

RELIEF ROLL TO BE PUBLISHED

County Board Heeds Recommendation of Grand Jury; Published Quarterly

BOOKS GIVEN SHERIFF

Members of the Board of County Commissioners decided at their regular meeting held here on Monday to publish the names of those on the relief roll of this county, as has been recommended by the past three grand juries.

The list will appear in The Northern Headlight, the commissioners decided, and will be published quarterly, beginning with next week.

The first grand jury report relative to this matter was made at the January term when this body recommended that a complete list of names of relief beneficiaries be made and the amounts given each be published monthly in the county paper. Each succeeding report has carried practically the same instructions, although the last recommendation did not specify how often the list should appear in public print and did not specify "the county paper."

Inasmuch as the same names appear on the list each month, the commissioners took the view that it

Free Tickets To State Fair To Be Given Children

Superintendent J. Edward Allen of Warren county schools announced yesterday he had received free tickets to the North Carolina State Fair, which will be held in Raleigh October 11-15, for distribution to all of Warren county's 7,000 children in public schools. He will distribute the tickets next week.

Dr. J. S. Dorton of Shelby, manager of the State Fair, has designated Friday, October 14, as Young North Carolinians' Day at the Fair. Tickets will be available for 900,000 school children to be guests of the State on that day, he declared.

Wake County school children will be admitted free Tuesday to lessen congestion on Friday of fair week. Governor Clyde R. Hoey has joined Dr. Horton in expressing the urgent hope that as many children as possible take advantage of their free tickets to the fair.

"No fair is complete unless children have an opportunity to see the exhibits and enjoy the entertainment features," declared Manager Dorton. "We want to see the midway full of youngsters on Friday of fair week."

In addition to an imposing array of exhibits, the children will find much to interest them at the fair. The gigantic Johnny J. Jones Exposition, with 40 high-type rides and shows, will be a brand new attraction on the midway. A dozen thrilling hippodrome acts will be presented in the grandstand arena each afternoon and night, and a sparkling musical comedy will feature each evening's program.

Ray Burrows Tells Of Whittling Clock

Ray Burrows of Churchill says he is a whittling man, and the hundreds of persons who during the past week or so have viewed the clock which he carved out of wood during a period of approximately 8 years are willing and ready to agree with him on this point.

The frame of the clock, which is nearly two yards long and more than a yard high, containing 365 pieces of carved wood, Mr. Burrows says. The history of the clock and the symbols of his work are told by him as follows:

By RAY BURROUGHS
I have just finished my curiosity clock frame which contains a lot of curiosities whittled out of wood. I started to work on the frame in January, 1931, and have been working on the clock off and on for nearly eight years. Every thing on the clock frame was made and whittled out of wood, with the exception of the small 8-day clock in the center which I bought.

Most of the things on the frame are made of cedar; however, the two elephants and the ball eagle are carved out of poplar wood.

The frame of the clock is 65 inches long, 47 inches high and contains 365 pieces which represent the number of days in the year; the 52 fish stand for the number of weeks to the year. The little coffin on the right side of the clock contains the old, worn-out, knife that made every piece in the clock frame.

The first piece I made for the frame was the left end; the second piece, the right end. The left end

At the September meeting, Mr. Skillman and members of the street committee told members of the board that the cost to the town for this work had not been as great as at first estimated and suggested that an application be made for a supplementary project to use the remainder of the fund voted for this specific purpose. The board at that time approved the recommendation of the street committee and authorized the Mayor to sign the project for the town. Four months on the roads was the sentence imposed upon Graham Wimbush, negro, found guilty of disorderly conduct.

Cases against Leo Frank McDowell, charged with an assault, and Robert Arrington, charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, were continued.

CROWDS THROG TO COUNTY FAIR

Attendance Greatest In Three Years of Fair; Cannon Act Wins Applause

EXHIBITS MUCH BETTER

Increased attendance during the first three days and nights of the Warren County Agricultural Fair, which is in full swing here for a week's run, has swollen gate receipts beyond those received for a similar period during the three years that the fair has been presented here under the auspices of the Warren County Lions Club.

The new high mark for attendance on any one day was struck Wednesday when there were 2,447 paid admissions in addition to the hundreds of negro school children of the county who flowed through the gate without charge. Last year the largest number of paid admissions in any one day and night was around 1,900.

And as the unprecedented crowds have passed back and forth along the midway to enjoy the various rides, side shows and free acts and taken a turn through the exhibit hall to look over the large number of outstanding displays, they have, as a general thing, registered pleasure on their faces and in a number of instances been generous in their praise of this year's offering.

Running true to prediction, the exhibit hall is better this year than at any other time during the history of the fair. There are not only a larger number of displays, but they are more attractively arranged, and the hall itself has a better appearance since it has been rearranged and tastefully decorated.

The free cannon act, which features a man being shot from the mouth of the cannon over twin ferris wheels, is regarded as the most sensational entertainment ever seen in these parts. Apparently this act has won the plaudits of all.

There are also more rides and some new shows on the midway this year.

The gate receipts of the fair go to the Lions Club and the money spent along the midway for entertainment of various and sundry nature goes to the Endy Bros. Inc., which is playing the fair here for the second year in succession.

Keen interest attached itself to the nail driving contest on Tuesday night when approximately 40 ladies competed for the prizes offered the ones who could sink a 20-penny nail in a hard piece of board in the
