MRS. WALTER JACKSON HARRIS

Anne Ayscue Weds At Methodist Church

In a double ring ceremony conducted on Sunday afternoon, November 18, at four o'clock in Wesley Memorial Methodist Church in Warrenton, Miss Alice Anne Ayscue, daughter of Mrs. Roy Lee Ayscue, Sr., of Warrenton and Mr. Ayscue of Dumfries, Va., became the bride of Walter Jackson Harris, son of Mrs. Charles Anthony Harris of Macon and the late Mr. Harris.

The Rev. Troy Barrett, pastor, performed the rites before a setting of white floral flowers, emerald fern stands and seven-branched candelabra, holding white cathedral tapers. Music was rendered by Mrs. J. C. Burwell, organist, and Mrs. Selby Benton, soloist, who sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," and the Methodist Choir offered "O Promise Me." The Rev. Milton Mann, pastor of the Macon Methodist Church, sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

Given in marriage by her brother, Roy Lee Ayscue, Jr., the bride wore a dress of Chantilly lace combined with nylon tulle and designed with a sabrina neckline accented with iridescent sequins, and a basque bodice. The long tapering sleeves ended in points over the wrists, and the voluminous skirt featured garlands of lace re-embroidered in iridescent over a cascade of tulle ruffles. Her double crown of seed pearls was accented by sequins and attached to a fingertip veil of silk illusion.

She carried a prayer book with a white handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Pritchard, topped with a bouquet of white orchids with long streamers entwined with baby's breath.

Mrs. Cecil Devada Brown of Henderson was her sister's matron of honor. Her street length dress was of turquoise taffeta with crushed satin lumberbund over a bell skirt. She wore a headband of satin with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of bronze, gold and pale yellow pompons with autumn rainbow streamers.

Gordon Wallace Poindexter served as best man and ushers were Samuel Willoughby Harris and Carroll Erskine Harris, brothers of the bridegroom, Ralph Young Ayscue, uncle of the bride, Cecil Devada Brown, brother-in-law of the bride, Julian Jackson Smith and Alvin Lewis Reid, Jr.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ayscue chose a teal blue silk crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of bronze cimbidium orchids. Mrs. Harris was gowned in beige wool with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

After receiving guests in the vestibule of the church, the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. For traveling Mrs. Harris changed to a baby blue tweed suit with matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Cake-Cutting
On Saturday, November 17, at nine o'clock in the Fireside Room of Wesley Memorial Methodist Church, Miss Alice Anne Ayscue and Mr. Walter Jackson Harris were entertained at a cake-cutting.

The room was beautifully decorated with three-branched candelabra centering the table with small bouquets of baby's breath and running fern. The mantle bore burning tapers and magnolia leaves, with sprinklings of mums. A green and white motif was used throughout.

After the couple had cut the first slice of the three-tiered wedding cake, Mrs. Ayscue mother of the bride, Mrs. Harris, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. William Floyd and Mrs. Lewis New-

A Thought for Thanksgiving Day
Despite pestilence and famine, none of the Pilgrims returned with the Mayflower. They continued to work and to pray—and, in the end, received the blessing of plenty. For God's continued blessings, let all of us give humble and hearty thanks.
