Orvis, rector, and the Rev. Bruce Daniel Sapp, rector of Christ's Church in Raleigh. Interment was in Fairview Cemetery.

The daughter of the late Janet Hawkins and Milo Pendleton, Mrs. Conway was born in Warrenton on Sept. 6, 1909. Upon the death of her parents when she was an infant, Mrs. Conway was adopted and reared by her aunt, the late Mrs. Katherine Pendleton Arrington.

She was educated at Miss Lucy Hawkins School in Warrenton, St. Timothy's in Cantonville, Maryland and was a graduate of the Spencer School in New York.

In the early thirties, she married William J. Conway of Henderson, Ky., where she lived for a number of years prior to his death. Upon her husband's death, Mrs. Conway returned to Warrenton to make her home. For a number of years she served with the Red Cross Hospital Recreational Service in the Philippines and in Japan.

Mrs. Conway was a life-long member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, and a member of the Society of Colonial Dames.

She is survived by two first cousins, Fab Pendleton and Miss Sylbert Pendleton of Raleigh.

Net Worth Of Warren Citizens Is Increasing

NEW YORK—In terms of worldly possessions how much is the average Warren County family worth today?

What is the net worth—assets minus liabilities—of the family home, automobile, investments, furniture, personal property, bank accounts, insurance and other valuables that were acquired over the years?

Few families have more than a hazy idea of how much they are worth. Their concerns are more immediate ones, such as their weekly income, their current bills, the cost of food and the like. As to their total assets, they never took the time to figure them out carefully.

On the basis of the latest economic studies, the net worth of the local population has been on the rise in recent years, despite inflation, and is now in the neighborhood of $51,900,000.

While the figure, admittedly, is not a precise one, it is derived from national studies made by the Federal Reserve Board and others.

It takes into account the average income in the local area and the manner in which the total income is distributed among the population as a whole.

What with wages and salaries in Warren County rising, year by year, most families have been adding to their possessions.

The average net worth in the area is now estimated at $13,000 per family, based upon the Federal Reserve Board's overall findings and upon local income figures.

This is an across-the-board average, which includes young families, who have not yet been able to accumulate a great deal in the way of assets, as well as those in the 55 to 64 group, whose assets are at a peak.

The broad picture of personal wealth shows that, for any particular family, it is closely related to its earning capacity.

In general, it is found, families with net, after-tax, incomes of $6,000 to $8,000 have from $13,000 to $18,000 in assets, that those in the $8,000 to $10,000 category have from $18,000 to $26,500 and that those with net incomes of $12,000 to $15,000 have assets ranging from $38,500 to $63,000.

These are the net worth figures, after deduction for all outstanding debt, including mortgage obligations on the house and payments on the car.

Thanksgiving Expected To Be Routine

Business houses at Warrenton and over the county will be closed on Thursday in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday, but little entertainment of a formal nature has been scheduled so far as could be learned here Tuesday at press time.

The only scheduled affair so far reported in connection with the holiday observance is a dinner and dance at the Warrenton Country Club on Saturday night.

The club will also be the scene of much golf, weather permitting.

An unusually large number of citizens and visitors are expected to enjoy hunting on Thanksgiving and during the remainder of the week. Indications are that the game supply is in good supply, with many hunters getting their limit on opening day of the season on Nov. 15 and since that time.

Many college boys and girls and many former boys and girls now working elsewhere are expected to visit their people for the Thanksgiving holidays, and from sales of turkey and other food in local stores for the past few days every indication is that they will be well fed.

As usual a number of family parties are expected to be held, but indications are that Thanksgiving in Warren County will be a quiet but happy affair.

Thanksgiving Recalls Ship That Limped Into Oblivion

WASHINGTON — If the good ship Speedwell hadn't leaked in 1620, it would be as revered today as the Mayflower.

And Plymouth Rock might have been named Delfshaven Rock.

History has been unkind to the Speedwell and its home port, Delfshaven, a town that once bustled with activity but now survived as a mere creek in booming Rotterdam.

For a dozen years Pilgrims found sanctuary in Holland in their quest for religious freedom, the National Geographic Society says. Their journey to the New World began not from Plymouth but from Delfshaven, not aboard the Mayflower but the Speedwell.

The Pilgrim adventure started in 1608, when 35 members of an English Congregational church in Nottinghamshire crossed the North Sea to Holland. They settled first in Amsterdam, then in Leiden, center of the handicraft trades in the Province of South Holland.

As carpenters, tailors, and printers, the Pilgrims lived an industrious, peaceful life. "These English people have now lived amongst us these ten years," a city magistrate commented a decade later, "and never any complaint or accusation has been brought against any of them."

Nevertheless, in 1620 the immigrants laid plans to find a new home in America.

They bought and fitted out the Dutch-built Speedwell, and arranged to join a larger group bound from England aboard the Mayflower.

The Speedwell lay anchored at Delfshaven, where the Pilgrims were to leave a lasting impression in their brief stay. Even today, streets named Pilgrims Straat and Speedwell Straat wind among old gabled houses and twisting waterways.

The 350th anniversary of the voyage will be celebrated in quiet Delfshaven in 1970. Rotterdamers also plan annual Thanksgiving ceremonies at the church where the Pilgrims worshipped.

A bronze tablet in the Pilgrim Fathers' Church records a farewell message from William Bradford, the group's leader: "Obliged by the good and courteous entreaty which we have found in your country, we and our children are bound to be thankful."

On July 22 the Speedwell set sail for Southampton, where the Mayflower waited at anchor. The voyage to America began two weeks later with 120 passengers and crew.

A Correction

In last week's edition of this newspaper it was stated that T. T. Clayton, Warrenton attorney, was found guilty of a speeding charge. It should have read "Brown Hawkins" was found guilty of a speeding charge. Mr. Clayton was the attorney in the case.

The proximity of the names on the record sheet caused the error, and it is with reluctance that the editor must confess to carelessness in reporting in a field where no carelessness should be permitted. We deeply regret the error and offer our apologies to Mr. Clayton for any embarrassment the publication of the article may have caused him.

TO THE EARS OF THE FORTUNATE COMES THE CRY OF THE WRETCHED

Junior Woman's Club To Support Project 'Concern'

The Warrenton Junior Woman's Club will support "Project Concern," during the month of December by the collection of "Pennies for Concern," Mrs. Linda Carter, chairman of the International Affairs Department, announced this week. In announcing the club's project, Mrs. Carter asks "What is on your Thanksgiving menu?" "Whatever it may be," she said, "I'm sure you can hardly wait. I know I can't. But did you ever stop to think what the millions of people in the less fortunate parts of the world may be eating Thanksgiving?"

Collection cartoons will be placed in the business houses on Main Street. "How often have you fumbled and fussed among your coins separating the seemingly worthless pennies from the silver? Mrs. Carter asked. "Please don't anymore. One penny can provide a nutritious meal for a starving child." She said the cartoons symbolize the homeless and hungry. "Please contribute your pennies so these people may have a nutritious meal on Christmas. The only gift too small — is no gift at all."
