

Leaf, Cotton Controls Gets Farmers' OK

Warren County farmers voted overwhelmingly on Tuesday for tobacco and cotton quotas, for Tobacco Associates, Inc., assessment program, and to continue the peanut assessment program.

The vote for cotton quotas was 1248 for and 37 against. The tobacco quota vote was 1241 for and 37 against.

Eleven hundred and ninety-seven voting farmers expressed their desire to continue Tobacco Associates, Inc., assessment plan for promotion of the crop, while only 64 farmers opposed the plan. The Peanut Assessment program was favored by 27 growers and opposed by three.

T. E. Watson, local ASC office manager, said that the turnout was good considering the extremely bad weather. It was 300 votes greater, he said, than the referendum of 1958—when it snowed.

The vote in Warren County was part of the vote in the state and nation when growers said they favored the continuation of quotas on tobacco and cotton and tobacco and peanut growers voted to continue assessments for promotion of these crops.

Tar Heel farmers who went to the polls in 72 counties voted 121,371 to 2,055 to continue the tobacco marketing program for another three years.

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, which sponsored the referendum said 99.3 per cent of the North Carolina farmers voting favored the program.

The turnout in the State was about 9,000 less than in 1958 when farmers went to bat for the program by a 96 per cent majority. A driving, all-day rain cut into the total Tuesday.

Tar Heel cotton farmers voted 57,367 to 1,057 or 98.2 per cent in support of continuing the marketing program for another year.

Both the tobacco and cotton balloting were conducted on an interstate basis. A two-thirds majority of those voting was required to carry the issue.

Tobacco and peanut farmers in North Carolina also voted in favor of continuing self-help assessment programs to promote their products.

Tar Heel tobacco growers voted 114,257 to 5,314 in favor of their assessment to Tobacco Associates, Inc. Last year, the assessment amounted to 50 cents an acre.

Peanut farmers voted 17,248 to 386 to assess themselves two cents a hundredweight to promote their product through the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association.

Teacher Added At Littleton

LITTLETON — An increase in enrollment and attendance covering the first 60 days at Littleton High School has resulted in the employment of another teacher, Cody L. Robinson, principal, announced yesterday.

Mrs. Wallace E. Brown of Vaughan began teaching at the Littleton school on Thursday.

Funds Allocated For Gaston Lake Planning

Allocation of funds in the amount of $11,300 to help finance the planning and development of Gaston Lake in Warren, Halifax and Northampton Counties was announced this week by Marvin Newsom, chairman of the Warren County Planning Board.

The allocation was part of a $97,790 grant made by the Federal Government to the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development for development of towns and counties in the state.

The grant, together with funds from the three counties, will make available $18,850 for financing the mapping, planning and development of the Lake area, Newsom said.

GREET SANTA — Hundreds of men, women and children gathered on Warrenton's Main Street Friday night to give Santa Claus a rousing welcome on his annual pre-Christmas trip here. St. Nick entered town riding on the Warrenton fire truck and stopped off at his headquarters on the Court House square to pass out candy and hear wishes from children. The jolly visitor is pictured above waving to crowds before entering his headquarters. (Staff Photo)

Santa Has A Busy Schedule Of Many Visits

Santa Claus who turned his toy-making operations over to Mrs. Santa Claus in order that he might spend more hours in his headquarters on the court house square at Warrenton, has discovered that he must get around quite a bit in order to see more boys and girls.

All this traveling imposes a busy schedule on old Santa, but he was quite cheerful yesterday when he dropped in the office, much elated over invitations to appear in other communities of the county. "It keeps me busy," he said, "but it is my greatest pleasure."

The purpose of Santa's visit to the newspaper office was to give the editor a schedule of his appearances over the county in order that more children might have an opportunity to visit him. His schedule from this afternoon until Christmas Eve night is as follows:

Santa will be at his headquarters here from 4 to 6:30 tonight, and on Saturday night his hours will be from 4 to 7. Sunday, December 17, Santa will be at the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church here at 4 p. m.; at Macon Baptist Church at 5:30 p. m.; and at Zion Methodist Church at 9 p. m.

On Monday, December 18, Santa will be at his headquarters here from 4 to 6:30 p. m.

On Tuesday, December 19, Santa will be at his headquarters here from 3 to 5 p. m.; and will be at his headquarters here from 6:30 to 7 p. m.

Santa will be at his headquarters here from 4 to 7 p. m. on Wednesday, December 20, and will be at the Warrenton Presbyterian Church at 8:15 p. m.

On December 21, Santa will be at his local headquarters from 4 to 7 p. m., but that night will be at Jerusalem (See SANTA, page 12)

Nativity Scene To Be Staged At Norlina

Forty Norlina church members will participate in the staging of a live nativity scene at Norlina during four nights next week.

Members of the Norlina Baptist Church and the Norlina, Zion and Jerusalem Methodist Churches will take part in the scene which will be located near Hyco Street from December 20 through December 24.

Using funds provided by the Norlina Merchants Association, the churches serving the town of Norlina will present the nativity scene nightly from 7:00 until 9:00 o'clock.

Christmas anthems and carols will be sung by church members as the scene is presented adjacent to the SAL depot.

The four-night presentation will be highlighted by a community vesper service on Sunday night, December 24. During this service, pastors of the participating churches will lead in the singing of carols, scripture reading, prayer and special music.

Serving as co-chairmen of the presentation are the Rev. C. W. Wooten, pastor of the Norlina Methodist Church, and the Rev. Billy Fallaw, pastor of the Norlina Baptist Church. The idea was originated by the Rev. John Andrews, former pastor of the Zion and Jerusalem Churches, now served by the Rev. B. F. Funderburk.

Prizes To Be Given For Decorations

Some $40 in cash prizes will go to Norlina residents with Christmas decorating ingenuity.

According to an announcement made by the Norlina Merchants Association, cash prizes will be awarded the town's residents who display the best outside Christmas decorations.

Out-of-town judges will inspect the exterior decorations on Wednesday night, December 20, according to the announcement.

Decoration Contest

The Town N' Country Garden Club will sponsor its Annual Christmas Decoration Contest for the residents of the Warrenton Community. A prize will be given for the best indoor decoration as seen from the outside, and a prize will be given for the best outdoor decoration.

Judges will inspect the decorations on Saturday night, December 23, 1961 between the hours of 7 p. m. and 10 p. m.

Santa To Visit Norlina Postoffice

Pre-school age children and first and second grade children of the Norlina area are expected to gather at the Norlina Postoffice on Tuesday, December 19, from 3 until 5 o'clock to chat with Santa Claus.

Letters have been mailed from the Norlina Postoffice by Santa Claus, who has answered the letters for the past five years, telling the children that he will be present to answer their questions in person.

Santa asks that any little children who have not received their letters, to come to the Postoffice to see Santa just the same.

Young People To Sing Carols

Students home from college and boys and girls in junior and senior high school will gather at the Baptist Church Sunday, December 24, at 5:30 o'clock to go caroling over the community. The group will come back to the Methodist Church for refreshments, after they go caroling.

All students home for the holidays and those in junior and senior high are invited to come and help carol, according to the four ministers participating, the Rev. John Link, the Rev. James Stoney, the Rev. Troy Barrett, and the Rev. Levi Humphreys.

Called Meeting

A called meeting of the Wise-Paschall Home Demonstration Club will be held on Monday night, December 18, at the Wise school at 7:30. This meeting is to try to increase the membership of the club and all members and new members are urged to attend. New officers will also be elected at this time.

To Sponsor Dance

The Wise-Paschall Home Demonstration Club will sponsor a dance at the Wise School on Saturday night from 7:30 to 11:00. Admission will be 25c and girls will be admitted free.

Commissioners Discuss Sewage Disposal Plant

Plans for the building of a sewage disposal plant at Warrenton were discussed by the Board of Town Commissioners at its regular meeting here on Monday night.

It was estimated by the commissioners that the cost of such a plant would be around $150,000 with one-third of this cost being borne by the Federal government, and that the town would be required to complete the project within the next four or five years.

The grace period, however, does not mean that the commissioners may wait four or five years before starting to work on the project, according to Harold R. Skillman, superintendent of the Warrenton Water Company, who attended a meeting of the Stream Sanitary Commission in Rocky Mount on November 9, and reported action taken at that meeting to the commissioners Monday night.

Skillman said that the purpose of the meeting at Rocky Mount was to make plans for the cleaning up of the Tar-Pamlico River Basin, and that notices that Warrenton's sewage is polluting Fishing Creek, a tributary of the Tar, would probably be received by the town within the next 30 days.

Skillman said that the dumping of raw sewage into Fishing Creek and into Possamaquaddy Creek, which flows into Fishing Creek, had been noted by the Sanitary Commission. This had resulted in some pollution of the water as far down the creek as Enfield. The condition at Enfield is no so bad as to prevent the use of water by Enfield, but it makes the water objectionable, he said.

There is little doubt that Warrenton and other towns dumping raw sewage into the streams of the Tar-Pamlico Basin will have to end this practice within the next few years, Skillman told the commissioners. He said that he gathered from discussions at the Rocky Mount meeting that four or five years would be the maximum time permitted to end this practice.

However, Skillman said, the towns affected would have to show progress reports during the intervening years. Such reports, he said, would include the hiring of an engineer, the obtaining of a site, and the accumulation of funds for the construction of a sewage disposal plant. He said that, in his opinion, towns showing good faith and reasonable effort might be permitted to operate without such a plant for as long as four or five years, but there is practically no doubt that the policy of dumping raw sewage into streams of the state would be soon ended.

Water at the intake pipe on Fishing Creek, is very good, Skillman said, with a classification of A-2, but below the outfall of the sewage line the classification drops down to C, which means that it is not suitable for fishing or bathing, although it will support fish life. As the water flows down the creek the bacteria count drops and the count is low enough at Enfield for the water to be used for human consumption, but citizens find it objectionable because of Warrenton's action, Skillman said.

The commissioners, after hearing Skillman's report, agreed that preparation should be made at once for the building of a sewage plant at Warrenton. They agreed that an engineer should be consulted following the Christmas holidays, and that plans should be (See DISCUSS, page 12) harmful. The building and equipment and many textbooks were destroyed in the fire, Peeler said. He said that the building was insured for $1800 and the equipment for $100. The textbooks were fully insured by the state and will be replaced in the school without cost to the county.

The Ellington school was one of the eleven small Negro schools in the county to be consolidated in the event that a bond issue is to be submitted early next year is approved by the voters.

Mobile school units, fashioned like large trailers, have been recently placed in several counties of the state, including Vance and Wake Counties, to take care of temporary overcrowding in some schools. They are air-conditioned and will house a teacher and some 25 pupils. Since they contain no toilet facilities they are located on the grounds of schools having such facilities.

To Replace Burned Building

Board Of Education To Buy Mobile Classrooms

The Warren County Board of Education will purchase two mobile school units to house students left without classrooms because of the destruction of the Ellington Negro school by fire early Monday morning.

The Board members instructed Supt. Roger Peeler to enter into negotiation for the purchase of the two units at a meeting held here Monday night. The units are expected to cost around $5,000 each and will be placed at the Northside Elementary School.

The Ellington students are being temporarily taken care of at Northside and North Warren schools, with one of the two teachers being assigned to each of the two schools. Supt. Roger Peeler said that this was only a temporary arrangement.

The two-room Ellington school was completely destroyed by fire originating around a flue in the ceiling around 8 o'clock Monday morning. About half of the students were at the school at the time the flames were discovered. They fled from the building un-harmful. The building and equipment and many textbooks were destroyed in the fire, Peeler said. He said that the building was insured for $1800 and the equipment for $100. The textbooks were fully insured by the state and will be replaced in the school without cost to the county.
