Miss Watkins Becomes Bride Of Mr. Stainback

Miss Sylvia Gaye Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin B. Watkins of Palmer Springs, Va., and Raymond Dale Stainback, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond N. Stainback of Ridge-way were united in marriage June 28 at Bethesda Baptist Church in Palmer Springs, Va. The Reverend Ralph N. Culler of Rose Hill, a former pastor of the bride, officiated before an altar of three candelabra, fern and a white arrangement of flowers.

MRS. STAINBACK

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown fashioned by her aunt. The gown of taffeta, featured a high empire waist with all over Alencon lace and long lace sleeves with a train.

Her bouffant veil of silk tulle fell from a crown of seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Karen Lancaster of Kinston was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of ice blue crepe with fitted bodice and dirndl skirt. Her headpiece was matching blue bow and net. She carried a large mum bouquet. The bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Watkins, sister of the bride, Mrs. Frank Perry and Mrs. Richard Humphrey, sister of the groom. They wore dresses and headpieces identical to that of the maid of honor. Their bouquet was also identical.

Charles Stainback of Oxford, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Glenn Watkins, brother of the bride, Frank Perry and Richard Humphrey, brothers-in-law of the groom. The bride's mother chose a light blue dress with matching blue lace coat and navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. She wore an orchid corsage.

The groom's mother chose a yellow double knit dress with white accessories. She also wore an orchid corsage. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The home was decorated with green and white. Reception assistants were Mrs. William Pulley, Mrs. Lawrence Watkins, Mrs. Joseph Sharpe, aunts of the bride. The guests were served wedding cake, nuts, mints, ham biscuits and punch.

For traveling the bride chose a blue princess line dress with large puff sleeves and black accessories. Her corsage was pink roses lifted from her bouquet. After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will make their home in Raleigh.

Vaughan Family Holds Reunion On Sunday

By MRS. REBECCA S. WIMBISH

The "Ole Home Place", owned by Mr. and Mrs. Everette Meadors, and located in the One Community, was once again the setting for the annual Vaughan Reunion.

The descendants of Fielding and Mildred Rowland Vaughan gathered together on Sunday, July 12, to re-unite the family in love and kindred fellowship for the 59th time.

This year there were 77 members of the clan on hand for the traditional picnic style dinner, with the "big black pot" of Brunswick stew featured as the main dish, which has been the custom through the years.

With the descendants going into the fifth generation, most of them reside far and wide, but members were present from several distant states including Massachusetts, Maryland, Illinois and Virginia and from all parts of North Carolina. The oldest surviving relative present was Mrs. Blount Vaughan, 75, of Henderson. The youngest, Michael McClanahan, 8-month old grandson of the late R. B. Williams, made his debut from Chesapeake, Virginia. Little Mike is the great - great - grandson of Fielding and Mildred R. Vaughan.

It was reported that the family has gained four new members and lost two in the past year. Those deceased are Eugene Mize of Burlington, and Robert Paschall of Manson.

Following dinner Mr. S. B. Hamlet of Wilson presided over the business of the day, after which Miss Louise Vaughan led the family in a sacred program and memorial service honoring Fielding and Mildred and all their descendants who have passed away over the years. A beautiful arrangement of cut flowers was provided for placement on the graves of the Vaughan parents.

A program of fun and frolic followed the serious one. It was conducted by Miss Kitty Wilson of Raleigh who kept the kin-folk laughing and looking forward to their reunion in 1971.

Wildlife Commission Announces Bag Limits And Hunting Dates

RALEIGH—The Wildlife Resources Commission has announced dates and bag limits for doves, marsh hens, woodcock, and Wilson's snipe for the coming seasons. The Commission was given the usual framework of dates from which to select the seasons on these species, but the bag limits were set by the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

First shooting gets under way September 1 when the season on marsh hens opens one half hour before sunrise. These come in for a 70-day season ending November 9 at sunset. Bag limits are 15 daily and 30 in possession for clapper and king rails, singly or in combination; 25 daily and 25 in possession for sora and Virginia rails, singly or collectively; and 15 daily and 30 in possession for gallinules. Shooting hours for marsh hens are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Next in line is the dove season set to open at noon on September 2 with the first segment of a split season to close October 10, and the second season to run from December 16 to January 15. Again there will be a daily bag of 18 birds with 36 in possession. Shooting hours are from noon to sunset. Copies of the official regu-

Summer Peasantry To Sew Yourself

This is the summer when fashionable girls are doing their best to look like peasants. And sewing-minded fashionables can create their own "poor" looks at peasant prices. Pattern styles take note of the trend with an abundance of dirndl skirts, shawls, and country-boy pants outfits. Ideal fabric for stitching up these new styles is cotton duck. Decked out in new patchwork prints in blue jean colors, cotton duck makes your sewing projects both prettier and easier. A firm-bodied fabric long noted for washability, it stays put under the needle and cuts with a clean crisp edge. In handling patchwork prints, sewing experts say to follow the rules for cutting and matching plaids. Make sure that notches of corresponding pattern pieces are placed on the same patchwork shape. If you're planning to make pants, select your pattern size by your hip measurements. You'll have a better fit if you do. Follow these tips and you can look pretty "poor" and smart this summer in your own sewing creations.

COUNTRY-BOY JEANS—A sew-it-yourself fashion that costs less than $7 to make is this pants outfit of "denim blue" cotton duck. Red, white, and blue cotton braid and tassels trim the cropped top. Trim, fabric, and Simplicity Pattern 8794 are all at Singer stores where fabrics are sold.

PEASANT LOOK—Cotton duck in a lively patchwork print interprets summer's peasant look. The dirndl skirt is topped by a full-sleeved blouse of white cotton broadcloth. The outfit costs less than $12 to make. Fabrics and Simplicity Pattern 8699 available at Singer stores.

Lations on the above species will be available at post offices by late August. As indicated by the length of seasons and the liberal bag limits, birds should be generally plentiful this year. The woodcock season will open on December 11 and end February 13 and the Wilson's snipe season will open November 14 and end January 16, with shooting hours from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Bag limits for woodcock are 5 daily, 10 in possession and for snipe 8 daily and 16 in possession. Woodcock hunters are requested to forward their names and addresses to the Wildlife Commission, P. O. Box 2919, Raleigh, 27602, so that a survey of woodcock hunters and hunting can be made this fall by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved daddy, Robert M. James who departed this life seven years ago July 20th, 1963. Thank you God for the life of this precious servant that you gave us for our earthly father. We will forever be grateful. Our greatest prayer is that we might be worthy of such a blessing. With the deepest love and respect we his children patiently wait for the glorious day when we can see his shining face again.
