

TWO NEGROES DIE WHEN CAR LEAVES ROAD

Two Instantly Killed, Three Seriously Injured When Speeding Automobile Overtakes Sunday

ON LOUISBURG HIGHWAY

Two Other Wrecks Bring Minor Injuries To Passengers In Warren

Two negroes were instantly killed and three others were seriously injured on Sunday afternoon around 4:15 o'clock when the eight-cylinder Pontiac sedan in which they were traveling towards Warrenton left the Louisville highway about two miles from this town and overturned several times.

As the car whirled and bounced through the air all of the occupants were thrown from the machine and the lives of H. P. Alston and Bessie Lee Daughtery were snuffed out. Shade Alston, who was said to have been driving the vehicle, and Geneva and Margaret Alston were picked up in an unconscious condition and carried to Jubilee Hospital in Henderson where they remain this week in a critical condition.

High speed and whiskey were said to have been responsible for the accident. Witnesses are alleged to have stated that the car was traveling at an excessive rate of speed and swerving across the road shortly before the accident occurred.

M. C. McGuire, with others in his car, was meeting the automobile as it roared down the road on the wrong side of the highway. Fearing the car would strike him, he pulled off the road and stopped as the approaching machine swerved across the road, began turning over and landed on top of a six or eight foot embankment approximately fifteen feet from the highway. The car was said to have turned over four times and each time the hurdle was made some of the passengers were thrown from the machine.

Officers stated Tuesday that in the event the driver lives a charge of manslaughter will be booked against him. The car, a complete wreck, was the property of Henry T. Alston of Inez.

THREE AUTOMOBILES IN WRECK ON MACON ROAD

Three automobiles collided on the Macon road, two and one-half miles from Warrenton, on Sunday bringing injuries to one of the passengers of the cars, a Miss King of Roanoke Rapids, who received cuts about her leg. Other occupants of the cars were not seriously hurt.

According to reports of the accident, Miss King was riding with Raymond Johnson of Roanoke Rapids in a Chevrolet when he attempted to pass Enoch Davis, negro, who was also traveling towards Macon. Before getting by Davis' Ford, Johnson met C. D. Newman of Henderson, who was traveling towards Warrenton in an Oldsmobile. Newman's car was said to have been forced into a ditch and the Chevrolet and Ford collided. Neither of the cars overturned nor was seriously damaged.

A hearing is expected to be held here next Wednesday to attach blame for the accident. T. P. Gholson will represent Newman and Albrook of Roanoke Rapids will represent Johnson. It is not known whether Davis has counsel for the hearing.

ENDY BROTHERS TO PLAY

The week of October 4th is the time which has been set for the Warren County Agricultural Fair which its sponsors, the Warrenton Lions Club, claim will be even bigger and more enjoyable than the fair which was held last fall.

The fair this year, the second to be held in this county in many years, offers a larger premium list, more shows to provide entertainment, and a new and larger building in which are to be placed exhibits.

From a list of several competitors seeking the privilege, the fair committee of the Lions Club granted the Endy Brothers the right to play the fairway this year. The Endy Brothers have ten rides, fourteen shows and 35 concessions, also an outstanding free act, to offer entertainment to the fair-going public.

The premium list is nearly twice as large this year as last and will

Five Persons To Be Given Eye Sight Test At Clinic

Stating that it is necessary to have a specialist sign the applications of those who are applying for aid through the Blind Commission, Miss Lucy Leach, county welfare officer, stated this week that she plans to carry five persons to Dr. H. A. Newell's office in Henderson today to have their eyes examined.

Miss Leach said that Dr. Newell has already held two clinics here under the auspices of the Warren County Welfare Department and that the eye-sight of fourteen of the sixteen examined was so bad that they became eligible for aid under the blind provision of the Social Security Act.

Many of those desiring aid on account of their poor eye-sight were too feeble to come to the court house here, Miss Leach said, so Dr. Newell gave them examinations in their homes.

Checks, which average around $13.00 each, have been received for the fourteen eligible applicants, the welfare officer stated.

Miss Leach said that the Blind Commission paid for the first clinic and that she was hoping that the Lions club would pay for the second.

COTTON LOANS TO START SOON

Commodity Credit Corporation Plans to Make First Advance Within 10 Days

PLANS BEING RUSHED

Washington, Aug. 31.—Spokesmen for the Commodity Credit Corporation said today that the first loans on this year's cotton crop may be made within 10 days.

Officials hurried preparation of forms for loans, which will be at the rate of nine cents a pound. They said the forms will go to cotton belt points within this week.

As under previous cotton loan programs, officials said banks and other private lending institutions probably will advance cash to growers under an agreement that the government agency later will take over the loans if the original lenders desire.

Cotton storage receipts from warehouses approved by the government agency will be the basis for loans.

To obtain the loans, growers must agree to participate in the 1938 crop control program Congress has agreed to consider at its next session.

Loans will carry four per cent interest and will mature July 31, 1938. If they are unpaid, the government corporation will agree to take them over, probably a month before maturity.

Loans up to $150,000,000 can be handled by the corporation with funds borrowed from the Reconstruction Corporation.

Will Be Limited

AAA officials, working on the subsidy payment part of the government's program to bolster prices and income of cotton growers, said these adjustment payments would be limited by past production records of cotton farmers.

This reversed a previous ruling by which AAA, official said, farmers who failed to reduce acreage this year under the soil conservation program would have benefited more from adjustment payments than farmers who restricted plantings.

At first, AAA lawyers ruled that the Congressional resolution ordering these payments—representing the difference between average market prices the day cotton is sold and 12 cents—applied to the entire 1937 crop.

Later, the lawyers decided the subsidy could be limited to only 85 per cent of the growers' normal or "base" production.

Under the latter ruling, officials explained, a farmer with a base acreage of 100 acres that averaged a bale an acre could receive subsidy payments on only 65 bales of this year's crop, even if he planted several hundred acres and harvested several hundred bales.

In addition, farmers who curtailed acreage under the 1937 soil conservation program will receive benefit payments averaging about $10 an acre.

THIEF STEALS MONEY AFTER CUTTING WIRES

Robber Enters Home While Price Family Is At Dinner; Throws Pocketbook In Walk

LOSS DISCOVERED LATER

Child Goes To Investigate Noise; Family Believed It Came From Street

A thief entered the home of Mrs. E. C. Price on Saturday night while dinner was being served and walked out with a pocketbook containing $12.50 after cutting the telephone wires.

The robbery was discovered around 8:30 o'clock when Mrs. Eugene Gay went for her purse to pay a servant. After the family had ransacked the house in the belief that Mrs. Gay had misplaced her pocketbook, the purse was found lying in the walk with the money removed. Other items in the pocketbook were left.

The telephone wire was found to have been cut near the box on the inside of the house, and the belief expressed by Miss Martha Reynolds Price is that the thief anticipated staying in the house for some time searching for money and cut the wire to prevent any one being summoned from the dining room by the telephone ringing.

The family heard the door open while they were in the dining room but when little Miss Lula McCraw Gay, who went to see who was there, returned without finding anyone, it was taken for granted that the noise came from the street or that it was the milk man, and no more thought was given to the matter until the search started for the pocketbook.

The four prisoners who fled from here in a stolen automobile during the early hours of Wednesday morning after sawing their way out of the Warren county jail were captured in Vance and Franklin counties within less than 24 hours after their escape and have been returned to their cells which have been repaired.

The stolen automobile, a 1937 black sedan which belonged to Alton Wemyss of this town, was found abandoned in a muddy road near the city of Henderson early Wednesday morning by Vance county authorities and a few hours later Freeman Hobbs was picked up by Sheriff Hamlet at his parents' home in Henderson after being notified by them that he was there.

Hobbs, a 19-year-old boy who was injured in a gun battle with railroad detectives at Norlina several months ago and who was being held here to face trial in Superior court on a charge of robbing a box car, has not recovered from his wounds and when picked up by officers was said to have been party in a stupor from whiskey and weakness brought on by his injuries.

After questioning Hobbs and riding over various sections of Franklin county where he is alleged to have put his comrades out, Sheriff Pinnell and Deputy Roy Shearin, accompanied by Chief Jack Scott, returned to a barn near Lake View Wednesday night about 8:30 o'clock
