William W. Taylor, Sr.

Having lived much beyond the allotted three score and ten years, Dr. William W. Taylor, Sr., died in Raleigh Tuesday after passing a long and useful life.

In his death his family lost a devoted father and the Town of Warrenton lost one who had become a landmark. For more than 60 years Dr. Taylor was an active and useful citizen of the town, loved and respected as he made his contributions as a citizen, dentist and lawyer. He had a deep love for children and they responded to this affection with their own love. A frequent sight at Warrenton until his final illness was that of Dr. Taylor talking with some child on the street and often the sight of a little child giving Dr. Taylor a big hug.

Dr. Taylor liked people. He was friendly and invariably courteous in his dealing with people of all walks of life. He was never too busy to spend time with his friends and in later life when the push of business was not too great, these contacts with his friends became one of his deepest sources of pleasure.

Perhaps a contributing factor to his long life was the fact that Dr. Taylor stayed young in mind. He read widely, he thought deeply, and refused to look back. Indicative of this is that at a time when most men with a successful practice in one profession would be thinking of retiring, Dr. Taylor took up another. In middle age he read law and passed the bar, and successfully practiced his new profession. In truth, law was

Due Thanks

We feel that the fine work of the Highway Department in clearing and keeping open the roads of the county and state should not go unnoticed. Too often good work is taken for granted, but clearing the highways in such a snow storm as we have had this week is not something to be taken for granted. It requires skill, preparation, and a devotion to duty more than routine. The work is hard and unpleasant. The highway department personnel know that when snow falls they have a job to do. That they perform it with such dispatch is something for which we should be highly grateful.

Dr. Taylor's great love and in the declining years of his life nothing gave him greater happiness than to discuss some law case and to quote great authorities in the legal profession to back his contention.

It has been said that no man is irreplaceable. This is true to a degree, but to a degree only. There have been persons who made their contributions here and passed on. The town has gone on, others have stepped forward to fill the breach, but in the death of many of these the town has become poorer, and the citizens have always felt that something is missing. Such a void was created here in the death of Dr. W. W. Taylor, a high tone gentleman, and a good citizen.

Grain Needs Top Dressing

Small grains need top dressing as soon as possible and definitely before February 15. Forty (40) to eighty (80) pounds of nitrogen will be needed depending on the condition of the soil and what crop the grain followed. Most grain crops will need sixty (60) to eighty (80) pounds per acre.

Plan now to have your soils tested for plant nutrient requirements for cucumber production.

Cucumbers offer a good source of income for farm families. Prices have been increased and the demand is very good. However, this increase won't mean much to you unless you do a better job in production and
