,000 pounds of 3-8-6 to the acre, the fertilizer mixed according to recommendations of the tobacco committee. Cotton, 450 to 500 pounds of 4-8-4. Corn and small grains, 250 to 300 pounds of 4-8-4. Legumes, 200 to 300 pounds of 2-8-4. Late sweet potatoes, 600 to 800 pounds of 3-8-8.

Where soils have been built up with legumes, Williams added, the amount of nitrogen in the fertilizer can be reduced slightly.

A group of Anson county farmers sold 53,028 pounds of poultry cooperatively for $805.68 in late January.

BRUCE BARTON Says:

In Simple, Easy Words
An earnest gentleman with a gleam in his eye got in the other day: He asked me to read a book in which a new prophet sets forth a new religion. The gentleman assured me that if only all men and women could be led to think the thoughts of this prophet every difficulty would fold up.

While we talked I turned the pages of the book, and after about a minute I assured him that I should not need to read it in order to know that it would have no influence.

He was aggrieved. "You have a closed mind," he charged. "Not at all," I said. "I happen to know what kind of words move the world. I'll give you an example: 'The Lord is my shepherd,' etc. 'Four score and seven years ago our fathers founded on this continent,' etc.

"Contrast these simple words with a couple of phrases from your book," I said: "The definitely 'anticipatory' value of the self-protecting mechanism of covenant obligations . . ."

"Expanding consciousness obtainable through the direct application of the method of cyclic evolution . . ."

"Nobody is going to overturn the world," I concluded, "unless he is able to make his ideas understandable even to a little child. Second-raters are always obscure. But the head man in any department of life, I care not whether it be medicine, theology, science or what, he can make a talk that will fascinate a kindergarten."

John Bunyan explained to his readers that he might have adopted a "style" much more fancy but he wanted his book to be read by common people everywhere. He has his wish: "Pilgrim's Progress" will live as long as anything in our language.

Get Greater Education
"Your problem is personnel," I said to the banker. "How are you solving it?"

"Well, we try to pick the smartest young men from the colleges, men who have majored in economics and finance. We start them in at the bottom and let them fight their way up. Some drop by the wayside, but the survivors develop into very good men."

I told him I thought they were omitting one very important step in the process of training.

"After your young man has had ordinary people to have to work for their money. He will have a social as well as a merely financial point of view. A dollar will never become merely a sign of a sum to him. It will represent hopes and fears, ambitions and defeats, human sweat and blood."

I am one of those who believe that we are entering a period of great social changes. No matter how big and strong an institution or an industry may be it is going to be tested. Those institutions will win out which are headed by men of broad human sympathies; men who can see the other man's point of view because they have shared the other man's daily life.
