Warren Families Are Stashing Away Funds

NEW YORK—Residents of Warren County seem to have their financial affairs under good control. As a whole, they are living well within their incomes, spending much less than they are earning.

Some of the surplus is being used by them to reduce their consumer debt. The remainder, or a considerable part of it, is being put into savings.

The evidence is seen in the rise in their bank deposits, in their savings and loan accounts and in their purchases of U. S. savings bonds.

During the past year, it is estimated, Warren County families stashed away some $1,135,000 in liquid assets.

As with people in other parts of the country, they have grown cautious. High prices, unemployment, strikes and other economic conditions have led them to postpone some of their big-ticket purchases and wait for a more favorable climate.

Meanwhile, they are accumulating a sizeable nest egg. This pool of purchasing power, when released, could spark a big buying surge.

Massenburg Rites Held On Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Nannie White Massenburg, 91, were conducted at Emmanuel Episcopal Church on Monday at 10:00 a. m. by the Rev. Robert W. Orvis, minister, and the Rev. Homer P. Starr of Baltimore, Md., followed by graveside prayers and burial in Fairview Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Alfred A. Williams, Hugh W. Holt, Pettway B. Boyd, M. P. Burwell, James Y. Kerr and Elton Dillard.

Mrs. Massenburg died at Warrenton General Hospital, Saturday, on her 91st birthday, after an illness of nearly six weeks.

The daughter of the late William Jones White, and Sue Blount Cawthorn White, Mrs. Massenburg was born in Warrenton, Sept. 19th, 1879. After graduating from the private school of Misses Lucy and Annie Hawkins, Mrs. Massenburg took a business course in Petersburg, Va.

She was married to the late John Lloyd Massenburg in 1908, and lived in Warrenton until 1965 when she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Twitty. She was a life-long member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, and for many years a Sunday School teacher. She was a charter member of the Warren County Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and served as Chapter president for three two-year terms at different periods. She also served as historian and a number of other offices. She was a former member of the D. A. R. chapter.

She is survived by a son, Walter Boyd Massenburg of Escondido, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Homer P. Starr of Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Henry F. Twitty of Warrenton and Mrs. William A. Jones of Atlanta, Ga.; one brother, Hugh E. White of Durham; six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter and a large number of nieces and nephews.

Out-of-town relatives and friends attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boyd Massenburg of Escondido, Calif., the Rev. and Mrs. Homer P. Starr of Baltimore, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Jones of Atlanta; her grandchildren, Panthea Ann Twitty of Bridgeville, Del., Walter Jones of Atlanta, Ga., and John Starr of Baltimore, Md.; Hugh E. White, Mr. and Mrs. Winfree Palmer, and Mrs. R. B. Boyd of Durham; Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. White and Mrs. Carson Dunning of Rocky Mount; Miss Fennie Lillian Massenburg and Miss Alice Mabry of Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Bowers of Littleton, and Misses Annie Boyd Morecock and Corinne Morecock of Halifax.

The figures on savings are based upon national findings reported by the Commerce Department and other agencies and upon income and sales data for each community.

They show, as would be expected, that the amount a family can save depends primarily on how much it has left after paying its bills for necessities.

Those with merely subsistence incomes were not able to save anything, of course. Those at the $5,000 after-tax level put aside 3.0 percent of it, on average and those at $7,000 about 5.2 percent. In the higher income brackets the rates were considerably larger.

In Warren County, where the average disposable income per household was $6,355 last year, according to the latest annual report, the overall rate of savings was 4.7 percent. It amounted to $300 per household.

Implied is that the rate in each community is similar, for each income group, to what it is in the rest of the country.

For the local population as a whole, the savings in the past year reached the imposing total of $1,135,000.

Nationally, such savings are touching $47.8 billion for the year, an increase of $5.2 billion over the previous year.

Fair Booth Creates Interest

The Industrial booth at the Warren County Fair created much conversation and many surprises, Frank W. Reams, Executive Director of the Industrial Commission, said this week.

Co-operating exhibitors either make a final product or the parts that go into the finished product. It appears that a great majority of the citizens of Warren County are unaware of its industrial complex and we appreciate their co-operation in displaying a sample of their production, Reams said.

The blue ribbon won by this booth is on display in the Industrial Commission offices. This office desires to thank the Warren County Fair for making available, without charge, some 50 running feet for the displays and the plant managers and their staffs, using their own initiative and ingenuity in arranging the displays, Reams said. "In fact, the overall exhibits at the fair were very outstanding. It can now be said that Warren County is now on the road to an industrial agribusiness complex."

The following co-operated in the multi-entry booth: Peck Manufacturing Company, Carolina Lumber Company, Carolina Sportswear Company, Inc., General Box Company, Warren Industries, Arcola Hardware Company, Warren Laboratories, Cochran Furniture Company, McPherson Beverages, Inc., Jay-Tee, Inc., Eller's Mum Gaiens, Allen Automotive, Warren County Forestry Club, Warren Co. Industrial Dev. Commission.
