DAR Members Hear Report Of State Conference

The Warren County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its regular meeting in the home of Miss Mamie Williams on Saturday afternoon. Co-hostesses were Miss Edith Burwell and Mrs. Joe Ellis. The Williams home was attractive with lovely spring flowers and Japanese cherry.

Mrs. J. E. Rooker, Jr., regent, presided. A report was given on the State Conference recently held in Charlotte, when Senator Irwin Belk addressed the Conference and spoke on "Patriotism."

Senator Belk stressed the danger and confusion being caused by "all kinds of voices (name-calling)," which wrongly accuse others of disloyalty. He said that "criticism, when a wrong decision is about to be made, is not disloyalty—in fact, it is the proper time to express differences of opinion." To guard against subversion, Senator Belk advocated the use of constituted police authority, evidence and a trial by jury. He reminded the DAR delegates that it was the State of North Carolina that forced adoption of the first ten amendments to the Constitution—which amendments provide the basic guarantees of freedom of religion, speech, assembly and freedom to write what one thinks. Patriotism means concern for these rights and loyalty to the common welfare, he said.

Another speaker at the State Conference—Miss Gertrude Carraway, past State regent and past president-general of the National Society—spoke on the "Value of Good Citizenship." Greater emphasis should be placed on the proper teaching of American history in our schools, she said, with "no debunking of our heroes and distortion of historic facts." She quoted a vice-admiral as saying recently that "only half of the boys recruited in the Armed Forces can make a rational explanation of the meaning of the Fourth of July. Good citizenship is necessary for good government, she said.

During the conference Sara Moss of Washington High School in Beaufort County was announced State DAR Good Citizen, having won over 27 Good Citizens in her district, No. 8, and over the winners in the other seven districts. She will represent North Carolina at the Continental Congress in Washington, D. C., April 15-20.

Mrs. J. M. Stokes, chapter chairman of Good Citizens, announced that the Littleton, Norlina and Warrenton high schools have elected Good Citizens for 1962-63 and that their names will be announced soon.

Mrs. W. A. Graham, chairman of Junior American Citizenship work, reported that she had recently attended an excellent meeting of the Thomas Jefferson J. A. C. Club, composed of 33 children in the Mariam Boyd School. This club, she said, is one of six clubs in the county with a total membership of 564 boys and girls.

An invitation, from the Tryon Palace Commission, to a luncheon on April 10, honoring North Carolina's First Lady, Mrs. Terry Sanford, was read by the regent.

For a delightful program Mrs. A. H. Bryson received an interesting article in 'The N. C. Historical Review'—'A Yankee Teacher in North Carolina.' Summarizing Mrs. Bryson's review, the Yankee teacher was Margaret Newbold Thorpe, who had finished her work in Williamsburg, Va., for the Friends Association of Philadelphia, and accompanied by Elizabeth Pennock, arrived in Warrenton in the spring of 1869 to teach in the newly established public schools for Negroes.

The article, by Miss Thorpe, herself, and edited by Richard Morton, described Warrenton as "the ancient county seat—pleasantly laid out with broad streets and a central open square bordered by a stately columned courthouse—population about 800."

While in Warrenton, the two teachers lived in the old Bragg Home, from which Horace Greely and Mary Cheney were married in Emmanuel Church in 1836.

The article, describing "Life in North Carolina," and the unusual experiences of Misses Thorpe and Pennock, during their stay in Warrenton from 1869-71, gives a graphic picture of the people, the customs, happenings and hardships of that period.

After the meeting was adjourned, coffee with ham biscuits, cheese and olive crackers, and chocolate cake was served in the dining room. The table, covered with an antique linen cloth, a treasured heirloom, had as its centerpiece, a bowl of lovely jonquils.
