Married Men Now Subject To Draft In Warren County

Bids Asked For Local Street

The widening and resurfacing of Franklin Street in Warrenton moved a step closer this week with the announcement that the State Highway Commission would call for bids on the project for its March 22 highway letting. The bid of the Commission calls for 0.273 miles of grading, bituminous concrete base and surface and curb and gutter in widening and resurfacing SR-1001 (Franklin Street) in and near Warrenton. The portion of the highway to be widened is a part of the Warrenton - Henderson highway, and carries most of the traffic to John R. Hawkins High School located at the edge of town, as well as much of the traffic to the Warren County Prison Camp.

Married men and some college students are now subject to the draft in Warren County, according to Mrs. Thomas Ellington, clerk of the local draft board.

Mrs. Ellington said the board has received orders to include for induction those men married prior to Aug. 26, 1965 in the March call, if necessary.

She said the board had also received instructions that certain college students are no longer deferrable due to the shortage of manpower available for the draft.

Mrs. Ellington said the March quota calls for ten men from Warren County. The February quota was four.

College undergraduate students who have been in and out of college longer than the normal amount of time required to receive a first undergraduate degree and who have not received such a degree will be reclassified, she said.

Also to be reclassified are those undergraduate students who because of scholastic reasons have dropped out of one school and are now enrolled in another college.

The graduate students who entered school two or more years ago and who have not yet graduated will also be eligible for induction, she said.

Those attending technical institutes and industrial education centers will also be included in the reclassification. Men who have been attending an institute for three years and who have not yet completed their course, along with those who are taking a two-year technical course who have been in and out of the institute, will face reclassification.

Mrs. Ellington said that college students who are ordered for induction but who are still satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course on the date their induction orders are mailed may be given a deferment to class I-SC until the end of their current academic year.

She explained that the I-SC classification cancels orders for induction temporarily.

Previously full-time college students were classed as 2-S and were not subject to draft.

Prior to Aug. 26, married men were not inducted but those who have married since that date have been eligible to be called.

Also to be reclassified are some of those now in the I-Y category.

Mrs. Ellington said the I-Y classification designates mental, physical, or moral reasons for disqualifying men.

Those in the I-Y group to be reclassified are the high school graduates who scored from 16 to 31 on the standard AFQT which is administered at the time of examination.

Now the policy has been changed to permit calling men who were married prior to Aug. 26, as well as those who have married since that time.

Mrs. Ellington in making the announcement of changes in classification also called attention to law requiring young men to register for the draft. She said: "Young men, it's the law. You must register with your selective service board within five days after your 18th birthday! If you've overlooked this important matter, take care of it now. Remember: your selective service classification depends on the information in your file at your local board."

Post Office Dept. Turns Down Warrenton's Bid For Delivery

Warrenton's bid for city delivery of mail has failed.

Postmaster Leonard S. Daniel announced Wednesday that the proposed City Delivery Service Establishment for Warrenton was not approved by the Post Office Department.

Daniel said that the director, local service division of the Post Office Department stated that one of the requirements for the establishment of city delivery service is that there must be a population of 2500 within the area to be served. Although a recent survey revealed that there was a population of 2753 within the area to be served at Warrenton, 97 of these families were presently receiving rural delivery service, the director said. Since service would be to boxes at the curb there would be no significant benefit for changing these patrons from rural to city delivery service.

"As we are unable to approve the conversion of these patrons from rural to city delivery service," the director said, "the population within the area to be served is less than 2500 and we may not approve the establishment of city delivery service at Warrenton at this time."

Postmaster Daniel said that as time progresses and if Warrenton shows an increase in population, the town of Warrenton would be eligible to receive city delivery service.

Mrs. Wilson Is Given Trip To Washington

A Warren County woman—Mrs. Eugene Wilson of Rt. 1, Manson—is one of 80 North Carolinians who serve as Voluntary 4-H adult leaders being rewarded for their efforts with a five-day trip to Washington.

Miss Mary Sue Moser, 4-H specialist at N. C. State University, says the voluntary adult leaders have been selected to attend the National 4-H Leader Forum in Washington, March 14-19.

Purpose of the trip, according to Miss Moser, is to help the leaders "become more effective in working with young people in 4-H".

The North Carolinians will have an opportunity to share experiences with delegates from other states, and to visit sites of interest in the capital.

Selection for the trip was based on several things, including the accomplishments of 4-H Club members served by the leader.

The trip will be sponsored by the production Credit Association, the N. C. Farm Bureau Federation, the Tar Heel Electric Membership Association, the Rocky Mount Kiwanis Club, the Northern Piedmont Area Development Association, the N. C. 4-H Development Fund and the 4-H Club Foundation of North Carolina, Inc.

'Head Start' Project To Be Held

Several "Head Start" Child Development Centers are expected to begin in early spring in Warren, Franklin and Vance Counties with primary financing through the Office of Economic Opportunity in the Nation's continuing war on poverty.

Announcement that the centers would be in operation this year was made this week by G. E. Cheek, coordinator of the Recreation Council of the Memorial Recreation Forest, Inc. The Forest is applicant for these centers, Cheek said, adding that the objective of the Recreational Forest is to help raise the educational and cultural levels of the people of the area.

Cheek said that these child development centers will be operated for the benefit of children from families who have an annual income below the national poverty level. These programs will be operated on a non-discriminatory basis, both in pupil and staff.

In each community where centers are to be operated, Cheek said, a local sponsoring organization of parents who love children and are willing to make some sacrifice for their training and well-being in their community are contributing at least ten percent of the cost of the program.
