Draftees May Enlist Under Rule

WASHINGTON — The Selective Service system said today it has moved to make it legally possible for a registrant who has received an induction order to enlist voluntarily in one of the armed services or a reserve component.

Under law, the armed services cannot enlist any man who has an induction order.

However, a Selective Service spokesman said it had been informal policy for sometime that there could be a temporary lifting of induction orders for youths arranging to enlist and be taken at once. He said written instructions implementing the policy are now reaching local boards.

Under the instructions, local boards are to post a notice that a youth who wants to enlist and can make a satisfactory showing that an armed service or Reserve component is ready to take him at once can request the state director to lift the induction order temporarily. If the state director refuses, the youth can appeal to the national director.

Averages Higher

Price averages for untied tobacco were a little higher Wednesday on markets of the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported that gains ranged from $1 to $3 per hundred pounds, with greater increases chiefly for some grades of variegated lugs and mondescript.

Middle Belt Opening To Be Fixed Tuesday

Henderson—Members of the sales committee of the Middle Belt Warehouse Association will meet at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh next Tuesday, August 17, at 5 p. m., to set the date for start of the auction season in the belt, it was stated here today by Fred S. Royster, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association.

There are ten flue-cured markets in the Middle Belt, located at Durham, Henderson, Fuquay-Varina, Oxford, Louisburg, Warrenton, Sanford, Carthage, Aberdeen and Ellerbe. Eastern North Carolina Warehousemen, headed by Carl Renfro of Wilson as president, decided at a meeting in New Bern Tuesday night to start the auction season in the belt on Wednesday, August 25. Last year that belt began its season on Thursday, August 27. Some warehousemen at the New Bern meeting favored the comparable date this season, which would have been Thursday, August 26, while others held out for Tuesday, August 24. The date finally agreed upon was a compromise between the two. If precedent is followed, Mid-

Says Ban Law Offers Threat

RALEIGH—A North Carolina educator warned Wednesday that millions of dollars in federal and private grants would be in jeopardy if state-supported schools lose accreditation because of the speaker-ban law. Dr. Howard Boozer, acting director of the State Board of Higher Education, told a special speaker-ban law study commission: "North Carolina universities and colleges will receive within the next two years an estimated $83.7 million in federal grants, another $9.56 million from private foundations. "Some of these grants would be jeopardized should state schools lose accreditation." The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools has informed Gov. Dan Moore that accreditation may be lost unless the speaker-ban law is repealed or amended.

Boozer told The Associated Press following the appearance before the commission: "You can't pin it down to just how much will be lost through removal of accreditation. You can't say it will be so many dollars and so many cents."

"But," Boozer added, "it would be fair and safe to predict that several million dollars are in jeopardy." Boozer read to the commission reports from various federal agencies which send grants to North Carolina institutions of higher learning.

The grants included National Defense Education Act student loan funds, which now aid 6,219 North Carolina students; health, education, welfare funds; the Peace Corps, the agriculture extension programs; and Defense Department funds for the payment of tuition of armed service personnel.

Both the Ford Foundation and Carnegie Institute emphasized in letters to the commission that loss of accreditation would not necessarily affect grants, but added:

"The speaker-ban law implies a lack of legislative support and confidence in the university governing bodies."

A Carnegie official suggested it would be better if the law was repealed.

In several cases, such as the National Science Foundation and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, accreditation was not necessary for grants.

However, Boozer pointed out, these grants go to schools that have qualified professors and equipment to handle scientific projects.

"A loss of accreditation," he predicted, "would mean an exodus of top-flight personnel from the University of North Carolina."

Tarheels Tickle Pickle Packers

RALEIGH — North Carolina is the nation's top grower of pickling cucumbers. This was reported Wednesday by James A. Graham, state Commissioner of agriculture, who said North Carolina had gone ahead of Michigan. Graham said a recent survey showed $7,200 acres of pickling cucumbers were being grown in North Carolina this year compared with 17,500 acres in Michigan.

Football Practice To Start At JG Monday

Football practice will begin at John Graham High School on Monday morning, August 16, at 7 a. m., Coach Jimmy Webb announced yesterday.

Webb said that boys interested in joining the squad are asked to meet at the John Graham gym on Saturday morning, August 14, at 9 o'clock for registration and to receive shoes and other equipment.

Practice Monday will run through 9 a. m., with a second practice from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. and practice each day until the start of school.

Webb said that conference play will start on September 3, but that John Graham has not yet filled up their schedule and has two vacancies. Unless these vacancies can be filled, John Graham will have its first game on September 17.

Having lost 14 lettermen from last year's team, Webb faces a rebuilding job and must depend largely on sophomores. Elrie Hilliard and Charles Edmonds will be back in the backfield. These boys are fast and experienced backs. Also back in the line will be Dudley Neal, Allen Stoney and Lewis Mustian. A big loss to the squad was the departure of Johnny Mack Coleman, who will finish his preparatory school studies at Fishburne Military Academy.

Webb said that the loss of his lettermen will have to be made up by extra effort and determination upon the part of new men on the squad. In spite of the loss through graduation, Webb said that he expected John Graham to field a good team and to have a good season.

Traffic Cases Tried In Recorder's Court

Thirteen of the 14 cases tried in Recorder's Court by Judge Julius Banzet last Friday were concerned with violations of the motor vehicle laws with the majority of these concerned with speeding cases.

In the other case, George Clark pled guilty to a charge of non-support and was sentenced to the roads for 60 days. The sentence was suspended for two years upon condition that the defendant pay into the office of the Superintendent of Welfare each Friday, commencing August 13, and continue until further order of the court, the sum of $5.00 for support of his minor child, George Junior Hicks, and "pay court costs today."

In addition to the cases tried, the probation of Charles Edward Neal, in spite of violation of the terms of probation when he was given a suspended sentence in Granville county, was ordered continued; and three defendants were called and failed to appear in court. They were Robert W. King, careless and reckless driving; Johnnie Lee Cheaves, charged with giving a bad check, and Cleveland Hawkins, charged with an assault on a female. In each case judgment on the bond was ordered, a capias was issued, and the case was continued until August 13.

Ernest Edward Daniel pled guilty to charges of driving with improper brakes and with no operator's license. A motion to reinstate the case by the solicitor was allowed and the defendant was ordered to pay a $25 fine and court costs.

John Emanuel May was ordered to pay a $100 fine and court costs when he pled guilty to a charge of drunk driving.

Leon Edmonds pled guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license. He was ordered to pay a $25 fine and court costs.

James Edward Carroll was ordered to pay a $25 fine and court costs when he pled guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

Defendants in speeding cases and verdicts of the court were as follows:

John Louis Currin, Jr., costs; Clarence Larry Thompson, costs; William Steve Hixson, costs; David Hendrick, $15 and costs; James Carothers, costs; Abraham Wheeler, costs; John William Dryden, costs.

In a second speeding case, Dryden pled not guilty to a speeding charge and prayer for judgment was continued.

Hege Named Officer Voc. Teachers Ass'n.

Clint Hege, Agriculture Teacher at Norlina High School, was elected as vice president of the North Carolina Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association last week during its State Conference at Carolina Beach.

Hege will head district IV of the association, which includes sixty teachers in a 14-county area. For the past three years he has been a director of the State FFA Association. His term of vice president is for two years.

In addition to attending State executive meetings, participating in the state conference, and heading the teachers welfare committee, Hege will be expected to attend the national meetings as a North Carolina representative. The 1965 meeting is scheduled to be held in Miami in December.

CLINT HEGE representative. The 1965 meeting is scheduled to be held in Miami in December.

Excessive barking of dogs and sustained and habitual noises of all animals came in for the attention of the town commissioners at their regular meeting here Monday night.

As a result, the commissioners adopted and ordered published an ordinance declaring that it "shall be unlawful for any person or persons, firms, association or corporation to keep or maintain on any premises or let any animal of whatever description that, through loud, continuous and habitual noise of such animal, or in any other manner, constituted a neighborhood or public nuisance."

Failure to abate such nuisance after warning from the Chief of Police or his authorized representative, the board ruled, shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and the person refusing to abate the newsome may be fined not more than $50 or imprisoned not more than 30 days.

In other action during the three-hour session, the commissioners heard a request from N. I. Heathcock that he be permitted to sell beer on Sunday; adopted an ordinance giving a franchise to the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, and requested that an estimate of curb and gutter cost for a section of the town be made.

Heathcock's request for permission to sell beer in Warrenton on Sunday was tabled due to the fact that the town has no ordinance prohibiting such sale.

An ordinance granting a franchise to the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company adopted at the July 12 meeting of the board on Monday night passed its second reading and was formally adopted.

R. D. Chewning, street superintendent, was instructed to prepare an estimate of necessary drainage and engineering required in connection with the installation of curb and gutter adjacent to the residences of Hy Diamond, Nat White and others in the northern part of town.
