The event, sponsored jointly by the Warren County Confederate Centennial Committee and the Warren County Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was attended by 55 persons from Warrenton, Norlina, Littleton, Oxford, Louisville, and Spring Hope.

Calvin C. White, co-chairman of the County Centennial Committee, introduced the guest speaker, Claude Hunter Moore, who is a distinguished historian, writer and speaker. Moore, principal of Aurelian Springs High School, spoke on the life of Gen. Robert Edward Lee and of the impact his life has made on our entire nation.

Moore reviewed the life of the Lees in Virginia, and Robert E. Lee's life at Stratford, Va., where he was born. His father, Light Horse Harry Lee, of Revolutionary fame, died when Robert was only eleven years of age.

The speaker related incidents in Lee's life, his training at West Point, graduating in 1825, second in his class of 46, his service in the Mexican War, his later appointments at Fortress Monroe, Va., and at other army posts in New York, and at St. Louis, Mo. He was recognized for his skill in mathematics and engineering.

Moore reviewed Lee's campaigns and brilliant defense during the War 1861-1865, and after the War, his presidency at Washington College, Lexington, Va. Moore spoke of Lee's family and of their visit to Warrenton.

The Rev. James M. Stoney gave the invocation and the benediction. Mrs. C. L. Purdy extended the welcome to the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Henry F. ## Farmer Builds Unique Hot Bed

Marion DeVane, a Bladen County farmer, probably has the most unique hot bed for staked vine ripened tomatoes in North Carolina.

DeVane improvised for his unusual hot bed. An old set of truck scales was removed, leaving an open pit about five feet deep, 10 feet wide and 18 feet long.

R Harvey Morris, Bladen assistant agricultural extension agent, explains that DeVane placed top soil in the pit and tomato seedlings were transplanted, watered and fertilized.

A plastic cover placed on top of the pit conserves heat from the sun and a gas heater. Two small fans are used to cool in hot weather.

The main problem with the improvised green house is excessive moisture in the pit.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Lue P. Williams, who departed this life on January 15, 1956.

You awoke in glory,
With Jesus you sang redemption's story,
All your troubles now are gone
You are free from sin at last
And all of sorrow's heavy load
Sleep on, Mother, with Jesus
Take your rest,
We all loved you
But God loved you best.
