In Memoriam

In loving memory of Norman Stevenson, who departed this life May 31, 1953.

Dear to my heart is the place you are laid. The memory of you will never fade. Part of my heart is there with you. My love lives on and is endless too.

The seventeen years we shared together. Were happy in sunshine or stormy weather; We faced life together, just you and I. Through many hard places without a sigh.

Then one day, without any warning at all, You had to obey the Master's call; He took you away, we know not why. To a better land beyond the sky.

Seven years have passed since that sad, sad day. Seven years of missing you in every way; The blow was hard and so severe. To part with one we loved so dear.

We cannot see God's purpose here In taking you from us, Norman dear. But this we know, with a ray of joy, Memory is one thing death cannot destroy.

So we'll cherish your memory 'till life here is done. And God calls us too to that shore; There we will be reunited again. Never to part from you any more. His devoted wife, GENEVA, and CHILDREN.

Farm drownings have increased with the increase in farm ponds. Howard Ellis, extension agricultural engineer at State College, suggests safeguarding children by giving them water safety training. Also consider safety features in farm pond construction.
