MRS. GEORGE SPENCER CURRIN

Franklin Girl Marries George Spencer Currin

Miss Beverly Jean Stockton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Horner Stockton of Franklin, was married to Mr. George Spencer Currin, son of Mrs. Daniel Gaston Currin of Middleburg and the late Mr. Currin, Saturday evening, August 5, in Saint Agnes Episcopal Church in Franklin.

The Reverend A. Rufus Morgan and the Reverend John W. Tucker of Franklin officiated at the ceremony.

Native greenery, arrangements of white mixed flowers and lighted candles decorated the church. The program of wedding music was presented by Miss Donna Irving, organist, of Charlotte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a coronet gown of antique ivory satin, which was worn by her sisters, Mrs. Warren S. Perry of Kinston and Mrs. John Mc-

Neely DuBose of Durham. It was designed with a fitted bodice, which featured appliques of Alencon lace at the neckline, and elbow-length satin sleeves, with which the bride wore crushed kid gloves. The full skirt swept into a cathedral train. Her finger-top veil of ivory French illusion was attached to a crushed rose of ivory satin of which the center was encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

The matron of honor was Mrs. John McNeely Dubose, sister of the bride, of Durham, and Miss Betsy Swain, sorority sister of the bride, of Durham, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. James H. Stockton, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, of Hopewell, Virginia, Mrs. Cutler Bryant, cousin of the bride, of Franklin, and Mrs. Charles G. Watkins, sister of the bridegroom, of Raleigh, Mrs. James A. McNair of Laurinburg, and Mrs. Philip Haire, of Chapel Hill classmates of the bride. The attendants were dressed alike in street-length sheaths of volt- age blue chiffon featuring a drape of matching chiffon from the waistline. Their headpieces were cocktail veils topped with a crushed flower of matching voltage blue chiffon, and they carried bouquets of gardenias.

The flower girl was Miss Jacquelyn Dale Stockton, niece of the bride, of Hopewell, Virginia. Her dress was white organly featuring a lace yoke, and she wore a headband of white flowers. She carried a white lace basket filled with rose petals.

The ringbearer was Master James Stockton Perry, nephew of the bride, of Kinston. He wore a white suit and carried a heart-shaped white satin pillow.

Daniel Gaston Currin, Jr., of Henderson, was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Carroll Williams Currin of Middleburg, brother of the bridegroom, Charles G. Watkins, brother-in-law of the bridegroom of Raleigh, Dr. John McNeely Dubose, brother-in-law of the bride of Durham, Warren S. Perry, brother-in-law of the bride, of Kinston, and Charles Barnard Cashwell, Jr., of Mount Airy, a former classmate of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of peacock blue chiffon, with matching cocktail veil and accessories, and a corsage of white orchids. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. C. T. Blaine, of Franklin, was dressed in pale blue lace and matching flower hat, with white accessories, and white orchid corsage.

After the ceremony a small reception was held in the home of the bride for the immediate families, the wedding party, and out-of-town guests. The bridal table was centered with a wedding cake surrounded with ivy and white gladioli. The home was decorated with floral arrangements of white flowers. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Roy McCallie Biddle, Jr., of Franklin, Miss Carolyn Dowdle, of Franklin, Mrs. Roy Murphy Glass, of Fayetteville, and Mrs. C. N. Dowdle of Franklin, Mrs. Doyle Blaine, cousin of the bride, of Franklin kept the bride's book.

The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to the Southern shore, after which they will make their home at D-5 Beverly Apts. in Asheville.

For traveling, Mrs. Currin wore a suit of mint silk with bone and mint accessories and a hat of autumn green flowers. Her corsage of gardenias was detached from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Currin attended Brenau College, Gainesville, Ga., and received her bachelor of arts degree from the University of North Carolina where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Last year she taught at Fayetteville Senior High School in Fayetteville.

Mrs. Currin is a graduate of Fork Union Military Academy, Fork Union, Virginia, and received her bachelor of science degree from the University of North Carolina, where he was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity. He is employed by Wachovia Bank and Trust Company in Asheville.

"Drycleaning Ruined My Cloth Flower Decorations"

Asks Mrs. E. C. F.

Dear Mrs. E. C. F.:

The decorative flowers, when you sent them to the drycleaner, had rolled edges but now are flat and frayed. Here is something to consider before you blame drycleaning for the droopy decorations. Examination reveals that the flowers had cut edges and were not bound. Further, an adhesive had been applied to the petals to hold them in a rolled position and to prevent fraying.

The trouble was that the decorations could not be removed from your dress because they were attached by metal prongs and the adhesive used to keep the petals whole and rolled was soluble in drycleaning solvent.

After cleaning, most of the adhesive was removed and the flowers lay flat with the cut edges frayed.

This type of garment normally is sent to the drycleaners, therefore, the manufacturer should have been careful to use adhesives on the decorations that would not dissolve in drycleaning solvent. The drycleaner could not suspect that the adhesive was soluble and since he could not remove the flowers, it would appear that the manufacturer was responsible for the damaged decorations.
