Warren County Represented On CADA Industrial Tour

By FRANK REAMS

Warren County was represented by Ellis E. Fleming, Chairman of the CADA Board of Directors for Warren County and Frank W. Reams, County Extension Chairman, on a CADA tour of industrial plants and community development areas in Wake and Harnett Counties on Wednesday of last week.

The first stop was at the W. W. Holding Industrial Center located about ten miles south of Raleigh on US 401. This was a first class place to teach the out-of-regular school student and the teaching equipment was the best obtainable. Although they have students, they are falling way short of capacity.

At the Cornell-Dubilier Industrial Plant at Fuquay Springs, the group was treated to a close inspection of assembly of various and small electric gadgets and the production of parts that are shipped to other plants plus completing seasonal contracts of other electrical companies. On departing, punch and cookies were served first class.

Lillington was awarded the first prize last year by the CADA for having made the greatest improvements in a town of over 1,000 population. The group heard and saw the actual improvements made and we were also treated to punch and cookies by the local Home Demonstration Club.

On arriving at the large, spacious and air-conditioned Baptist Church at Angier, the Angier Improvement Council presented through charts, slides, road signs and color slides their town improvement program. This town has blossomed into a clean, well-kept organized town that only a few years ago presented a state of despair. We were served lemonade and cookies.

The tourists were exposed to a very bountiful and delicious supper at the Community Center at Holly Springs prepared by the local Home Demonstration Club. The local Community Improvement Council is taking the lead for initiating town improvements. Due to its state of condition, Holly Springs has a long way to go to effect improvements that would be very noticeable to the visitor even though this town won first prize in the 1964 CADA contest with towns less than 1,000 population. It was good to see a determined group of people in action. At the conclusion of the main meeting, Mr. Prince, the President of the Bank of Fuquay, not only picked up the checks for the meal but donated $100.00 to the Holly Springs Improvement Community Council to help finance its activities. This was cooperation deluxe style.

The tour was concluded with a CADA Board of Director's meeting.

ASC Committeemen To Be Elected By Mail

The election of ASC Committeemen this September will be held by the mail method, Thomas E. Watson, office manager, said yesterday.

Watson said this is entirely different from methods previously used in Warren County. Ballots will be mailed out of the county office to each eligible voter by August 31. These ballots must be properly executed and returned to the county office by September 10.

Petitions, limited to one nominee each, signed by at least six eligible voters, nominating persons for membership of the community committee will be received at the county office until August 20, Watson said. The names of persons so nominated will be included in the slate of nominees if found eligible and willing to serve. If a person nominated by petition is found ineligible, he will be notified of his ineligibility and rights of appeal. The county and community committee will make additional nominations as are required or as it determines to be desirable.

Watson said that all community boundaries for this election are the same as last year.

Revival To Be Held At N. War. Church

Revival services will be held at the North Warren Baptist Church each night during the week of August 9-14 at 8 o'clock with special music being presented each night. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Robert Oates of the Warren Plains Baptist Church. The public is invited.

Wilson Descendants Invited To Reunion

The Wilson family reunion will be held at Warrenton on Sunday, August 8, and the following invitation has been mailed to the descendants of Samuel Gray and Carrie Wilson, inviting them to be present for the event:

And the Lord said unto the children of Samuel Gray and Carrie Wilson, "return unto the land of thy fathers and forget not thy kindred and friends."

And the children and kindred and friends did make their plans. For behold they did make their mark in the form of a circle on the calendar for Sunday, August 8, 1965 that they might return unto the land of their beginning.

They also remembered their past journeys, how they did carry with them the fruits of their labors, chicken, potato salad sandwiches, and all the good things with which the Lord did bless them. And they carried only food for their hunger for their thirst was quenched by native drink.

And the Lord said unto Martin, eleventh born of the flock, "remember thy promise and get thee over to Warrenton and make me a big pot of stew that my people might be fed in the custom of their ancestors. And thou wilt find there a grandson of Samuel Gray and Carrie Wilson, Ted, third born of Essie, first born of the flock, and behold he will stir for thee."

And the Lord said unto all the children of Samuel Gray and Carrie Wilson, "make this day known to all thy children, and all thy kindred and all thy children, and all thy kindred and all thy friends that ALL my people might gather to feast and say "hello" and kiss cousins."

And the children and the kindred and the friends did contemplate the arrival of that great day that they might go once again to the land of their beginning. And they will go not to the place of their birth for behold it is in the hands of another, but they will go to the parsonage and to the church and they will feast in the shadows of the boxwoods and in the shade of the oaks.

School Counselor Attends S. C. Meeting

Mrs. Catherine J. Smith, counselor at the North Warren School, of Wise, for the past seven weeks has been attending an NDEA Counseling and Guidance Institute at South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, South Carolina, where she engaged in an intensive study of the Culturally Deprived and the most effective means of counteracting his present condition.

All classroom experiences were geared toward promoting effective counseling behavior via the Supervised Practicum. Believing that effective counseling is based upon a thorough understanding of the causes of the behavior of an individual, the staff designed a special course for the Institute, labeled 'Determinants of Behavior.' In content and method this course was interdisciplinary in nature.

The teaching - team comprised of Dr. Jean P. Gilbert of New York University, Mrs. Marguerite Rogers Howie of the department of social sciences, and Dr. Leroy F. Anderson, of the department of education and psychology and both of South Carolina State College, presented behavior based upon concepts and generalizations from sociology, anthropology, social psychology, physiology, and nutrition. Integrative groups of ten permitted the teaching-team to check the input of the enrollees from assigned readings, lectures, and reports, treating certain behavioral determinants.

The other courses in the Institute were presented by Dr. Roland S. Haynes and Dr. Lawrence C. Bryant both of the department of education and psychology at the college and included assessing human behavior and group counseling.
