Warren County citizens who are interested in the advancement of mental health are urged to join a Warren County Mental Health Planning Council, currently being formed.

The Planning Staff of the North Carolina Mental Health Council, working through State representatives to the Council, has requested the formation of the County Planning Council. Those who have been asked to form the nucleus of the local group include:

Dr. Robert S. Cline, representing the County Medical Society; Amos L. Capps, Chairman, Board of County Commissioners; J. Roger Peeler, Superintendent of Schools; Dr. Robert F. Young, Health Director; and Julian W. Farrar, Superintendent of Public Welfare.

This group will become the focus of affiliation for all who are concerned with mental health needs.

Councils are being formed in all 100 counties of North Carolina as part of a planning effort financed from State and Federal sources. Its aim is to develop a coordinated, comprehensive plan to meet North Carolina's present and future mental health needs.

The investigations and recommendations of the County Councils will be communicated to the State level Planning Staff to provide basic components of the statewide plan being developed.

Lakes

(continued from page 1) The bringing to Warren County of many of these people should be of great interest to Warren business people, Pierce said, as the retirement income of these people average $8,500 annually.

In addition to the cash that they would bring to the county, they would also bring important contacts with industry and the know-how of changing an agricultural economy in a balanced agricultural-industrial economy.

In addition, he said, many of these people in retirement have time to spend, do not like being idle, and could be a helpful asset in the development of the community.

As one important step in bringing more people to the county, Pierce pled for support of the brochure program of the Roanoke River Basin Association. "Its goals," he said, "are to advertise the whole river basin to northern people and to give them a road map-directory of the basin area to use when they arrive."

FACT OR FALLACY?

Have you ever felt that "you've been taken" after going grocery shopping? If so, maybe you will want to test your food shopping skills.

Here are just a few facts and fallacies that we are confronted with almost everytime we go shopping:

Fallacy: Consumers have little influence on the foods available in their neighborhood food stores.

Fact: Never underestimate your power in the grocery store. As one store manager stated, "The housewife determines what we have on our shelves," with every purchase you are casting your "vote" for or against a certain commodity.

Grocery stores like to stock what you the consumers want and to provide the services you demand.

Fallacy: Comparing values of various products to save a little money is hardly worth the time and effort.

Fact: A savings on a few pennies on one item you purchase frequently can add up over a year's time. For instance, there is a savings of 9 to 10 cents if you purchase a quart of nonfat dry milk as compared to a quart of fluid skim milk.

Simple arithmetic shows that only 5 cents saved at each meal can add up to $54.75 by the end of the year.

Fallacy: Convenience foods--prepared mixes, frozen foods, etc.--always cost more than unserviced foods.

Fact: Make a habit of comparing prices of fresh, frozen, and canned foods or homemade versus prepared mixes from time to time. Some processed foods do cost more; however, in a recent USDA study, it was found that when 52 processed foods were compared with unserviced foods 28 were higher in price, 18 were lower, and 6 cost the same.

For example, "homemade" and mixed cakes usually cost about the same; however, in some cases, mixes were less expensive.

Say you saw it advertised in The Warren Record.
