Jobs Offered Youths By Job Corps

School drop-outs and other unemployed boys of Warren County now have an opportunity for work, schooling and on-the-job training.

Odell Faircloth of the State Department of Welfare at Raleigh will be in the Grand Jury room each Thursday from 9:30 to 12 o'clock to receive applications from boys 16-21, who would like to work with the Job Corps.

Boys in this age group who are unemployed, or who dropped out of school and wish to further their education are asked to contact Faircloth.

The Job Corps is being headed by the State Welfare Department as a part of the Poverty Program. Faircloth said that there are two types of centers offered-rural and urban. The rural centers will furnish work largely in state and federal parks, with classroom instruction. The urban centers will offer classroom work, trades, and on-the-job training.

Boys enrolling in the Job Corps will receive shelter, clothing and $30.00 a month. If they stay in the Corps for one year they will receive a $600 cash bonus.

While three centers have been established in North Carolina, Faircloth said boys joining the Corps may be sent to any of the numerous centers throughout the country. Many of these enrollments, he said, have been sent to California.

Haliwa School Also Affected By Fed. Ruling

A ruling of the U. S. Office of Education forbidding the transfer of pupils across district lines may result in the Littleton High School being administered by Halifax County instead of Warren County.

The same ruling would affect the operation of the Haliwa School at Bethlehem where a majority of students are from Halifax County.

It is doubtful that any change in the administration of the schools could be made this year, although this possibility has not been completely dismissed by the Warren County Board of Education which discussed problems of the Littleton school at length at its meeting Monday night.

Warren Supt. J. Rodger Peeler quoted a letter he had recently received from W. Henry Overman, Superintendent of the Halifax County schools:

"In order to get a plan of compliance with the civil rights act approved by the U. S. Office of Education, the Halifax County Board of Education was requested to have a statement in the plan as follows:

"No pupils residing in the Halifax County Administrative Unit will attend public school in any other administrative unit except those pupils who are in attendance in school outside the unit during the 1964-65 school year and those who attend the John Armstrong Chaloner School in Roanoke Rapids Unit, nor will any child not residing in the Halifax County Administrative Unit attend public school in this unit except those who have done so in 1964-65 and elect to continue there."

Peeler explained to the board that this action by the Halifax Board of Education means that no new students from Halifax County, including first graders, will be permitted to enter the Littleton and the Haliwa Schools during the 1965-66 term.

A possible solution to this problem suggested by the board of education Monday night was that new district lines might be drawn for these two schools, covering territory in both counties, but administered by either Halifax or Warren County.

The discussion was largely confined to the operation of the Littleton school, where there (See RULING, page 2)

First Barring

Littleton-Roy B. Clark, Sr., of Route 3, Littleton, put in a barn of tobacco Saturday and it is believed to be the first barned in this area this season.

Most of the tobacco in the county was damaged by too much rain in June, but Clark said the field that he primed was not affected by the rain except in the extremely low places. Clark said his tobacco is almost six feet tall.

Ernest Bobbitt, of Route 3, Littleton, who for the past two years barned tobacco on July 5, was not able to do so this year, but he is hoping to begin harvesting this week.

Miss Nina Moseley of Washington, D. C., spent the weekend here and she and Mrs. James Bullock attended the Cross-Andrews wedding in the Presbyterian Church in Elizabethtown on Sunday.

Dr. W. A. White joined his wife and baby this week in Orlando, Fla., where they have been for sometime.

No Colored Teachers Unemployed In County

No Negro teachers have lost their jobs as the result of integrating the schools of Warren County, J. Roger Peeler, superintendent of schools, told the members of the board of education Monday night.

He said that while decreased average daily attendance had reduced the number of teachers in some Negro schools, that he was happy to report that the allotment of 11 extra teachers by the state had enabled the county to keep all its teachers who desired to teach in its system.

Peeler said that the extra teachers, allotted under the '1 for 15' formula, would be placed in the following schools: John Graham-1 to reduce the teacher load in the elementary school.

Norlina - 1 to reduce the teacher load in the elementary school.

Littleton - 1 to reduce the teacher load in the elementary school.

Vaughan - 1 to reduce the teacher load in the elementary school.

Northside - 1 to reduce the teacher load in the elementary school.

South Warren-1 to reduce the teacher load in the elementary school.
