He will be assisted by Jon Burwell and Jim Wilson, two of the school's new teachers.

Norlina Bond Issue Is Carried

Norlina voters on Tuesday approved a $47,000.00 supplementary bond issue for the installation of a sewer system and sewage treatment plant by a vote of more than 8 to 1. The vote was 163 for and 19 against.

Voters had previously approved a bond issue for the major portion of the town, but a supplementary bond issue was needed to include sections of the town in the plan.

Mayor Graham Grissom said yesterday that he and other town officials are highly gratified at the support given the bond issue. He said that he expects construction to start on the project on or before October 24. The engineers, he said, have completed drawings for the original section of the town to be covered by the project, and have already started on the new section.

The cost of the entire project, to be met by bond funds and federal grants, is estimated at $398,000.

Autopsy Performed On Warrenton Man Found Dead In Alley

An autopsy has been performed on the body of a Warrenton Negro man who was found dead in an alley here on Sunday morning.

Coroner N. I. Halthcock said yesterday that Nelson Bruce, about 30, was found dead in Slings Alley in the northern part of Warrenton around 9 o'clock on Sunday morning. While there was no evidence of a struggle, he said, he deemed it best to have an autopsy held.

The autopsy was performed at Green's Funeral Home Monday afternoon by Dr. Robert P. Shore of Henderson, part-time surgeon at Warren General Hospital. Halthcock said that Dr. Shore sent tissues and vital organs to Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill for an analysis, but that a report is not expected for several days.

Drought Broken By Heavy Rains

A drought that has plagued the northern part of Warren County for weeks was broken by good rains on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Frank Reams, Warren County Agricultural Agent, said Wednesday that while the rains came too late to restore the cash crops they should prevent any further retrogression.

In addition, Reams said, the rains should be of great help to dairymen and other livestock producers in that they will help pastures and give farmers a chance to prepare land for temporary grazing crops to partly fill a gap in the winter feed supply caused by feeding of hay and silage during the drought.

All the northern part of the county, with the exception of the Drewry section, received good rains Tuesday, Reams said. Wise received 2.8 inches of rain, Norlina 2.0 inches; Churchill, 2.5 inches, and Warrenton received 1.8 inches. While the Drewry area only received 0.5 inches of rain Tuesday, County Commissioner John A. Wilson said Wednesday night that his section received an additional 5/8 of an inch on Wednesday afternoon.

During Tuesday's rains, Ax-telle received around 2 inches of rain and Register of Deeds Sam Allen said Wednesday night that his section received about the same amount Wednesday afternoon. "Water was standing in the cotton rows," he said.

The southern part of the county received a good sprinkle Tuesday, but failed to get the heavy rains that fell on the northern part of the county. Clarence Davis said Wednesday night that the Inez, Marmaduke and Inez section of the county received little rain Wednesday, but that his section was not suffering as much as some other sections of the county. He reported that many farmers in that section had an excellent tobacco crop. Marvin Aycock said Wednesday night that the Elberon section only received a sprinkle on Wednesday afternoon, but that it had a very heavy rain Tuesday.

Young Woman Faces Charge Of Burglary

A young Negro woman of near Warrenton was on Tuesday morning charged with first degree burglary, following the breaking into a Warrenton home around 11 o'clock on Saturday night.

Mrs. Delores Davis, who lives on the Macon road just beyond the Armory, was apprehended shortly after she, with a woman companion had allegedly entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Bullock on Fairview Drive, after the license number of her car had been identified by the State Highway Patrol. Taken to the home of the Bullocks, she was released when Bullock is reported to have said that his wife was in no condition to make an identification.

According to police two Negro women broke the glass on the front door of the Bullock home around 11 o'clock on Saturday night, unlocked the door and entered the home where they assaulted Mrs. Bullock, causing painful but not serious injuries. They then tore the telephone loose from its wires and left, after searching the home. Police said that the second woman has not been identified.

Following the departure of the two women, Mrs. Bullock drove to the downtown police station to ask for help. She was accompanied to her home by Officers Kenneth Short, Howard Salmon and Dorsey Capps. Capps went into the home with Mrs. Bullock where, according to officers, he remained for about 40 minutes, during which time he repaired the telephone wires.

Mrs. Bullock's mother and young daughter had fled across the street to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Perry. Fifteen-year-old Tom Perry was the only member of his family at home.

Capps said that while he was in the home, that the two women returned, and that Tom Perry came into the house and reported that the car had been outside. It is reported that the young boy had taken a rifle and was watching the house when the two women returned and that he had tried to hold them and was almost run over by the car. He obtained the license number of the car, which he reported to Capps.

On Tuesday morning around 3 o'clock, Capps said he answered the police phone and a caller asked for Night Officer Kenneth Short. Short reported that the caller was Delores Davis, that she said (See BURGLARY, page 8)

Warren County May Buy Surplus Grain From CCC Stores

Warren County is one of seventeen North Carolina counties designated as an emergency county due to the severe and prolonged Congressman L. H. Fountain wired The Warren Record on Thursday morning.

Also designated as emergency counties were Franklin, Halifax, Northampton, Vance and Edgecombe.

The seventeen counties have been approved by the Department of Agriculture for government-owned feed grain at reduced prices to supplement feed supplies, and certain haying and grazing privileges.

Fountain said that eligible farmers should contact their ASC office. The law, he wired, provides assistance in the preservation and maintenance of foundation herds of cattle—including dairy cattle, sheep and goats—at not less than 75 percent of feed grain support price, and for other eligible livestock at 100 percent of support price. ASC officials are also authorized to permit grazing and harvesting of hay on land retired from crop production in the designated counties.

W. S. Smiley, chairman of the Warren County ASC County Committee, said yesterday that farmers in the county may also apply to the ASCS county office and obtain permission for grazing and haying of land retired from production under USDA programs.

Approval by the ASC county committee is required for each farm before diverted acreage can be grazed or hayed, Smiley said. In addition where the county committee approves haying or grazing, downward adjustments will be made in payments to farmers where these lands are grazed or hayed.

Farmers may visit their local ASCS county office at any time during office hours and make deposit for the amount of corn they would like to receive. CCC corn was ordered by the county office on the issuance of this news release, Smiley said, adding that there is a possibility that there might be a waiting period while the corn is being shipped into the county.

T. E. Watson, ASCS office manager, said that both of these programs were requested by the local county USDA disaster committee of which Smiley is chairman. "The sale of this corn should not only help farmers at a time when livestock feed is vitally needed, but it will also help reduce government stocks and thereby reduce storage costs," Watson said.
