Mattress Workshop To Be Held April 11-12

A two-day Mattress Making Workshop will be held April 11 and 12 in the Home Economics Extension Office in the Agricultural Building, Mrs. Bertha B. Forte, home economics extension agent, announced yesterday. She said the public is invited to come in on April 12, during the hours from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., and observe the mattress making project.

Mrs. Forte said that Mrs. Genevieve Greenlee, extension house furnishing specialist, is expected to be present at the workshop.

More than two years ago, a mattress program was launched in a North Carolina pilot county for low-income families to make cotton mattresses. Mrs. Forte said that because of the cost of cotton and the work involved in making mattresses, Mrs. Greenlee decided to investigate the possibility of using a product that would be cheaper and easier to work with. After many conferences and visits to manufacturing companies, it was found that a 4 or 6 inch thick slab of urethane foam could be used successfully as the filling for making a comfortable bed mattress.

Mrs. Forte said the urethane foam can be purchased at a cost that will fit into the budget of the average low-income family. Many tests, she said, have been made and it has been found that urethane foam is easier to use for making low-cost quality mattresses. With this in mind, a foam mattress program was launched in 1966 to help raise the standard of living and improve the sleeping conditions in the home of low-income families.

Building Bids For Biology Farm To Be Let April 15

Bids for the construction of the first building on the biological farm being established near Warrenton by Carolina Biological Supply Company will be opened on April 15, with work expected to begin shortly thereafter.

This was revealed Monday when Dr. T. E. Powell, owner of the company, appeared before the county commissioners to request that a road through his property be hard-surfaced. Appearing with Dr.

Powell were L. H. Wiseman and Dr. K. W. Perkins, who will be in charge of genetics at the local complex.

Dr. Powell said the proposed building would be located near the old Powell homeplace and would contain offices, laboratories, rooms and recreational facilities.

Dr. Powell told the commissioners that he had constructed an 1830 foot road leading from a point near the old home of his father on the Airport road to a point on the Macon road, and that the purpose of his visit was to request the commissioners to do whatever they could to have this road hard-surfaced.

He said that the road being constructed will be 100 feet wide, which will provide for a road with a standard 60-foot right of way. This 100 feet will be enclosed by a tight wire fence with a strand of barbed wire on top. The 20-foot border on each side will be planted to grass and different species of trees would be planted at 20-foot intervals. When the plantings are completed, he said, the border will contain more different species of trees than are found in the arboretum at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Dr. Powell told the commissioners that he realized that the farm is a private enterprise, but pointed out that it would have much public use. He said, for instance, that science classes from all the county schools would visit the laboratories, and that the farm would be visited by scientists and educators from all over the world. "We would like to have it as pretty as we possibly can," he said.

"Now we are here to request your cooperation," Dr. Powell said. "If you find that you can
