affair she burst into tears but brushed them back long enough for the senator to plant a kiss on her cheek. In the photo above the 1964 queen, Linda Daniels of Durham, steadies Queen Sally's crown while Sen. Jordan, after kissing the queen, beams at the crowd.

Littleton Girl Crowned Homecoming Queen

Greenville—Sally Ann Foster, a Senior from Littleton, was crowned queen of East Carolina College's 1965 homecoming festivities here Saturday in half-time ceremonies of the traditional homecoming football game in Ficken Stadium. Miss Foster, 21-year-old primary education major at East Carolina was crowned by one of North Carolina's two U. S. senators, B. Everett Jordan. Sen. Jordan was a special guest for the Saturday homecoming festivities at East Carolina.

Queen Sally's coronation climaxed competition among 45 East Carolina coeds who were placed in the running by various campus organizations. All the contestants rode in a parade which wound through downtown Greenville earlier today.

Miss Foster, a blue-eyed blonde who stands 5-foot-5, succeeds Linda Carol Daniels of Durham who reigned over homecoming events until the new queen was crowned.

Runners-up to the 1965 queen were Celia Kay Orr of Falls Church, Va., first; and Sandra Lee Britt of Fayetteville, second. Also in the court were Phyllis Sue Brinn of Bath and Tamara Suzette Miller of Hickory.

Among Queen Sally's first and loudest acclamers were the brothers of her sponsoring fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha. When her regency was announced they responded with a rousing ovation.

Among the new queen's first scheduled official appearances was her formal presentation at intermission of the Saturday night concert by The Platters in Memorial Gymnasium.

All candidates for the crown were guests of honor at a luncheon earlier in the day and all were introduced Friday night at the annual homecoming dance in Wright Auditorium.

Miss Foster, a 1962 graduate of Littleton High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Foster, 113 Spring St., Littleton.

Site For Station Is Discussed

A site for a new police station was discussed by the board of town commissioners during a relatively short meeting Monday night.

Plans for such quarters have been discussed at previous meetings with consideration being given to enlarging and remodeling the present building on Main Street next to Hy Diamond's Store. Such plans have not materialized and Monday night the board instructed the chairman of the police committee to investigate other available sites and make a report and recommendations at a special meeting of the board to be called later.

A. C. Fair, chairman of the Civil Defense committee, reported that the Carolina Sportswear Company and the Peck Manufacturing Company are holding classes each Saturday morning in Medical Self-Help to training those interested in preparing themselves to give aid in the event of a national disaster. These classes are free and are held under the sponsorship of Civil Defense, Fair said. For further details anyone interested may call either of these firms as to the hours these classes are held. The board approved an application of Jesse Jones to drive a taxicab for Thurston Brown, subject to investigation and approval of the taxicab committee. Mayor Miles gave a report on the League of Municipalities Convention at Asheville which he and Town Clerk Edward Rooker attended.

Warren Native Heads Highway Committee

A Warren County native and graduate of John Graham High School heads a special committee to study President Johnson's Highway Beautification program, and to make recommendations to the full Commission as to how North Carolina may comply with requirements of the congressional act.

State Highway Commission Chairman Joseph M. Hunt, Jr., Monday appointed Highway Commissioners Thomas Harrington of Leaksville, Ashley Murphy of Atkinson, Curtis Russ of Waynesville, J. B. Brame of Durham and George Broadrick of Charlotte. Harrington will serve as chairman of the committee.

The committee will bring recommendations to the full Highway Commission so that legislation may be drawn to allow North Carolina to participate in the federal program.

The federal law, passed on October 22nd, requires that in order to participate, the state must regulate highway billboards within 680 feet of the right of way on Interstate and federal participation Primary Roads, and junkyards within 1,000 feet of these highways.

DIRECTORS TO MEET

The Warren County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will meet Thursday November 11, in their new quarters to discuss and approve a program of work for 1966, review a proposed budget and receive a report of activities from Chamber President Bernard Thompson.

Jaycees To Collect And Repair Toys For Christmas Gifts

The Warren County Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Toys for Tots Christmas project, President Bill Minette announced yesterday. David Perkinson has been named project chairman.

In cooperation with Bowers and Burrows Oil Company, barrels will be placed at Phillips 66 stations throughout Warren County to receive old and new toys. The Jaycees will collect the toys just before Christmas, make necessary repairs and then distribute the toys to needy children at Christmas.

Minette said that everyone is urged to check their closets and attics and bring old toys to the Phillips 66 Stations with the "Toys for Tots" collecting barrels.

If an individual desires to have the toys picked up, he or she is asked to call 257-3061 and a Jaycee will call for them.

Contracts Awarded For Garage And Warehouse

Seal Drive To Start On November 16

The 59th Christmas Seal Campaign will open in Warren County on November 16. Mrs. Clyde V. Whitford, secretary of the Warren County TB and Health Association, announced yesterday.

At that time Sidney B. Gibson, Jr., Christmas Seal chairman, will deliver 2700 letters to the postoffice carrying seals and a request for donations to Warren citizens.

When we think of Christmas Seals we think in terms of people who are helped and the human suffering that is prevented. Mrs. Whitford said. "But there are other good reasons for supporting Christmas Seals in their fight against TB and other respiratory diseases. Victory in the fight can bring practical benefits in the form of long range financial savings to the entire community. Diseases such as asthma, TB, chronic bronchitis and emphysema cost the nation millions of man hours and millions of dollars in lost productivity every year."

According to government figures tuberculosis alone costs the U. S. millions of dollars a year in research, case finding activities, treatment, follow-up and production loss. Mrs. Whitford said. "Think," she said, "of all the wonderful things that could be done with that money. Each Christmas Seal that you place on the cards, letters and gift packages, helps to prevent this human and financial waste—and hastens the recovery or rehabilitation of those now suffering from TB or other respiratory diseases."

Mrs. Whitford said that 77 per cent of the money received for Christmas Seals remains in Warren County. The local TB Association works to inform patients, the community, and physicians about tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases. It also helps find answers to the problems that face patients, their families, and the Legislature To Meet For Ban Law Action

Rep W. R. Drake will leave Monday for Raleigh to attend a session of the North Carolina Legislature called by Governor Dan K. Moore for the purpose of amending the Speaker Ban Law.

Governor Moore called the session last Friday following the report of a special study commission which recommended that the law, passed in 1963, be amended.

The nine-member commission filed a unanimous report which:

—Would transfer back to the boards of trustees of State-supported colleges and universities the authority to regulate appearances by Communists or Fifth Amendment leaders in loyalty matters. The trustees would however, have to adopt a "Speaker Policy" containing "rules and precautionary measures."

—Brought a summons from Governor Moore for a special session of the General Assembly, opening at noon Nov. 15, to consider the amendment.

—Led Moore to call a special meeting of the trustees of the University of North Carolina at 11 a. m. Nov. 12 at the Capitol to consider adopting the "Speaker Policy." Trustees of other affected institutions were asked to meet for the same purpose on or before Nov. 12.

—Found the University in charge of the "Red nest" charges backgrounding the enactment of the law in 1963. "The evidence before us fails to justify charges of irresponsible radicalism at Chapel Hill," the commission said.

—Made it apparent that the alternative to the amendment would be withdrawal of accreditation of the institutions by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Inc.

The plan to end the long, emotional controversy over the Speaker Ban drew prompt endorsement from Governor Moore, Lt. Gov. Bob Scott and House Speaker Pat Taylor.

"I approve the report and its recommendations without any reservations," Governor Moore told the commission, an audience representing both sides of the question and television viewers across the State. The lengthy report was read by Commission Chairman Rep. David Britt, who occupied the central platform with Moore.

World Community Day Observed Here

The "World Community Day" was observed by the Women of the churches of Warrenton at the Warrenton Baptist Church on Friday. Mrs. Stephen Daniel was in charge of the service.

The Rev. David Daniel of Louisville College was the speaker. Misses Beverly Johnson and Cheryl Ayscue sang a duet.

Offerings were presented for the cause of World Missions. Mrs. J. A. Pritchard has returned after spending several days with relatives in Butner.

Bothered By Rules For Projects

Contracts for the construction of additions to the Warren County school garage and maintenance warehouse were awarded by the Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

The projects call for a total expenditure of $70,759.24 of which $28,029 will be for new construction and $38,029 for remodeling the present garage at Warren Plains. Also added to the cost will be architects fees for Owen Smith of Raleigh in the amount of $4,005.24.

The general contract was awarded to O. K. Tharrington of Henderson whose bid was $43,800. The plumbing contract was awarded to Mechanicals Associates of Cary at a cost of $4,467. The heating contract was awarded to W. M. Wiggins of Wilson at a cost of $13,742. The electrical contract was awarded to House Electric Company of Warrenton at a cost of $4,745.

The total size of the new and remodeled building will be 14,809 feet, of which the new area will be 2,839 square feet. The total costs of the building are $4.51 per square foot.

Smith was present at the board meeting to discuss the construction of the building and to explain cost items. The board members told the architect that the estimated cost greatly exceeded estimates of the board, but agreed with him that costs could not be cut without sacrificing needed quality. Supt. Peeler said that the one thing that made him think that the bids were not excessive was the closeness of bids submitted by three contractors, which were within a 5 per cent range. Smith said that construction bids usually averaged around a 15 per cent difference between the high and the low bid.

Smith also said that he had been in contact with the manufacturer of the skylights for the John Graham High School gymnasium, which had proven unsatisfactory, and that the manufacturer had agreed to replace them. He also proposed that ventilators be placed in the gymnasium roof to allow surplus heat of the summer to escape. This heat is blamed for a dripping problem.

Supt. Peeler said that the new building would not only be used as a school garage and parts storage plant, but would be used as a maintenance warehouse and workshop for the school maintenance crew. He said that the crew does much building of cabinets, and other items used by the school and that the present shop at Macon is inadequate for the crews needs. In addition, he added, the warehouse will provide a storage place under proper temperature for storage of leftover paint. It has been necessary, he said, for this paint to be kept in various school buildings to avoid its being ruined by freezing.

The awarding of the contract for the school garage and maintenance warehouse was the only item of business completed in the three-hour session of the board.

The members spent much time reviewing the proposed government plan for deprived children under title 1 of the government aid to education act as explained by Supt. Peeler and expressed misgiving over the way the section had been drawn. Under the plan, over which the State Board of Education and the North Carolina Congressional delegation, there would be discrimination among children. The State Board explored a regulation which is
