Workmen are shown working on the foundation for a carpentry shop at John Graham High School School officials hope that the building will be completed in time for the beginning of the

Work Is Started On Shop

The foundation is being poured this week for a 85 ft. x 65 ft. building to house a carpentry shop at John Graham High School at Warrenton.

Contract for the building was recently awarded by the board of education to George of Henderson at a cost of $76,502.75. Funds for the building were provided by ESEA (federal funds).

Plans and specifications for the building were prepared by architectural firm of Edwards, Dove and Knight of Rocky Mount. Dan Knight, a Norlina native, is a partner in the architectural firm.

The building will be located directly behind the agricultural building, to the south of the gym, and will include a classroom, instructor's office, storage and tool rooms, and regular shopwork area.

J. Roger Peeler, superintendent of schools, said yesterday that the proposed building will make possible a much needed increase in vocational education courses to the curriculum. He said that every effort would be made to have the building ready for use by the opening of school next fall but that it would be close.

Commissioners Say 'Something' Ought To Be Done About Alarm

The Board of Town Commissioners in regular session Monday night said that "something ought to be done" about Warrenton's fire alarm system.

Almost invariably when it rains the fire alarm system short - circuits, causing the siren to sound off at some length until someone can race to the fire house and pull a switch. this has been going on for several years causing considerable annoyance to residents, some frustration to firemen and some danger that the siren would burn

At Monday night's session, Commissioner A. A. Wood brought up the subject of the had condition of the fire alarm system. It was suggested that insulation had worn from some of the wires leading from alarm boxes to the firehouse switch board and that when the wires became wet they caused a shortcircuit. Not mentioned was what had once been if not now a major cause of short-circuitswater accumulating in the switch boxes. Following a brief discussion the board decided that further consideration would be given the matter at the time the budget is made up.

The matter of extending the town limits was also mentioned by the commissioners with no suggestions made and no action taken other than to consider the matter after some street work being installed on Warrenton streets under the direction of Howard Salmon, chief of police. The meters, which cost more than $50 each, will be paid for at the rate of $1.50 a month routine matters.

It was reported that Theo Vaughan, first Negro policeman to serve Warrenton during the century, had stated that he would resign to accept a position with the Warren County's Sheriff's Department on July 1. Mayor Miles ruled that no action be taken on the matter until a formal notice of resignation had been put in writing by Vaughan and instructed Police Chief Howard Salmon to notify Officer Vaughan to submit his resignation in writing.

Members of the board said that Officer Vaughan had made a good police officer and that they hated to see him leave the services of the town.

Town Manager J. Edward Rooker read an application from Davie Lee Faulcon that he be granted a permit to operate a taxicab service here. The board ordered that a permit be granted to Faulcon. Commissioner Thomas Gas-chairman of the water committee, told the commissioners that a fire hydrant at the new Little League ball park at the Armory had been moved at the request of League officials. He said that the new caused a drainlocation age problem and that League officials had requested that the hydrant be moved back to its original position. Gaskill said that the cost of returning the hydrant to its former position Most of the hour and a half | was estimated at $150. He said of Education on Monday night voted not to accept a change in its school plan suggested by attorneys for the NAACP relative to transfers of Frank Banzet, school board attorney, told the board that NAACP attorneys had agreed to a school desegregation plan submitted by the board of education with one exception, which they wished to rewrite.

The board in submitting its plan for desegregation to Federal Judge Algernon Butler inserted a clause that any pupil not satisfied with his assignment might appeal to the board of education for transfer to another school.
