

Weldon, Warrenton Will Do Battle Here Tonight

A Weldon club which virtually had its way against outside competition last week will visit Warrenton tonight as both teams begin their quest of Tar-Roanoke laurels.

The Tornados, rolling on the strength of a 12-0 victory over AA Scotland Neck, will be going after their second win of the year tonight when they engage Warrenton in a duel being billed as a spectator's delight.

Both teams surprised other conference members last week on the strength of their relatively easy wins over usually stiff competition. While Weldon was blanking Scotland Neck, Warrenton was making its debut a nightmare for Apex, which fell under a five-touchdown barrage, 32-2.

"We've got a battle Friday night," Warrenton Coach Jimmy Webb commented this week. "It's going to be rough." Webb was disturbed about a scouting report which showed Weldon as a well-balanced club which appeared equally strong on offense and defense.

"We know it won't be an easy game, but I think the boys can rise to the occasion, and if we win this one, then we will be well on our way toward a good year," he said.

Webb was pleased with the defensive efforts of his Yellow Jackets Friday night, but was disappointed with the passing performance. Actually it wasn't much of a performance. Quarterback Billy Benson never got time to get the ball off and two attempts lost 22 yards. Webb said the Jackets have been working on their pass patterns this week and are hopeful their passing attack will jell tonight.

Against Apex, the Jackets were handicapped little by a porous line when a pass play was called. Their ground attack was potent and they ripped through and around the Apex line during all four quarters.

Warrenton scored the first time it got its hands on the ball, moving 60 yards in seven carries with Al Blalock breaking loose for a 17-yard jaunt into paydirt. Later in the same quarter halfback John Coleman returned a punt for 75 yards and a score.

In the second quarter, the Jackets kept up their attack, moving from their own 30 yard line in nine plays before Blalock raced over from seven yards out.

After intermission, the story was much the same. Warrenton began a drive on the Apex 42 and seven plays later broke sophomore fullback Johnny Mack Coleman loose for a six-yard scoring burst. Coleman, who carried the ball more than any other Warrenton back, picking up 92 yards in 22 carries, bulled over the extra point.

Norlina Prepared To Visit Enfield Team

end Roddy Drake, back to punt, for a safety, soon got back into the scoring column. Midway the fourth quarter Warrenton took the ball on the Apex 44 and headed toward paydirt. Seven plays later, after a 15-yard scamper by Charles Edmonds, John Coleman carried over from a yard out.

Coleman, running well from his halfback slot, received an ankle injury during the game and Webb said he would probably see only "limited" action tonight.

At Weldon last week, the visiting Scots actually won a portion of the statistical battle. They had nine first downs to Weldon's eight, and had 176 yards passing to 52 for Weldon. On the ground, the Tornados gained a big edge, picking up 117 yards to 20 for the visitors.

Weldon's scores came when fullback Charles Pierce carried three defenders over the goal line to cap a six-yard run, and when Sammy Williams broke loose in the final period for 59 yards.

Weldon ran mostly to the right side of the line, operating from a wing-T formation.

Webb said his defensive unit had been showing up well in practice sessions this week. Leading the way last Friday night were end Ray Shearin, linebacker Edward Shearin and tackle Willie Norwood.

Norlina will step into the Roanoke Conference for the second week in a row tonight when it tackles Enfield in search of its first football victory of the young season.

Emerging on the short end of a 13-6 score in its non-conference tussle with Davie last Friday night, Bob Price's Norlina eleven has been training its sights on the Blue Demons during this week's practice sessions.

While the Norlina club will be entering the game without a win under their belt, Enfield fans have had little to cheer about. The Blue Demons have lost their first two games by identical 28-0 scores, at the hands of Scotland Neck and Gaston. Last week against Gaston, they failed to manage a first down until the dying minutes of the fourth quarter.

Norlina, on the other hand, showed Friday night that it could move the ball, but was thwarted by penalties on two touchdown runs—by quarterback Buck Wiggins and Andrew Hundley. Its defense did a good job in the first half, holding Davie for no first downs in that period. However, Coach Russell Gray's charges jumped into the lead before halftime on a 25-yard screen pass from quarterback Pete Bryant to halfback Kirk Sewell. Fullback Tyrus Woodard added the point.

After the second half kickoff Davie controlled the ball for most of the third quarter, and added an insurance touchdown as the fourth quarter opened. Bryant bootlegged the ball to the three-yard stripe and bulled over the winner's second tally.

Norlina rallied for its biggest offensive show when Wiggins found clear sailing on a quarterback sneak and went 45 yards for a touchdown.

Injuries still plague Norlina's squad, but Price is hopeful of getting some of his team members off the injured list before next Friday night's conference opener against Louisburg.
