MAKE LAST YEAR'S GARMENT FASHIONABLE

Make last year's garment fashionable during this time of year. Many of us like to look fresh in new clothes, but some of us will have to wear the same garments we had last year. Since this is true, may I suggest several things that you may do with your wardrobe planning.

1. Remove all of your garments from the wardrobe, or your clothes closet.
2. Launder or dry-clean these garments, that is, if you have not already done so.
3. Check to see if the colors you wore last year are becoming.
4. Assort them into three groups:
  - a. In the first group, put the clothes that you may want to discard, or to give away. Decide which ones you will rip or remake into useful garments such as: aprons, blouses, children's clothes, play clothes, and many other useful garments.
  - b. In the second group, put the clothes that need to be mended, especially those which you will need to replace buttons, mend button-holes that have been torn or stretched, replace zippers, snaps, torn small holes, rips, and tears.
  - c. In the third group, include the garments that need to be shortened, restyled or altered. In order to have a better fit it may be necessary to alter the waist, shoulders, and sleeves.
5. Look in fashion leaflets, books, or magazines for ideas that you may use to restyle certain garments you wore last year. Many of these garments are too wide, or too long. They may easily be restyled by taking some of the fabric out of the seams of the wide skirt, in order to give the appearance of the sheath type dress. These garments may be made shorter since the trend is toward shorter dress lengths.
6. Be sure to honor grain-lines, and do not stretch the fabric.
7. A few faded garments may be tinted or re-dyed with care to give a clean, fresh look to last year's garment.
8. Covered buttons made from scraps of garments may be used to replace old cracked, rusty, or faded buttons that may have been on last year's garment.
9. The neckline may be cut deeper or rounded, and a jacket may be made and worn to refresh last year's garment.
10. Make or trim a hat or bag or both from scraps that you may cut from the side

African Agricultural Leaders To Visit Warren County

Three African agricultural leaders will live with three farm families for a period of one week commencing April 15. These African participants are from the newly independent country of Kenya, East Africa, which extends from the Indian Ocean northeast to the Somali Republic, north to Ethiopia, west to Uganda and south to Tanganyika.

The capital is Nairobi. Since 1957 native Africans and Asians have been elected to the Legislative Council. Agricultural items constitute about 90 per cent by value of Kenya's exports. Coffee is the outstanding agricultural product; tea is also important.

Coffee, tea, pyrethrum, sisal, and wattle bark, as well as most other exports, are graded, marketed, and exported primarily through commodity associations, such as the Kenya Coffee Board and Kenya Pyrethrum Board.

The United States ranks as the third best overseas customer for Kenya's exports, following the United Kingdom and West Germany. Kenya's 1957 imports of tobacco from the United States were the only unmanufactured tobacco imports from overseas.

Total population in 1957 was estimated at 6,240,000. Over 90 per cent of the population is dependent upon agriculture. Overall density of population is 28 persons per square mile, but most of the people are concentrated in the Highlands and adjacent lowland areas in the southern third of the country.

The participants are sponsored to this country by the Agency for International Development, United States Department of Agriculture and Land-Grant Institutions co-operating.

While in Warren County, these participants will live with Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hunt and family of Embro Community; Mr. and Mrs. Armistead O. Johnson and family of Oline Community; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Davis and family of Coley Springs Community.

The major objectives of these participants' visit are as follows:

To spend about a week living with one or more farm families to make general observations regarding appearance and layout of farms and homes, roads leading to market area, rural schools, availability of magazines, newspapers and other facilities;

To accompany farm families to schools, cooperatives, banks, local market centers, local offices of agencies serving farm people and other local institutions so the Kenya farmers may quickly get acquainted with the way of life of North Carolina farm families;

To learn the purpose and organization of the North Carolina Extension Service program and how it relates to resident teaching and research phases of the college; and

To study rural community—how the people live, especially small farmers, how they are organized to work together and the role of rural volunteer leaders.

The Africans to visit Warren County are as follows:

Jediel H. Nyagah—Secretary, Ntunguri Coffee Growers Co-operative Society; member of the Maize Marketing Board of Kenya; religious affiliation, Presbyterian.

Joseph M. Nthula—farmer and trader, self-employed; member of the Kenya African National Traders and Farmers Union; religious affiliation, Catholic.

Stephen Nthiga—Trader and farmer, self-employed; member of the Trade and Markets Committee; religious affiliation, Episcopal.

Say you saw it advertised in The Warren Record.
