

Thousands Expected To Honor Kennedy

Thousands of persons are expected to gather at Kenan Stadium in Chapel Hill on May 17 to join in North Carolina's Tribute to President John F. Kennedy and to raise funds for the benefit of the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library.

"Our primary objective is to make certain that North Carolina's tribute to President Kennedy results in a united contribution that more than covers North Carolina's part of the national goal for the Kennedy Library," Hugh Morton, State Chairman, said this week.

"Our second objective," Morton said, "is equally important. It is to show Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, through the movie that will be made of the event, a turnout from every county in the state the like of which has not heretofore been seen. . . A packed stadium, no matter what the weather, will say thanks from North Carolina in a way you can be sure she will always remember."

Bignall Jones, Warren County chairman for the John Fitzgerald Library, said this week that Warren County has been allotted 50 tickets for admittance to the stadium. These tickets are available at $10.00 each, to those who wish to share in the tribute to the late President through their contributions to a living memorial, and who wish to express to Mrs. Jacqueline—the love for her which all citizens feel.

Jones said that he is certain that the response from the state as a whole will be magnificent and that he is anxious that Warren County make a good showing in the program.

Rockingham Grows Christmas Trees

Reidsville—Most of it may be done here but the production of Christmas trees and ornaments in North Carolina isn't confined to the mountains. Rockingham County is expanding its part of this industry.

Horace J. Hux, county extension chairman, points to the case of Sam Hudson of Rt. 7, Reidsville, as an example of what some land owners might consider.

Each year, Hudson plants a few acres of his farm in white pine and ornamentals. The pines are sold for Christmas trees. Those not sold are allowed to grow to timber. The ornamentals are sold to local nurseries.

"With the continued cut in tobacco allotment, others will have to consider ways of keeping farm income up," Hux observed.

Dairyman Improves Production Of Milk

Winston-Salem — Odel Martin, dairyman of Rt. 5, Winston-Salem, increased his milk production by 1,113 pounds in 1963 according to G. Van Frye, assistant agricultural extension agent.

"His herd average last year was 8,277 pounds, this year it is 9,390," Frye related. "Martin attributes most of the increase to the Dairy Herd Improvement Association records, quality of feed and amount of grain he fed."

Each year 70 million acres of forage crops are harvested as hay and 10 million acres are ensiled, according to the American Grassland Council.

Findings Increased Use For Garden Tractor

MRS. R. E. RANSOM

Albemarle — J. D. Hinson, farmer of the Red Cross community of Stanly County, is finding increased use for a garden tractor he rigged for applying verlox to plant beds and greenhouses.

V. A. Huneycutt, county extension chairman, says the process did an excellent job of controlling soil-borne diseases last year in the farmer's greenhouse tomato crop.

The word got around. To meet the demand, Hinson decided to do custom work with his soil sterilization equipment. The time spent in working out the rig was well spent, the farmer believes.

The cost of the sterilization program is less than when methyl bromide is used, Hinson says.

BE NOT AFRAID

One little fellow had been taught to recite the line from the Master: "It is I. Be not afraid."

When the time came for the little fellow to march on stage and say his line, he was shy with stage fright, but with his small voice trembling and his eyes brimming with tears, he managed to say:

"Tain't nobody but me. Doan' get skeared."
