

Allsbrook Speaker At Lions Club Meet

Julian Allsbrook, veteran legislator from Roanoke Rapids and candidate for the State Senate, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Warrenton Lions Club at Warren Plaza Inn last Friday night.

Presented by W. R. Drake, Allsbrook told the Lions that it is time to take stock and return to the four basic principles of America, which are home, church, school and state.

Praised by Drake in his introduction for his work as a legislator, Allsbrook said he was not at the meeting to make a political speech, but said it is hard to talk about the Legislature and stay entirely clear of politics. He told of his experiences during the many years he has represented Halifax and Warren Counties in the General Assembly. He spoke of the closeness of Warren and Halifax Counties in the redistricting fight during the past session of the Legislature.

Allsbrook said that he was happy to have had the opportunity to vote for and support the formation of the N. C. Blind Commission 35 years ago, and to know that the Lions Clubs of America and foreign countries have this as their number one project.

Visitors present for the meeting were Lion Ed Knott, past District Governor, of Roanoke Rapids, James D. Speed of Franklin County, and Calvin White, guests of Lion W. A. Miles; Bob Andrews of Newport News, Va., a guest of Lion Scott Gardner; and District Governor Frank Kemp of Zebulon.

Prior to Allsbrook's talk, Gene Rogers was installed as a new member by J. Ed Rooker.

President W. L. Turner presided over the meeting. Jack Harris led the singing and said grace. Billy Clark was Lion X and Lion Gene Rogers won the dollar.

Boyd Urges Public To Buy New Type U.S. Savings Bonds

P. B. Boyd, Chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds volunteer committee for Warren County, today urged bond buyers to take advantage of the new higher annual limitations on holdings of E and H Bonds which have been announced by the Treasury Department. The new regulations provide that eligible purchasers may own up to $20,000 maturity value, in Series E Bonds bought in any one calendar year, and $6,000 face value, in H Bonds. Previous limits were $10,000 and $20,000, respectively.

Calling attention to the fact that the interest rate on Savings Bonds was recently increased to 4.15 percent, Mr. Boyd called the new purchase limit "an unusual opportunity" for both individual and institutional investors to become "larger shareholders in their country."

Under Treasury regulations, any resident of the United States, or citizens temporarily residing abroad, may own Savings Bonds in a choice of registrations: single owner, co-owner, or beneficiary. Where bonds are purchased in the names of two individuals as co-owners, each may hold the maximum amount of either E or H Bonds, or both. Bonds may also be owned by corporations, associations, public or private organizations, fiduciaries, and other investors except commercial banks.

"U. S. Savings Bonds have always been considered an ideal investment for the ordinary saver," Mr. Boyd said, "particularly because of their safety, guaranteed return, and tax advantages. But I believe there is an important place for Savings Bonds in the larger investment portfolio, too, whether that of an individual or an institution. I hope that the increased limits on holdings will encourage many such investors to put part of their funds into these securities of our country."

The Treasury's amendment on the holding limitations also included a new provision on Savings Bonds presented as gifts to charitable, religious, educational, and certain other non-profit organizations that qualify under Section 501 (c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. This permits such organizations to receive up to $200,000 in Series H Bonds purchased in any calendar year.

The doctor's telephone rang at three a. m. A woman's voice asked: "What do you charge for a house call?" "Ten dollars," the doctor mumbled sleepily. "And how much for an office visit?" "Five," muttered the doctor. "All right," the woman said briskly, "I'll meet you at your office in ten minutes." — Atlanta Constitution.

Rescue Squad Is Formed At Littleton

Littleton—Through the efforts of a lot of people, particularly the 17 members, the Warren County Rescue Squad has become an organized group, with two ambulances, new uniforms and dreams of a building in which to house their equipment and ambulances and to have their meetings.

The ambulances were both gifts—one came from Blaylock Funeral Home of Warrenton and Littleton, a gift of Dorman Blaylock and the other was presented by the Roanoke Valley Rescue Squad.

This Squad assisted the Warren County group to become organized.

Their new uniforms consist of green trousers, white shirts and green insignia for the front and back of the shirts, and white coveralls.

The Warren County Rescue Squad is an organization that is most needed now that Lake Gaston has become so popular. . . the lake borders their working area. Their work will not be confined strictly to accidents on the lake, however, but it does give a feeling of security to those enjoying the lake facilities, to know that an able and interested rescue squad is within easy calling distance.

"We are presently in the process of buying new equipment," Captain Bill Reid says. "We plan sometime in the near future to have some type of fund-raising campaign."

Several much-needed donations, in addition to the ambulances, have been given to the squad. . . and will be put to use immediately. A gift of $275. was presented to the squad by the Horace Palmer Jr. Post, 308 of the American Legion in Littleton.

Stanton Viverette of Enfield, owner of "Timberlodge" one of the most attractive places on the lake—has contributed $125. to assist with the building of boats for dragging. He also has offered the use of any of his boating equipment, for use when needed.

The gift from the Horace Palmer Jr. Post will be used to help purchase a resuscitator.

Reid points out that the present members have all just recently completed the standard and advanced courses of first aid and have taken "rescue training" from members of the Roanoke Valley Rescue Squad, who have been very kind about assisting in any way they could.

The ambulances have been housed in the old fire station in Littleton and during the winter months, the squad has been meeting in the Epworth-Enterprise Community building. . . as a result, they have been helping to fix up the interior of the clubhouse at night after their business meetings.

For obvious reasons, however, the squad needs its own "headquarters and they now have the land on which to build. Anyone having any kind of contribution they would like to make, may contact Bill Reid, or any member of the squad. Any kind of building material will be appreciated or money to help towards the purchase of these things.

In addition to Captain Reid, other officers include: Alfred Cooke, Lieutenant; M. J. Spragins, secretary - treasurer; Simmie Isles, squad sergeant, and Conzell Little, Chaplain. Read Robinson is in charge of publicity.

Members of the squad are Dennis Shearin, Conzell Little, Sam Walker, Luther Walker, Boyd Salmon, Robert Shearin, Horace Newsome, Palmer Newsome, Read Robinson, Glenwood Rose, Bill Reid, M. J. Spragins, Willie Ben Stansbury, Eugene Spragins, Simmie Isles, Alfred Cooke and James Moseley.

Directors are Stith Walker, Roy B. Pierce, Oliver Davis, J. H. Limer, Clyde Myrick, Robert Salmon and Dr. C. H. Woodburn.

Members of the squad express their deepest appreciation for the contributions and the help that has been given them. Most of the money they have received will go into equipment for the two ambulances. All contributions, whether in money or materials, will go into the making of an up-to-date rescue squad for the area, the members say.
