into the main stream of a great America. Things are happening and changes are inevitable. He based part of his talk on an article from the February issue of the National Geographic magazine, the Dynamo of Dixie.

Engineer Is Sought For Sewage Disposal Plant

Warrenton moved a step closer to the installation of a sewage disposal plant on Monday night when the town commissioners authorized the water commission to interview several engineering firms in order that an engineer for the project might be selected.

Action of the commissioners came at a called meeting of the board after receipt of Schedule of Classifications Adopted and Assigned to Waters of the Tar-Pamlico River Basin. The commissioners have six months in which to file notice of intent with the State Stream and Sanitation Commission.

Mayor Miles said that the town would probably have from three to five years to complete the project here in the event that the town shows good intent and reasonable progress. The employment of an engineer would not only show good intent, he said, but would also provide the town with estimated costs so that preparations for raising funds for the work might be started in order that only a small bond issue would be necessary when bids are called for the construction.

Principal purpose of the called meeting was to act upon a request that the town donate funds for a recreational program for children of the Warrenton School District during this summer. The commissioners authorized a donation of $100 from the contingency fund for this purpose.

A second purpose of the meeting was to pass a resolution requesting that the Federal Government not eliminate any North Carolina National Guard Units, and was a part of a movement of towns with Guard units to protect these units.

Mayor Miles told the commissioners that a request had been made to him to have the town lease the "Scout Cabin" in North Warrenton to Limer Post of the American Legion to be used as a hut. He appointed a committee, composed of Commissioner David Dickerson, chairman; and Commissioners A. C. Fair and A. C. Blalock, to investigate the condition of the cabin and to make recommendations to the board.

Fourteen of the fifteen cases in a short session of Recorder's Court last Friday were concerned with violations of the motor vehicle laws, with judgments of the court ranging from court costs to $100 fine and costs.

Jerome Boyd was fined $50 and costs when he was found guilty on a reckless driving charge.

Harold Lee Satterwhite was fined $100 and court costs when he was judged guilty of a reckless driving charge.

James Louis Hendricks was found guilty on a reckless driving charge and was fined $25 and taxed with court costs.

Freddie Lawrence Williams was fined $100 and taxed with court costs when he was found guilty on a drunk driving charge.

Most Local Persons Belong To Church

Warrenton is a Godly place if church membership is any indication.

More than 90 per cent of the white people of this town belong to some church, according to a survey completed by the Warrenton Baptist Church. Eight hundred and seven persons stated that they belong to some church, and 79 were found who claimed no church affiliation.

Practically three-fourths of those in the town belonging to any church belong to either the Baptist or the Methodist Churches with the Baptist holding a commanding lead, the survey shows. The Episcopalians place a poor third and the Presbyterians are way down the list.

The results of the census was presented to the local Baptist Church on Sunday morning by the Rev. Ernest C. Upchurch of the Church Development Department of the Baptist State Convention. He explained to the church how the most effective use of the survey can be used in all departments of the church.

The survey shows that there are 338 Baptist in Warrenton, 263 Methodist, 135 Episcopalians, 40 Presbyterians, 31 of other denominations, and 79 unchurched. The survey also reveals 143 children under nine years of age attending church and 93 Baptists in the town attending surrounding Baptist Churches.

Speaker Tells Of Life In Puerto Rico

Life in a foreign territory of the United States was discussed by a speaker at the regular meeting of the Warrenton Rotary Club at Hotel Warren on Tuesday night.

A. J. Perrone, a retired government official, who spent some 40 years in Puerto Rico, spoke to the Rotarians about some of his observations during his sojourn on the Island. A native of New York City and now a resident of Norlina, Perrone was presented by Selby Benton, who was in charge of the program.

Perrone served in the Navy during World War I and in Army Intelligence in World War II, during which he received the Bronze Star. For 30 years he was a Court Recorder in Puerto Rico, and was a member of the San Juan, P. R. Rotary Club, for 15 years.

There is a great contrast in the Puerto Rico of 1918, when he first went there, and today, Perrone said. During the intervening years, he said, the country has made much progress in self-government and industrialization.

The climate is similar to that of Florida and California with an average temperature of 75 degrees, the speaker said. The production of Sugar Cane is still the principal industry in the country, he addition to sugar cane, some bananas, oranges, and other tropical and semi-tropical fruits and vegetables are also grown commercially.

Much remains to remind visitors of the days when Puerto Rico was a Spanish Colony, and the Spanish influence is still felt in many of the customs of the people and architecture, Perrone said. One of the most impressive of these relics, he said, is the old Spanish forts, with 40 foot walls, still standing.
