Memorial Volumes Received
We are indebted to friends for the following new books given in memory of Mr. Edmund Brodie Gregory, which are sure to be enjoyed:

The Growth of a Man, Mazo de la Roche, given by Mr. and Mrs. Branch Bobbitt; Listen! The Wind, by Anne Morrow Lindbergh, given by "a friend"; Mark Twain's Autobiography, gift of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jackson; Benjamin Franklin, by Carl Van Doren, gift of Mrs. E. S. Allen.

We have been asked to select several other books—memorials to Mrs. John Graham—which will be done in the near future.

Other new books received are "Redhouse on the Hill," by Joseph McCord; "Rebecca," by Daphne du Maurier; "Ungava Bob," by Wallace; "Young Man With a Horn," Dorothy Baker; "Young Joseph," Thomas Mann—this book is the second part of Dr. Mann's great trilogy, Joseph in Egypt.

We are indebted to Mrs. Tarkington, Wise, for a copy of "Sisters," by Norris; and to another friend at St. Paul's for "Trader Horn," and several other volumes.

Other Appreciated Attentions

Since I sat down at the typewriter a friend has come in to ask if we had appointed committees to work for the library in our annual fall campaign? She said she came to offer her services and would hold herself in readiness for whatever service would be assigned her during Library Week. Isn't that fine? That spirit has built and maintained our library through the years. It challenges the best that is in us and will make us endeavor to keep pace with her in giving the best we have when the chairman of the committee—Mrs. Alpheus Jones—calls us to the colors.

White lilac in quantity sufficient to fill a large pitcher is a rare gift in late October. Our friends are enjoying with us that treat from Mrs. Walters' garden. A vase of chrysanthemums—the first fruit of her fall garden—came to us from Mildred Ann Hancock, and vases of roses and other fall flowers have been brought to us by other thoughtful friends.

A visit from Mrs. Horace Palmer, Bennettsville, S. C., was another pleasant surprise.

German Writers in Exile

The Wilson Bulletin—a librarian's magazine—states that the following German authors are "banned from Herr Hitler's new made-to-order encyclopaedias; their books may not be sold, and anybody in Germany who even possesses them is subject to inhuman penalties."

"Thomas Mann—whom we are fortunate to have in the United States. Heinrich Mann—now living in Southern France; Lion Feuchtwanger—likewise on the Mediterranean; Arnold Zweig—in Palestine; Stefan Zweig—in London; Frank Werfel—formerly of Vienna now in Southern France; Gina Kaus—escaped from Vienna, now in Paris; Joseph Roth, another Parisian; Bruno Frank—living in Hollywood; Felix Salten the aged author of "Bambi," not fortunate enough to escape into exile; prisoner in a concentration camp. "The German writers?" in the comment of Mr. Huebsch, "have not scattered widely; they have turned to democracies as a flower turns to the sun..." And he asks the question that troubles all who love German literature, not because it was German but because it was literature—"What is to become of German letters? Can there be a spontaneous flowering of literary talent when men are not free to express their thoughts openly?"

Particularly do they like it when they are allowed to sit quietly and watch her prepare some dish in which she specializes. They know that if they watch closely, while she measures and mixes and completes the entire cooking operation, this close-up personal study will be more helpful than hours of reading recipes or blind experimenting.

The motion picture camera was leisurely, completely unhurried and painstakingly accurate in recording "Star in My Kitchen." There is no trickery in the cooking, baking, and preparation of appetizing ice-box wonders. Competent cooks who have drifted into bad habits will be able to check their own mistakes by studying the systematic routine revealed in those close-ups.

"They make cooking and housework seem so easy," the audience will say after watching the experienced home-makers in "Star in My Kitchen" instruct the eager, young Dedee Abot. And cooking will become easy for every woman who attends the Motion Picture Cooking School, where the lessons will be simple yet remarkably effective.

In addition to the daily recipe sheets, a generous store of gifts are destined to be carried back to many a home from the Warren Theatre. Local merchants and firms and nationally-known companies are joining with this newspaper in making the school possible.

Don't miss the 1938-model school October 31 and November 1 in the Warren Theatre.

GRAHAM H. E. CLUB

club flowers will be red dahlias and white roses.

Emma Daniel, Elizabeth Overby and Ida Robertson were appointed by the president as a committee for working out a club song. Gertrude Ayscue, chairman of the motto committee, gave a report in which she suggested several mottos. The club selected as its motto "Can Your Can't's."

The American Home Economics Association was explained by Nancy Lee Powell and the club agreed by a unanimous vote to join. A check for $250 is to be forwarded for membership in the state and national association which will send the local organization bulletins and material. Membership also includes the privilege of sending delegates to the meetings of N. C. H. E. A. and A. H. E. A.

Students who measure up to the standards set up in the constitution will be permitted to purchase the national club pin, the Betty Lamp pins, which are made in three materials—bronze, silver and gold. The decision as to who will be eligible to wear these pins will be made at the close of the first semester.

The club sang in conclusion "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms." The next meeting will be held October 26.

Crops In Fair Shape, Revealed By Farm Reports

The General Crop Report as of October 1, for North Carolina, as released this week by the North Carolina Crop Reporting Service is as follows:

Weather conditions in North Carolina during September were variable—dry mostly. Excessive rainfall, averaging from 10 to 15 inches, fell in the eastern or coastal counties on September 30th, while in the western piedmont and mountain counties, farmers reported insufficient soil moisture for needed preparations for fall seedings. The heavy late September rainfall in the east is delaying the harvesting of cotton and peanuts. October weather has been favorable.

CORN: The condition of the corn crop is reported by growers as fairly uniform throughout the State. Yields are reported as slightly above the past ten-year average. A total crop of 43,478,000 bushels was estimated for the State on October 1, this being about 4 per cent less than that harvested last year and an average yield per acre of 18.5 bushels is indicated as compared with the 19.5 bushels harvested in 1937 and a past ten-year average of 18 bushels.

TOBACCO: An increase in tobacco yields is reported over that of a month ago. Much of the crop has been marketed and the growers in the New Bright and Border Belts continue to report better yields than they had expected. A total production for the State of 548,890,000 pounds is estimated, which is 3.6 per cent over the estimate a month ago, 8 per cent below last year, and about 14 per cent more than the past ten-year average crop. The average yield per acre reported by growers was 866 pounds as compared with 884 pounds harvested in 1937 and a past ten-year average yield of 753.

Type 11, or the Old Belt, shows 820 pounds or 20 pounds per acre more than was harvested in 1937. This is a record yield for this type. The total production for this Belt is 204,180,000 pounds or almost as much as made last year.

The total production of Type 12 tobacco is now estimated at 272,800,000 pounds and represents an improvement of 3.6 per cent over a month ago. However, this production is 11 per cent less than the 305,250,000 total pound crop harvested in 1937.

Tobacco growers in the Border or South Carolina Belt reported an average of 960 pounds. The total production for this Belt is estimated at 63,360,000 pounds compared with 71,905,000 pounds harvested last year and a past ten-year average production for the Belt of 43,678,000 pounds.

In the main, weather conditions during September were favorable in those areas where harvesting was still in progress. This was particularly true in the burley areas of the mountain counties where growers reported an average of 950 pounds expected, or an improvement of 50 pounds per acre over their estimates of a month ago. The 9,000 acres in cultivation in this area was about the same as that harvested in 1937.

HAY CROP: 1938 has been one of the best hay yielding years on record in North Carolina. This was true for spring, summer and fall hays. The present estimate of 972,000 tons in prospect this year is an improvement over the estimate a month ago and is 18 per cent more than was harvested in this State last year. It is the heaviest hay crop on record in North Carolina.

PRESCRIPTIONS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED

If you see Hickory Wood looking sleepy-eyed in the mornings the chances are that he has been enjoying his favorite sport—coon hunting. He was caught napping at his headquarters this week following a hard early morning chase.

We hear right much complaint from bird hunters over the change in the season. They voice the opinion that all seasons should come in at one time, and that there is no justice in letting rabbit hunters take to the woods before quail shooters.

The invitation which we have always extended to teachers and students to make our drug store headquarters for anything in the drug line, including water, still stands.

We like you to visit our store for your needs, but when this is inconvenient don't hesitate to give us a ring for what you want. It will be our pleasure to serve you and serve you promptly.
