FOREST FIRES:
 Just a reminder that the main season for terrific forest fires is just around the corner. Most everyone well remembers forest fires that occurred last spring, and the picture above gives some indication of how happy the fire appeared when burning all ground vegetation and killing and or damaging all trees in its path. The devouring fire may have been crazy happy but it surely saddened many property owners and created terror in the minds of hundreds in the vicinity. Experts say most fires get started due to carelessness and lack of prevention, so let's us all exercise extreme caution in the handling of fire regardless of its source, location or use.

Bromide on his beds last fall and he found no trouble seeding on the desired date. Mr. Twitty is following a highly recommended practice. This procedure removes a great deal of anxiety and close figuring compared to spring treatment.

TOBACCO:
 The subject of tobacco surely is creating some lively conversation these days. Here's hoping people will keep cool and maintain a stiff upper lip while research finds the answers. Tobacco is on trial more or less like a person in jail charged with only suspicious evidence. Meantime, until the proven answer arrives we should at least be released or pardoned and keep performing our normal production duties as during the past.

Scout Circus To Be Held On February 14

Raleigh—Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine stated yesterday that all Eastern North Carolina Scouts, both Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, will again have their "Scout Day at the Circus" on February 14, when the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus plays at the J. S. Dorton Arena at State Fairgrounds in Raleigh.

Ballentine, who serves as manager of State Fair, has made the special arrangements with management of the Circus and with directors of Scouting activities here. Under the Scout Circus Day plan, all girls and boys and their adult leaders are offered a very special ticket rate for the best seats in the center sections of the Arena, for either of two shows on Friday, February 14, which are set for 4:15 p.m. and 8:15 p.m.

leaders. The Scout group ticket orders, however, must be made directly to the Circus at State Fair, on a special Scout order blank, Ballentine says, as no tickets can be bought at the special Scout prices at any box office.
