Action Is Postponed On Planning, Surplus Food

The Warren County Board of Commissioners failed to adopt a resolution which would allow for the orderly planning of the Gaston Lake area during their regular meeting here on Monday afternoon.

Instead the commissioners deferred action until a special meeting, set for March 19, to decide whether or not they will provide $3,300 to cover part of the cost of performing planning work for the area bordering the new lake.

Howard Jones, secretary of the Warren County Planning Board, told the commissioners that it would be necessary for the board to adopt a resolution making $3,300 available to the Division of Community Planning of the N. C. Board of Conservation and Development before federal funds could be acquired for the planning.

Jones said that the federal government would provide 45 per cent of Warren's cost in the planning and that the sum of $3,300 could be made available to the Division of Community Planning over a two-year period.

Board Favors 4-H Removal Proposal

Plans for gradually removing 4-H clubs from county schools and reorganizing them into community clubs were endorsed by the board of county commissioners Monday.

Endorsement of the move came after County Agent Frank Reams, Assistant Agent L. B. Hardage, Home Agent Miss Emily Ballinger, and Miss Ann Raclely, assistant home agent, appeared before the commissioners to explain the plan of the extension department for a change in operation of 4-H clubs. Hardage acted as spokesman for the group.

Hardage estimated that the transition will take approximately two years.

The change-over in Warren County is part of a statewide Extension Service plan to reorganize North Carolina's 4-H program around community 4-H clubs under the direction of local volunteer leaders.

"This change should strengthen club work and provide a wonderful opportunity for the adult leadership in the 4-H program," Hardage said.

"The shift to community 4-H clubs will in no way affect the major objectives, program contents and special activities of 4-H."

Hardage said that there are some 500 white 4-H club members in the nine white clubs of the county.

Organization of 4-H clubs in the communities will begin in the near future, with clubs being organized as soon as community leaders can be trained.

Hardage said an effort would be made to remove senior clubs from the high schools first.

The decision to take 4-H clubs out of the schools and reorganize them on a community basis was made by the State Extension Service following a two-year study, Hardage said.

Two Injured As Auto Clips Trees

Two Henderson men were injured three miles west of here early Sunday morning when their automobile ran out of control, cleared a ditch and driveway and sliced through several pine trees some distance from the Warrenton-Henderson highway.

Charles Augusta Woodard, 28, and Jimmy Miller, 26, were taken to Maria Parham hospital in Henderson after medical service was found not available at Warren General Hospital here.

Woodard, who suffered a broken arm and a multiple break of a leg, was driving the automobile, enroute to Warrenton shortly after midnight Saturday when the accident occurred.

Investigating highway patrolman V. R. Vaughan of Warrenton charged Woodard with reckless driving. Vaughan said that the automobile travelled 526 feet down a ditch bank, along an embankment before hitting a driveway, sailing 78 feet through the air, and landing only to travel 92 more feet through a wooded area.

Pine trees which fell on and around the car hampered mechanics freeing the automobile.

Miller, a passenger on the front seat, suffered an injured arm and facial lacerations, the patrolman said.

Woodard blamed a mechanical failure for his losing control of the vehicle.

Labor Survey Is Planned In Area

Hundreds Expected To Reply

Would you take a job if a new industrial plant is located in the Warrenton-Norlina-Littleton area?

This is the question soon to be answered by hundreds of area residents who would be available for employment if an industry showed interest in locating in this area.

Just how many persons in the three-town area are potential industrial workers will be determined as soon as survey forms, currently being prepared by the Bute Development Company and the N. C. Employment Security Commission, are ready for distribution.

Target date for the distribution of 20,000 questionnaire forms is April 10, Selby G. Benton, president of the Bute Development Company, said yesterday. The survey will be concluded two weeks later and forms will be tabulated by the Employment Security Commission.

"The results of this survey will in all probability weigh heavily in any industry's decision to locate in this area," Benton said. Scores of counties in the state have already conducted labor surveys and statistical data compiled from these surveys are passed on to various industrial firms.

Not only is the type of information gained from a labor survey essential for a successful program of attracting new industries, but it serves to answer questions local industries might have concerning expansion.

From the compiled data an industrial prospect will be able to determine the number of persons available for work; how many fall into each age group; the number of males and females; available degrees of education; and other pertinent information.

All answers given by individuals will be strictly confidential, Benton said. He urged every available worker—man, woman or high school senior—to fill out a questionnaire. Deadline for returning the forms will be April 22.

WARREN DEPUTY Guards Seized Whiskey Truck

Whiskey Truck Detained Here

A transfer truck, loaded with $29,000 worth of bonded whiskey, rolled northward out of Warren County early Tuesday afternoon shortly after its driver was freed during a special session of Warren County Recorder's Court.

The truck, carrying 985 cases of whiskey owned by a Georgia distillery, was seized near here Saturday and its driver, 30-year-old Jesse Ranew of Albany, Georgia, arrested after a state highway patrolman discovered the truck was illegally crossing the state.

Recorder's Court Judge Julius E. Banzet absolved Ranew of willfully breaking the law that requires a permit if a vehicle is transporting more than one gallon of whiskey.

In finding the driver not guilty, Judge Banzet praised Highway Patrolman W. E. Brown for his action in the matter and said that the Vaughan patrolman "acted entirely as an officer should have" in seizing the truck and arresting the driver.

Ranew, who was not arrested until Saturday, testified that he arrived here Friday afternoon and stopped at a Wise motel to await the issuance of a gas permit by Virginia officials so that he could proceed through that state on his way to deliver the whiskey in Washington, Baltimore, and Wilmington, Del.

Saturday motel owner F. L. Hicks reportedly told patrol officials that the truck contained a valuable cargo and he wished patrolmen who periodically pass by the motel to keep an eye on it. Fear for the safety of the cargo prompted his call, he said.

Hicks also requested that a patrolman come to the motel (See WHISKEY, page 12)

Ice Cream Truck Looted Youth Says 4 Negroes Aided In Theft Here

Four Warrenton Negroes will be placed on trial here following the confession of a 15-year-old boy that the foursome prompted and aided him in stealing $30 in change from an ice cream truck here Sunday night.

Charlie Williams, 17, Enoch Green, Jr., 23, John Nick Robinson, 23, and David Faulcon, 19, were arrested and charged with larceny after the Negro youth told Joe N. Ellis, juvenile court judge, that he was aided in the theft by the four.

The foursome, arrested on Monday by Warren Deputy Sheriff B. G. Stevenson and Warrenton Constable W. D. Vaughan, were jailed under a $50 bond.

Their arrest came after Gus Carroll, driver of a truck owned by the Warrenton Taste-Freeez, discovered the missing money and noted the license number of a car which sped away shortly before he found the money missing.

The theft occurred on Sling's Alley, in a Negro residential section in northeast Warrenton. The driver said that Williams came to the
