"CHRISTIAN TRADITIONS CAN STRENGTHEN FAMILY LIFE"

Because Christmas is the birthday of the Christ Child, it holds a special meaning for the family. Christmas started with a baby in the manger—the Christ of History—but Christmas is kept alive when the Christ of History becomes for each person, the Christ of Experience. As families try to keep Christmas, they are reminding the world that Christ is a part of their lives today—not just a fact of history. As they offer their gifts of faith, hope, and love, they are putting into practice this thought

"Not only at Christmas But all the year through The joy you give to others Is the joy that comes to you. The road to Bethlehem runs right through

The homes of folks like me and you."

Christian parents are becoming increasingly concerned over the need for making faith a family affair—of living day by day the religion they profess. Family traditions at Christmas time may include the tree, Santa Claus, gifts, cards, the big family dinner, but Christmas offers a rare opportunity to emphasize the spiritual more than the material values of the holiday season. Some have said that Christmas can be a "hollowday" if we do not place emphasis on the true meaning of the season rather than on the festive holiday.

"MAY WE WISH YOU THE VERY MERRIEST OF CHRISTMASSES" Carefully blended with friendship
Lightly tossed with good cheer
Thoroughly simmered with laughter
Generously sprinkled with loving hearts
And garnished with an abundance of delicious holiday foods.

Reams Shows Film At Lions Meeting

(Omitted Last Week)
Frank Reams showed a film on Tornadoes and Hurricanes at the regular meeting of the Lions Club at Hotel Warren on last Friday evening.

Reams was presented by Harold R. Skillman, who was in charge of the program.

The film—described as quite interesting by a member of the club yesterday—described the work of the Weather Bureau in tracking down and reporting hurricanes and tornadoes, and told of precautions that might be taken by citizens to minimize damage from such violent storms.

President Duke Jones presided over the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mitchell will spend the holidays at Jacksonville, Fla., with Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Lyerly and daughter.

May your Christmas dreams come true! And may jolly old Santa bring you and yours a full pack of happiness and health.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS

Christmas, the Christian season of light, love, loveliness and good will does not always find us in a Christmas atmosphere. Sometimes the season of happiness comes where gloom is large, sickness deep, and fears prevail. In the long history of the Church men have kept Christmas in times of famine, pestilence, depression and war. Christmas does not always come where lights are bright, trees green, gifts plentiful, bodies strong, and hearts liberated from dull shadows.

Once more war threatens at the season when we celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace. We hear the sound of marching feet and the rattle of sabres. It may help us, however, to remember that Christ was born when darkness covered the land. He was born when frost bit deeply into the earth's crust, and little fires warmed only the hands of chilled men. He came when the "great ones" of the earth were absorbed in their own self-centered pleasures, and the masses lived with the poor pleasures of the poor.

I like to recall that when He came the humblest of men were honored first: the uneducated, uncultured, unlearned shepherds of the hills. The great message came to the "common people" who are often uncommonly extraordinary. I like to remember that when He came the humblest place on earth, a stable, shone with the splendor of a throne room. I like to think that when He came, He came directly through the love of a woman named Mary, and indirectly through a man named Joseph, who made their love for each other God's pathway to the needs of the world. When He came a manger was bed enough.

In the modern world Caesar's soldiers still shake the earth, darkness is still present, and all thoughtful people feel the chill of the frost-time and the inadequacy of our little fires of hopefulness. But there is one thought we must not forget: God is still God. The world is still His world. He who sent His Son to save the world, using Mary as His means, Joseph as His servant, shepherds as His welcoming committee, and angels as His messengers of light, has not forgotten us. Even in times as chaotic as these, He is with us. Are we with Him?
—Walter R. Courtenay, D. D.

AT THIS HOLY SEASON
"Just as Mary held a baby within her arms that night,
Just as there were shepherds and a star to shed its light,
Just as it was Christmas in the stable where He lay,
May it be Christmas in your heart and home this Christmas Day."

Witnesses Attend Training Program

Members of the Warrenton Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses returned to Warrenton Sunday night after a three-day ministry training program in Greenville.

The 266 delegates present for the Friday even session found their numbers had swollen to 338 by the time of Sunday's keynote address, "Uniting Men in a Split Up World," delivered by H. L. Brissett, special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York.

In his address Mr. Brissett stressed that the principle necessary to attain unity in recognition of a central authority, "Human efforts," he said, "such as the United Nations, pacts and alliances, world federations, and ecumenical movements have failed to bring unity." "True unity," continued Brissett, "is found in recognizing God as the supreme authority; love for God, which means respect for his divine law and worship in spirit and truth; love for neighbor which means having concern for the welfare of others, respect for their rights and property and the removal of racial and political barriers; love for scriptural truth. We need God's spirit and His Kingdom for good government rather than human systems of rule."

J. R. Davis, local presiding minister, said: "Through demonstrations, talks, and discussions we receive vital instruction pertinent to our Bible educational work in the community. We will now be in a much better position to fulfill our ministerial obligations by applying the things learned."
