

Motor Law Violators Fined In County Court

Violators of the motor vehicle laws drew fines ranging from $10 to $100, plus court costs, when they appeared before Judge Julius Banzet in Recorder's Court on last Friday.

The $100 fine and costs were imposed upon Eddie Bryant Wagoner when he was found guilty on a drunken driving charge.

Charles Dean Newell was called and failed to appear in court to answer charges of drunk driving, hit and run, and no operator's license. His bond was declared forfeited. Verdicts in other cases involving violations of the motor vehicle laws included:

Alexander Tuck, reckless driving, $25.00 and costs.

Charles Barry Ferguson, speeding, costs.

James Rodgers Sammons, speeding, costs.

Walter Norris Alford, speeding, costs.

Roger Franklin Garrett, speeding, $10.00 and costs.

Gerald H. McDonald, speeding, $15.00 and costs.

Donald Gene Keeton, speeding, $10.00 and costs.

David Horace Ayscue, speeding, costs.

Will Allen Connell, speeding, driving on wrong side of road, costs.

Clarence Alex May, speeding, costs.

Solomon Davis, no operator's license, $25.00 and costs.

Dr. Joseph Francis Wiggins, speeding, cost of court.

Clyde Norwood Parker, speeding, court costs.

Harry Caswell Handoe, failure to display license plate, no operator's license, $25.00 and costs.

John Henry Henderson was in court charged with improper brakes and with no operator's license. He was found guilty of improper brakes. The State took a nol pros on charge of No Operator's License, as the defendant exhibited a valid operator's license. He was charged with court costs on the improper brake charge.

In other cases before Judge Banzet, the State took a nol pros with leave in cases against Theodore Smiley and Fred Powell and Bernard Collins, charged with assault.

Alton Davis, found guilty of an assault with a deadly weapon, was sentenced to the roads for 90 days.

Scholarship Given For Macon Woman

A gift of $500 to establish a scholarship at Wesley Memorial College has been announced by Mrs. Charles G. Doak, secretary-treasurer of the Littleton College Memorial Association, through which the gift was made.

The scholarship, donated by Mrs. D. C. Lawrence of Sanford, was given in honor of Mrs. Emma Thornton Nowell of Macon, Mrs. Lawrence's sister.

Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Nowell are alumnae of Littleton College, which was destroyed by fire in 1919. Wesleyan College has made Littleton's alumnae honorary members to head its alumni association. Richmond is president of the Littleton College Alumnae Association.

Mrs. Nowell was secretary to James M. Rhodes, president of Littleton College, for many years. She was a teacher of note, and is a prominent leader in her home town of Macon. She is the widow of John S. Nowell and is a member of the distinguished National Macon family. She is at present ill in the Adams-Kinton Home in Lillington.

Mrs. Doak said that the Emma Thornton Nowell Scholarship and the Vera Herring student loans will be granted to deserving young women from the Littleton College Memorial Fund.

Dr. Thomas A. Collins, president of Wesley College, has expressed his gratitude and thanks to Mrs. Lawrence and other Littleton alumnae who have contributed to the college. Dr. Collins also expressed his appreciation to the association for its selection of Wesleyan College as the depository of Littleton's memorabilia.

Board Adopts New Regulations

At the last meeting, the Warren County Board of Health adopted two new regulations governing sanitation practices. One code is a revision of the ordinance regulating individual sewage disposal systems; the other is a code regulating operation of Trailer Courts. These regulations are considered necessary in order to keep up with current practices in Public Health.

The sewage regulations are designed to give guidance and directions to persons installing septic tanks and other sewage disposal systems for homes. The new minimum requirements call for larger septic tanks and nitrification fields in order to enable the system to provide better disposal service. These requirements are based on soil conditions in Warren County, which are poor, as well as size of homes and use of appliances. The trailer court regulations are designed to provide persons with sound guidance for maximum efficiency and convenience in designing, operating, and maintaining trailer courts in Warren County.

Persons who will be affected by these regulations, especially home-owners putting in, or altering, sewage disposal systems, are urged to discuss the codes with contractors and with the Health Department. The regulations are not meant to be simply for law enforcement, but to provide guidance to ensure maximum service. The Health Department invites all interested parties to discuss these matters with the Health Director or the Sanitarian, to gain a clearer understanding of better, more modern, Health and Sanitation Practices.

Income Tax Cuts Urged To Spur Nation's Growth

The tax system must be simplified and broadened, with much lower income tax rates and larger exemptions, if our economy is to get the funds it needs for healthy growth, former Under Secretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill writes in the January Reader's Digest.

"Our principal competitors in the world market, notably West Germany and the Soviet Union have long preceded us in utilizing the far more successful sales and excise taxes," says Mr. Magill, who is now Chairman of the Tax Foundation. "It is perhaps significant that in Soviet Russia 30 percent of the gross national product goes into capital investment; in West Germany it is 23 percent; in the United States 15 percent. We stand unhappily unique in our dependence on an income tax which offers no incentive to work and produce, and which absorbs earnings that should be invested in new plant and equipment."

The federal income tax produced $2 billion dollars in 1950 as opposed to $6 billion in 1951, he notes, but still more money is needed. Some have argued that it can be raised—and rates actually lowered—if so-called "loopholes" are plugged. Magill denies this. If all exemptions and deductions were wiped out—the extra exemption granted to the blind, interest on home mortgages, deduction for hurricane destruction, for three examples—the tax would lose much of the quality of fairness that caused its adoption. And it is only this quality of fairness which has induced taxpayers to tolerate it, despite its high rates, he writes. Instead, he concludes, "we need to add a productive, simpler form of tax to our federal fiscal arsenal."

The article is titled "Plugging the Loopholes: Is Not the Answer."

Afton 4-H Club Wins $5.00 Prize

Afton Junior 4-H Club had the highest percentage of club members and parents present at the annual Achievement Program Wednesday night and thus received the $5.00 prize given by the county council.

Chuck Pinnell is president of the club and received the check for his club.

Income Tax Forms Now Being Sent

RALEIGH — The State Department of Revenue began mailing out income tax return forms to more than a million Tarheel citizens Wednesday.

Revenue Commissioner W. A. Johnson said the forms should make more taxpayers happy than sad.

Johnson pointed out that this year about 820,000 taxpayers received refunds after they filled out the income tax returns and returned them to the state.

"That means these returns are not painful at all to most," Johnson said, "They are pleasant instead."

The taxpayers will use the returns to figure out how much they owe the state in taxes on their 1961 income. They are supposed to be filled out and returned by April 15.

The state now collects its individual income taxes through the payroll withholding method. Those who paid too little this way will pay some more, while those who paid too much will get a refund.

The revenue department mailed out about 1.3 million of the income tax forms last year and will mail a few more than that this year.

Divorce Isn't

MEXICO CITY—Police said today a mail-order divorce mill operating in central Mexico may have sent phony decrees to tens of thousands of couples on three continents.

Investigators estimated that 50,000 couples in California alone may have received worthless divorces from the mill, which operated here and in the nearby resort town of Cuernavaca.

Records seized in a raid on a law office here indicated that hundreds of other invalid divorces may have been sent to persons in at least six other countries — Argentina, Brazil, Chile, France, Italy and Spain.

Four persons have been arrested in connection with the ring's activities and a fifth is expected. Papers seized here and in Cuernavaca indicated that agents and branch offices in northern Mexico and the branch offices in Northern Mexico and the southwestern United States solicited business, promising cut-rate Mexican divorces by mail.

The papers arrived as promised, the police said, but the divorces were recorded only in private files. They are of no legal value.

Most Wanted

WASHINGTON—Francis Laverne Brannan, a freckle-faced Midwesterner wanted for murder, was placed today on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted criminals.

Brannan, 36, has been accused of the shotgun slaying of a 73-year-old clergyman's widow at Rushville, Ill., on Oct. 23. The FBI said the fugitive should be "considered armed and extremely dangerous."

The wanted man, who has a record of sex perversion, is described as a dapper dresser who fancies cashmere sweaters and prefers white collar jobs.

Major Concern

CHARLOTTE — Government spending will be his major concern when Congress reconvenes next month, Rep. Charles R. Jonas, R-N.C., said Tuesday.

The North Carolina Republican said he felt government spending was a concern shared by a majority of Tar Heels.

"There's an adverse reaction to spending—a feeling that governments are spending too much," Jonas added.

Jonas said tax revision, federal aid to education and medical care for the aged issues would also be carried over into the next session of Congress.

RIDES ON WALK

SILVIS, Ill.—Farmer Raymond Cabry, 35, rode his horse to town because he thought a nine-inch snowfall made driving too hazardous.

Cabry was charged Tuesday with improperly using a sidewalk for a bridle path.

One Man Killed; Two Shot At Holiday Party

A fight over a woman led to the fatal shooting of one man and the seriously wounding of two others at a Christmas holiday party near Manson on Saturday night.

Dead as the result of a fight is John Thorp of Oxford, fatally wounded by a stray bullet from a .25 calibre automatic in the hands of Joe Parrish, also of Oxford.

Parrish is being held without bail in Warren County jail awaiting the outcome of the wounds of James Evans and James Kersey before being given hearing. The two wounded men were brought to Warren General Hospital and later transferred to Duke, according to Deputy Sheriff Herbert Rooker, who said yesterday that he understood that the men are recovering.

The scene of the shooting, Rooker said, was the home of Rosa Sommerville, who was holding a party, attending among others by Joe Parrish, John Thorp, and four other men from Oxford.

According to Rooker, Joe Parrish was dancing with a girl when James Evans attempted to "cut in." When Parrish pushed Evans away, Evans reached into his pocket. Parrish told the Warren deputy that when he saw Evans hand emerge with something he believed to be a knife he pulled a pistol from his pocket and shot Evans.

As Parrish continued to fire the weapon, a stray bullet hit a by-stander, James Kersey, and another bullet struck Thorp, Parrish's buddy who had accompanied him to the party from Oxford.

The wounded men were taken to the hospital, and Thorp was taken by his friends to an Oxford hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Rooker said that he was called around 4 a. m. Sunday by Sheriff Jones of Granville County who told him that a man had been killed at a dance in Warren County and that he was holding five suspects.

Rooker said that Parrish at first denied the shooting, but after considerable questioning by him and Sheriff Jones admitted that he was the guilty man. Following the admission Rooker brought Parrish to the Warren County jail.

Man Has Throat Slashed

A Warren County Negro had his throat slit almost from ear to ear in a fight at Wayside Inn near Wise on Christmas Day.

Deputy Sheriff Bonnie Stevenson said yesterday that John Henry Grigg, whose throat was cut from one ear to a point beyond the chin on the other side of his face in the fight at the inn, was not seriously injured.

William Hargrove, Jr., 19, is being held for trial in Recorder's Court under $200 bond.

Stevenson said that Hargrove told him at the time of his arrest, that he just cut Grigg during a fight. The cause of the fight was not stated.

Dr. Graham Says Human Survival Depends On U. N.

CHARLOTTE — Dr. Frank Graham, mediator for the United Nations, said Wednesday the international organization was a "moral imperative of human survival."

Graham, in Charlotte to visit two of his sisters, said the U. N. would "come through" despite its "ups and downs, frustrations and setbacks."

He said he felt the world's leftists and the extreme right in the United States were "in an unconscious alliance to weaken or destroy the United Nations."

Graham has given more than 300 talks in 40 states while waiting for his cases to be heard at the U. N. He said he found opposition to the organization was vocal and aggressive but that the majority of Americans support the United Nations.

Graham said he felt other international organizations, such as NATO, should be reinforcement of the principles and purposes of the United Nations rather than alternatives.

He felt there were many solutions to the growing hostility between East and West and said many projects could divert the so-called "inevitable conflict."

Graham said chaos would result from world conflict. The alternatives he listed as "progressive and responsible self-determination of all peoples, long-range plans for economic development and mutual aid for the peoples of the underdeveloped nations procedures of conciliation, negotiated peaceful settlements of disputes and continued efforts for effective and universal disarmament."

He said the world could choose between "universal well-being and brotherhood—or universal suicide of the human race."

"It's the first time in human history man has had the power to create a world that can provide for all people," he declared.

Inez, Ridgeway Groups Reach Goal

Turning in their complete quotas last week for the county-wide 4-H Development Fund Drive were Inez and Ridgeway communities, according to Ann Rackley, assistant home agent.

Also reporting progress were Warrenton, Enterprise and Macon.

Dolores Lancaster, treasurer of the Warren County 4-H Council, turned in $100 check which the county council approved giving at their last meeting.

No Longer Borrow

RALEIGH—No longer will Gov. Terry Sanford have to borrow a transistor radio from one of the prisoners who works at the Executive Mansion.

Thanks to Santa Claus, the governor now has his own pocket-sized set and reports he is highly pleased.

The governor returned to Raleigh from Fayetteville on Christmas Eve, after attending Sunday School and church in his home town. With him he brought a "small piece of jewelry" as his Christmas gift for his wife, Margaret Rose.

For nine-year-old Terry, Jr., there was a three-foot electric car under the Christmas tree among his gifts and 11-year-old Betsy received a new overnight bag and a hair dryer.

The governor's brother-in-law, Air Force Col. John Knight, his wife and their three children, spent Christmas with the Sanfords at the mansion, driving to Raleigh from Westover AFB, Mass.

Former Resident Is Featured In Article

The following article, taken from The Raleigh Times' issue of December 19, will be of interest to Mrs. Edsall's friends here. She is the former Katherine Alston, who made her home for several years at Warrenton, and who frequently visits her aunt, Miss Nora King, and other relatives here.—Editor.

After 16 years of service to the D. H. Hill Library at State College, Mrs. Preston W. Edsall, head of the library's Circulation Department is retiring January 1.

In announcing her retirement today Harlan C. Brown, director of the library, said: "Her contributions are numerous but outstanding are her decoration of the interior of the library, a zealous pursuit of inter-library borrowing and lending, and an efficient day-by-day lending service to students and faculty."

At a recent meeting of the Faculty Library Committee honoring her, Dr. Lodwick Hartley, chairman of the committee and head of the English Department, said of her work:

"In the history of the entire library there has not been a person more warmly devoted than she has been to the tasks of increasing the library's resources and of improving the efficiency of its operation. To these ends she has labored with extraordinary intelligence and splendid enthusiasm, often to the extent of personal sacrifice."

"The whole college is indebted to her. I am sure that most faculty members share my own appreciation and my very high esteem," he stated.

Mrs. Edsall came to her present position in 1945 after having served for two years as librarian at the North Carolina School for the Blind.

She received an undergraduate degree from Randolph-Macon Woman's College, a master's degree from Columbia University, and library training from Catholic University of America.

At State College, Mrs. Edsall constructed a replica of the famous Globe Theater—the theatre where many of Shakespeare's plays were staged.

In a description of her model, Dr. Hartley said, "This model, a labor of love that entailed both painstaking research and manual skill, is the finest of its kind south of the Folger Library in Washington and east of the University of Texas—or even perhaps east of the Rockies. It is, therefore, at most priceless."
