

Care Should Be Used With Pressure Canners

RALEIGH — It pays to follow recommended procedures when using pressure canners. For just last week, a Tar Heel homemaker received cuts on her chin and burns on her neck because she handled her pressure canner incorrectly.

First, the homemakers had not used a standard canning jar; she used a mayonnaise container, Mrs. Christine Greene, home economics extension agent, Yadkin County, reports.

Then, the woman packed the jars one against the other in the canner.

Her third error; she tried to cool the canner quickly by running cold water over it. As she was lifting a jar from the canner, it burst.

There are general recommendations for using a pressure canner that can help insure your safety, Mrs. Greene notes.

Put two or three inches of water in the bottom of the canner. Set filled glass jars of food on rack so steam can flow all around each one. Fasten canner cover securely so that no steam can escape, except through petcock or weighted-gage opening.

Watch until steam pours steadily from vent. Let it escape at least 10 minutes to drive all air from the canner. Then close petcock or put on weighted gage and let pressure rise to 10 pounds; that's 240 degrees.

The moment the right pressure is reached start counting time. Keep pressure constant by regulating heat under canner. When time is up, remove canner from heat. Do not lower pressure by opening petcock. Keep drafts from blowing on canner.

With glass jars, let canner stand until pressure is zero. Never try to rush the cooling by pouring cold water over the canner.

When pressure registers zero, wait a minute or two, then slowly open petcock or take off weighted gage. Unfasten cover and tilt the far side up so steam escapes away from you. Take jars from canner and leave them in an upright position.

Miss Smiley Becomes Bride Of Mr. Matthews

Wedding vows were pledged in a double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in Sulphur Springs Baptist church by Miss Joyce Ann Smiley and Eugene Newcomb Matthews. Officiating was the Rev. Dean Baughn of Roxboro.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Hazel Smiley of Henderson. Mrs. Elizabeth Medlin of Route 2, Henderson, is the groom's mother.

Rendering a program of nuptial music were Mrs. Wadelle Etherton of Bunn, organist, and Miss Jane Nelms of Louisburg, vocalist. Miss Nelms sang two selections, "O Promise Me" and "Wedding Prayer."

Twin arrangements of all-white mums, gladioli and carnations along with a pair of seven-branched candelabra entwined with smilax and holding burning cathedral tapers enhanced the wedding scene. Forming the background for the exchange of vows were emerald fern trees. For the benediction, the couple knelt on a prie-dieu. Family pews were marked by ribbons and greens.

Given in marriage by her brother, Larry Smiley, of Henderson, the bride was attired in a formal gown of pure white organza in the empire silhouette accented with peau d'ange lace. The bodice featured long, puffed sleeves with covered buttons fastened at the wrists. From the back extended a full chapel train edged with peau d'ange lace matching that of the gown. She wore a bandeau of flowers holding a chapel-length two tiered veil of illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white mums, carnations, stephanotis and ivy centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Rose Marie Daughtry of Emporia, Va., sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor. Her floor-length gown of maize chiffon was styled with mandarin neckline. Venice lace-trimmed empire bodice with deep bib effect and long sleeves puffed with Venice lace. Her floppy-brim picture hat was of maize velvet encircling the headband and ending with bow and streamers. Her bouquet was of yellow and white mums tied with green and yellow velvet ribbons.

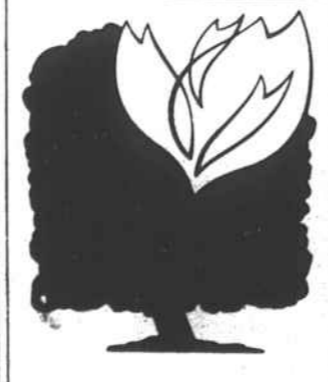

In identical attire were the bridesmaids: Miss Deborah Baughn of Roxboro, former college roommate of the bride; Miss Vicki Duke of Henderson, the bride's cousin; and Miss Janice Webb of Chapel Hill, former college classmate of the bride. Their bouquets of yellow and white mums were tied with green velvet.

David Daughtry of Emporia, Va., nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer. The groom had as his best man, Donald Pearce of Goldsboro. Ushers were Randy Wright and Sam Jones of Henderson and Randy Stainback of Raleigh.

Mrs. Smiley attended her daughter's marriage in a pink dress of polyester, with which she used matching accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

A beige dress of Irish lace knitted fabric was worn by the groom's mother. Matching accessories and white feathered carnations accented her attire. Immediately following the ceremony, guests were greeted in the vestibule of the church by the bride and groom, their mothers and the bridal attendants. Mrs. Wanda Wolfe presided over the guest book. For a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S. C. the bride changed to a white, sleeveless knit dress complemented by multi-colored scarf. Black patent accessories and the orchid lifted from her bouquet accented the outfit.

A 1966 graduate of Henderson high school, Mrs. Matthews received the B. S. degree in nursing from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1970. During the summer months, she has been employed

Vance County Technical Institute Testing Center

The North Carolina State Board of Education has authorized the establishment of an official GED Testing Center at Vance County Technical Institute.

The General Education Development test will provide a valid measurement as to the educational achievement of adults who fail to complete their formal high school education. The ability to administer and evaluate General Educational Development tests at Vance Tech will enhance the opportunities of many of the citizens of Vance, Granville, Warren and Franklin County areas in completing their high school education. The North Carolina high school equivalency program has been in operation for thirty years, and is part of a nationwide program approved and accredited by the American Council on Education.

Mr. G. Glenn Brookshire visited the local technical institute on the 11th of July. After an intensive study of the institute's facilities and the qualifications of its administration and teaching faculty, he made recommendations to the General Educational Development Testing Service for approval of the local testing center.

Mr. Jerry Walker, Chief Administrator for American Council on Education made the formal notification to Dr. Donald R. Mohorn, President of Vance Tech. Frank H. Madigan Director of Student Services has been designated by the institution as the chief examiner of the center. The establishment of the new center in this section of North Carolina will provide opportunities on the staff of Maria Parham hospital.

The groom, who was graduated from Aycock High School in 1966, served three years of duty in the U. S. Army, during which time he was stationed in South Vietnam and Germany. Beginning in September he will be a second-year student at Louisburg College.

The couple will reside in Louisburg.

for many of our citizens to qualify for employment opportunities through the possession of the equivalency of a high school diploma.

The GED Tests are a battery of five comprehensive examinations in the areas of English composition, social studies, natural sciences, literature, and mathematics. The tests are designed to measure as directly as possible for major generalizations, ideas and intellectual skills that are the outcome of four years of high school programs of instruction.

Emphasis is placed on intellectual power rather than detailed content and on the ability to comprehend exactly, evaluate critically, and to think clearly in terms of concepts and ideas.

Presently the percentage of individuals in the local and surrounding areas who have failed to complete high school is 43% of those between the age of 18 and 25, 62% of those past the age of 40. Through achievement of satisfied scores on the test, adults may earn a high school equivalency certificate. The certificate qualified them for admission to more advanced educational opportunities or for employment or promotion in the occupational areas.

The equivalency program does not provide an education. It merely offers a means by which past educational experiences may be evaluated and recognized. While there can be no substitute for a good basic high school education obtained through classroom experience, it is recognized that by force of circumstances many people have been denied this privilege. It is also recognized that out-of-school experience - travel, reading, self-directed study, social and economic contacts - can make a real contribution to educational attainment.

In addition to administer the GED test, Vance County Technical Institute has the ability to work with individuals in reviewing and improving their academic experiences through the facilities of the Learning Laboratory. Individuals in-

Connell Honored By Sportswear Employees

The employees of Carolina Sportswear honored Tom Connell at a going-away party on Friday, July 31, in recognition of his retirement. Mrs. Connell attended as honored guest.

John Andrews, plant manager said Mr. Connell has been employed at Carolina Sportswear since January 12, 1959, and has brought to the company many useful ideas and suggestions as well as excellent service during his employment. "Therefore, it was with much regret that we said good-bye to Mr. Connell, but also with gratitude for the wonderful opportunity of working with him through the years.

Andrews presented the gifts to Mr. Connell on behalf of all the employees. The gifts consisted of a London Fog all-weather coat and a barometer.

King Family Holds

Reunion On Sunday

The descendants of the late Armstead and Sara King held their family reunion on Sunday, Aug. 2, at the Wise School with some 100 persons attending from Richmond, Va., Yanceyville, Raleigh, Henderson, Manson, Norlina, Wise and Warrenton.

Served with the all-favorite Brunswick stew, made by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Paynter of Wise, were many delicious dishes of every kind. Mr. Luther Paynter asked the blessing.

Fellowship and entertainment were enjoyed and the hope was expressed that another reunion would be held next year.

Interested in taking the General Educational Development test should make application to the Director of Student Services at Vance Tech.

Following the presentation of the gifts, the employees were invited into the luncheon for refreshments. The guest table bore an arrangement of flowers and a beautifully decorated cake. Cupcakes, potato chips and pickle were served to the honored guests and all the employees.

Fishy Dressing

Lemon-caper dressing for fish or shellfish can be low-calorie or high, depending on your choice of salad dressing base. Combine 1/2 cup of either low-calorie mayonnaise-type dressing or regular mayonnaise with 1 tablespoon each of drained capers and lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon each of prepared mustard and worcestershire sauce and 2 drops of liquid hot pepper sauce. Chill. Makes about 2-3 cups of dressing, enough for six servings.
